Did you know you had this kind of a Mill in Carlisle?

A Mill Inspector, after an absence of two years, which is very unusual, visited us last week and after a thorough inspection from basement to roof, with an eagle eye for any little thing that is not just right, announced to us that he could not make a single recommendation for any change or improvement, that the machinery was in A-1 condition and that the cleanliness and sanitary condition could not be improved upon.

This inspector made a like report two years ago and told us then we had the cleanest mill in the state.

If you were as well acquainted with Mill Inspectors as we you could not blame us for "pointing with pride" to such a recommendation as this.

So this is the kind of a mill that makes White Rose Flour

PREVENTING DIPHTHERIA

(Dr. J. L. Jones, Bureau of Epidemiology State Board of Health)

There she lay, an innocent babe fighting against the deadly membrane which gradually destroys its grip in her little throat.

Diphtheria Antitoxin may save her but many of it given in time. But why should she have diphtheria at all? Surely because its benefits are not being protected with that great preventive, toxin-antitoxin.

Diphtheria is caused by germs growing in the throat where they cause the formation of greyish material called a "membrane," which may become very large and thick as to block the air tubes and produce death through suffocation. The danger from diphtheria, however, does not mainly in suffocation. Diphtheria germs also produce a poison or "toxin" which, carried by the blood to all parts of the body makes the child dangerously ill, damages the organs and tissues of the body and may result in certain forms of paralysis or heart failure.

Diphtheria is a disease of childhood. Statistics show that there are about 80 percent of all deaths from this disease occur in children under 6 years of age.

With the advent of October we are in one of the most dangerous seasons of the year, for during this month and November, December and January diphtheria claims its heaviest toll of child life.

Many parents do not worry much about diphtheria because they have read or heard about the treatment of this disease with diphtheria antitoxin. They feel that with such a wonderful cure there is no danger.

It is true that antitoxin is a wonderful remedy and has saved many a life. A few years ago however, a method of preventing was discovered. Now, anybody is even more remarkable than the cure, and that method is toxin-antitoxin to be protected against diphtheria possibly for life. Of course, it is not a cure for the disease known as toxin-antitoxin commonly called "toxin." Toxin-antitoxin is a mixture of toxin and antitoxin so that the child receives a small amount of toxin which is not enough to cause the disease, but is sufficient to cause the body to produce its own antitoxin. This test requires about six weeks to complete and is entirely harmless.

2 In the laryngeal type of diphtheria the disease attacks the larynx or the windpipe, the child may cough as if it had croup. In this type Diphtheria may be suspected and the patient must be taken to the death-fighting serum that can be obtained.

3 Any case of diphtheria and all tasks the nose and may be recognized as such only by a culture test.

4 A person who has diphtheria must remain isolated and no one else may suffer from bad after-effects such as heart disease or kidney trouble.

5 Warn at once of diphtheria: members of the family are subjected to inconvenience from quarantine restrictions.

Hundreds of thousands of children have been protected from diphtheria by toxin-antitoxin and it has been proven a safe and reliable method. Because the disease is so much scarcer than it was a few years ago, many parents do not realize the seriousness of the point of injection. Some one in the family should have the toxin-antitoxin test to find out whether or not a person is protected. This test consists of injecting into the skin of the arm a very small amount of toxin-antitoxin. This test is painless and is no more than a mosquito bite. Within a few days a slight redness will appear around the site of injection. Such a reaction indicates that the child needs toxin-antitoxin for protection against diphtheria.

The Schick test may be used to quickly find out whether a child needs toxin-antitoxin and save the trouble of giving it to those who do not need it. However as most children under 10 years of age are not protected against this disease, that is, are susceptible to it, the safest way is to give toxin-antitoxin to each children without a previous Schick test is justified. All children treated with toxin-antitoxin should be given the Schick test about 6 months later to make sure they are protected. Occasionally a child will require another course of injections before developing complete protection against diphtheria.

The best time for children to have toxin-antitoxin is at the age of about one year. Before this age the child usually has some protection which has been handed down from its mother. From 6 months to 10 years nearly all children are susceptible to diphtheria. In fact, these are the most dangerous years as far as diphtheria is concerned. If protective treatment has been neglected these years it is not safe. It should be given to older children or adults who may be found to be susceptible to diphtheria as indicated by a positive Schick test.

Wherever toxin-antitoxin has been extensively used diphtheria has steadily decreased. This disease has been completely banished from many child-care institutions, schools and entire communities by this method.

Parents, do you realize that this source of childhood can be prevented? Do you realize that, through your cooperation, diphtheria can be completely banished? Do you realize that your child is in danger from diphtheria unless protected against the disease? Do you realize that your child is in danger from diphtheria unless protected against the disease?

PROGRAM

Tonight, Thursday comes Sally Eilers and James Dunn in "THE BAD GIRL" from Vina Delmar's novel. Here's a stirring, glowing story—drama that shakes the emotions like a jolt from life. Tears and smiles and lights and shades of romance. You'll like it because it's human. You'll applaud it because it's true. You'll cherish it because it's beautifully acted and directed—one of the finest pictures of the decade. Be sure and see this one.

Saturday—Gene Gerrish and Rita La Roy in "A HOLY TERROR." Romance of the great out of doors. A story of the old west. Don't miss this one. Also a comedy.

Monday—Comes Norma Shearer in "A FREE SOUL," one of the year's best pictures. Norma Shearer outshines previous roles in new dramatic hit. Audiences have seen Norma Shearer as a glittering society hail, they have seen her as a flaming sophisticate. But in "A Free Soul," in which she plays the sensational heroine of the Adela Rogers St. Johns novel, audiences literally see Norma Shearer which will be seen Monday. Don't miss this one.
