AVIAN TUBERCULOSIS CONTROL

Eight essential points in the control and eradication of avian tuberculosis which affects many farm poultry flocks, are summarized in a miniature poster just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, under the title "Free Your Poultry Flock of Tuberculosis." This poster, measuring 5 by 8 inches, is available to veterinarians, extension workers, and anyone interested in aiding in the eradication of this malady. A primary step in eradicating tuberculosis from the flock, the poster shows, is to "dispose of all birds more than 1½ years old and replace them with disease-free stock." Another recommendation is the "disinfection of chicken houses and equipment promptly after disease outbreaks." It is also important to "keep the land around poultry houses clean." "Carcasses of animals or fowls that die of disease should be burned or buried deeply," it shows further, "and in no case should such carcasses be fed to poultry or other stock." The principal symptoms of avian tuberculosis are shown to be light weight, lameness, droopiness, and marked paleness of the head. Post-mortem observations usually reveal white or yellow spots on the liver and tuberculosis knots on the intestines.

ONLY FOUR VETERANS

Two Confederate And Two Union Vets Left In Nicholas County

There are only four survivors of the Civil War in Nicholas county, according to the best information obtainable by The Mercury, two of whom are Confederates and two Union.

The two Confederate veterans are Z. T. Alexander, of Carlisle and Noel Waggoner, of the Beechwood section, both of whom served under General John Hunt Morgan. Mr. Wagoner was a member of the 8th Kentucky Cavalry and was engaged in many of the conflicts in which General Morgan participated. Mr. Alexander was a member of another regiment in General Morgan's division.

The two Union soldiers are J. T. Shingler, of Carlisle, and William Mitchell, of the Pleasant Valley section.

The ranks of the veterans of the Civil War have thinned out rapidly during the past few years. At the Confederate reunion held in Lexington last week only about a dozen attended.

Hendy Myers, who presided at the meeting held Saturday, Mr. Myers stated that the committee returned to Lexington on Wednesday of last week, but failed to attend a meeting to be held at Lexington on Friday of last week on account of the illness of Mr. Sterling. POOL MARKETING OF LEAF FAVORED

Burley Growers Also Desire Views Of Manufacturers On Future Crops Of Tobacco

A resolution indorsing the co-operative system of marketing the 1931 tobacco crop was adopted by the growers day by a committee of representative burley tobacco growers from Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana who met in the executive committee room of the Lexington chamber of commerce, it was announced here today.

Another resolution favored the selection of a committee by the executive committee of the Burley Growers' Co-operative Association and by the burley farmers and dealers through the auspices of the Federal Farm Board.

This meeting will be for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion of the manufacturers concerning an orderly marketing of the 1931 crop of burley and the crops of future years.

The date and the official board, and the entire congregation take this opportunity to thank their deep appreciation for every kindness shown, and for the beautiful floral offerings by her friends during the illness and death of our beloved mother.

Again, let us say, we are here to serve, as a people, as a church, and as a minister of Christ.

PREDICT LAFFOON TO WIN BY 34,000

Cincinnati Enquirer, After Survey, Believes Democratic Nominee Will Be Easy Winner

Predicting that Judge Laffoon will be elected by a majority of 34,000 votes, Sunday Cincinnati Enquirer says:

Judge Ruby Laffoon, Madisonville will be the next governor of Kentucky.

"Judge Laffoon will be elected by a majority that will run more than 34,000 votes," declared a man who put his into the fancy figures many of his friends considered extravagant, but which will be sufficiently impressive.

"This is the forecast that appears to be borne out by the results of the preceding the election. There is no doubt in this year of 1931 of any last-moment surprises or changes, such as last Monday's, are likely to happen to their advantage.

"Judge Laffoon will be elected, I say now, would be recounted as it will be on Tuesday, November 3.

"These are predictions and estimates and resolving them into the most probable result, the majorities by congressional districts should approximate these figures:

"Laffoon—First, 18,000; Second, 11,000; Third, 2,000; Fourth, 7,000; Sixth, 14,000; Seventh, 13,000; Eighth, 8,000; Ninth, 8,000.

Harrison—Fifth, 20,000; Tenth, 4,000; Eleventh, 4,000.

"This gives $2,000 to Laffoon and Taking Harrison's majority in Jefferson for the state a majority of 34,000. Somewhere in that neighborhood the governor's contest is complete."

MILLTOWN STORE IS BURGLARIZED

STORE IS TORN UP

Merchandise valued at several hundred dollars was taken from the store of Miss Annabelle Gill at Milltown at an early hour Monday morning by thieves who gained entrance to the store by prying open the front door.

After looting the store the thieves hauled the merchandise away in an old Chevrolet touring car, which was abandoned between Milltown and Moorefield, it is believed, and driven to the Model A Ford coupe from Frank Weaver at Moorefield, transferred the stolen goods to the machine of Weaver and made their getaway.

The robbery was discovered by Miss Gill when she went to her store early Monday morning and Sheriff J. M. Curry and Deputy Sheriff J. Clark Lee were notified.

The store had been almost completely wrecked by the thieves. Goods had been taken from the shelves and piled in the floor, the cash register and a bag of sugar and two bags of potatoes were carried off. The thieves thought the bags were emptied by the thieves to obtain the bags in which to carry the loot.

Miss Gill is unable to estimate the value of the goods taken because of the condition of the store. The loot consisted of overalls, shoes, underwear, dry goods, cigarettes, some firearms and various other articles.

The Chevrolet automobile believed to have been used by the thieves was also abandoned alongside the road, was brought to Carlisle Monday morning by officers. Three Planes To Be Brought To J. W. Linville Field On Moorefield Pike

APPEARANCE ASSURED

A real, honest-to-goodness flying circus will be held on the farm of J. W. Linville on the Moorefield pike, three miles from Carlisle, next Sunday if the weather permits, according to a representative of the flying circus with which Carlisle aviation fans completed arrangements for the flying circus.

No admission will be charged on Saturday and the public is invited to call and see the planes. No admission fee will be charged at the gate Sunday, however.

The program includes stunt flying, parachute jumps and carrying of passengers.

The company which is coming here Sunday is one that operated with the fake air circus scheduled to have been here over a month ago, several weeks ago.

The flights will, of course, depend upon the weather. Unless the day is unusually bad, however, the exhibition will be staged as advertised.

Reverse Judgment In Truck License Case

Reversing the judgment of Harrison circuit court in the case of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company against the state of Kentucky, the court of appeals Friday held that the state could require a higher license on non-resident trucks than on resident trucks because of the higher fees collected in operates two stores in Cynthiana.

The ordinance provided for a $25 license fee for trucks of 1½ tons or less and $50 on non-resident trucks. When the Kroger Grocery Company failed to take out the $50 license, a driver of one of the trucks was arrested and fined.

As the company is not subject to the higher tax, the appellate court held that the driver was not guilty of the charge on which he was arrested and that the Harrison circuit court erred in not sustaining a demurrer to the indictment on this ground.
