HINTS TO FARMERS

The main mistake makes such a big difference in the quality of the crop. Farmers should be careful to use the best quality of seed and to plant it in the best soil. They should also be careful to water the crops properly and to use the best fertilizers. Farmers should also be careful to protect their crops from pests and diseases. By following these hints, farmers can increase their yields and improve the quality of their crops.

Opening Tobacco Sales Tuesday, Dec. 8, 1931

Receiving Tobacco Now

Protect your crop against fire and theft by delivering it to one of our four big fireproof houses. We pay the insurance. Our experienced tobacco men see that every pound of your tobacco brings the high dollar. Each and every crop, large or small, gets our personal attention.

We cordially invite you to inspect our large and up-to-date warehouses. Compare them with others. Notice our construction, light, arrangement, scales, etc. Think of the care you will give your crop all year. Don't sacrifice your year's work at market time in poorly lighted, thin-walled sheds. Our solid brick and concrete warehouses preserve the condition of your crop and the buyers like our light. Then consider the care and attention we give to each crop in handling, weighing and selling, and you have the secret of our success in making and holding new customers.

With our total floor space of 150,000 square feet, we can handle your crop quickly, efficiently and without crowding. No delay or waiting for checks.

THE SCARLET CORD

Hangs From The Wall Of Jericho

A new story about "paper" money. A grocer puts out a price-tag on a barrel of potatoes. A ticket broker advises you that he sells "the best seats for the ball game." These are all forms of advertising.

Along the highways the motorist reads as he goes, "Fresh Eggs" or "Dahlias and Gladioli," or "Newly Picked Raspberries." These are all forms of advertising.

Few Englishmen of the Middle Ages could read, but each one knew a good bull, and all could therefore pick their favorite heraldry by the sign it displayed. By the costumes of the attendant hostelry a Roman could tell whether he was entering the temple of Adonis or Pallas Athena. Some hundreds of years before that a man named Joshua, the leader of a tribe of Jews, knew where to storm the city of Jericho because a scarlet cord hung from a window in the wall. These are all forms of advertising.

In each of these cases a sign of some sort told people what they wanted to know, where they could buy something, where they could avoid themselves of some special type of service.

The advertising in this newspaper tells you exactly these same things. But advertising is also a business force. It has been organized. Its results have been tested. Its value is known.

To the consumer it means shopping news. To the consumer it offers information of pleasant, agreeable ways to live. To both consumer and merchant alike it is a civilization, because it spreads information.

Advertising is as much a part of your life as your telephone, your food, your business or your family. Indeed, most of these things are possible, partly because of advertising!

The scarlet cord still hangs from the wall of Jericho.
