THE QUEST FOR BEAUTY

Today the quest for beauty is universal. We all crave it. Seeking that instant feature of the face, making the process of preparing the impression, of character, and giving color, life and beauty to the pallored face, it is obvious that the eyes should be fitted in a manner that will retain, and even enhance, their charm and individuality.

Distinction, dignity, style smartness, has long been the face by the selection of the right spectacle frame.

THE COST OF SCHOOLS

(Exchange)

It is estimated that more than nine billion dollars is raised by various units of government in the United States each year by taxation. Roughly, this runs about ten per cent of the total national income. It includes federal, state and local taxation.

Public education takes more than one-fourth of the amount received from taxation. Elementary and secondary schools cost $2,180,000 each year, according to the Federal office of Education, and if colleges are included the total expenditure for education is very close to $2,500,000,000 annually. The actual value of the buildings, grounds and equipment used in the processes of public education is estimated at $8,283,586, of which about one-eighth is invested for collegiate purposes.

According to the National Education Association, the people spend more than three billion dollars for life insurance, more than two billions for certain luxuries, such as tobacco, confectionaries, ornaments, sports, jewelry and cosmetics, more than seven billions for automobiles, and between four and five twelve billion dollars for new automobiles.

It is doubtful if in the history of mankind any similar effort to extend education to every inhabitant has been made. The process has not been at work long enough yet to fully judge its results. There is a scientific age in existence. Men are spending many billions of dollars to develop the character as well as the mind in our educational process. Even now, more attention is being given to the moral aspects of character training.
