Laffoon Leads in County by 938 Majority; Miss Cox Is Leading J. A. Cameron 334

Special Edition of Louisville Times Wednesday Afternoon Forecasts Election of Laffoon In Kentucky By a Safe Majority; Louisville May Go Democratic

Although the day was ideal for the election, Nicholas county voters did but 40 votes more in Tuesday's election than were cast in 1927 in the Beckham-Sampson gubernatorial campaign. In this election Beckham carried the county by 765 votes.

Throughout the campaign little interest was manifested by Nicholas county voters, although leaders of both parties made every effort to arouse enthusiasm. Most of the precincts showed votes lower than 1927, and even with Sunnyside and Rafferty's since showing the greatest gains.

Primary interest in the local campaign was taken in the race for County Clerk between Miss Jeanette Cox. Democratic nominee to succeed herself, and James A. Cameron, who made the race on an independent ticket. Mr. Cameron made an effort to make an unsuccessful race for the Democratic nomination for the office, but was defeated by Miss Cox.

No disorders were reported at the polls in any precinct Tuesday, and the election was an quiet and orderly as an ever held in Nicholas county.

The six candidates for members of the city council, Ben Lail, Jr., Jesse Scott, Dr. A. T. Gardner, W. C. Talbert, M. T. Rankin and Owen Caywood, were unopposed and a very light vote was cast for the six men.

Fred Huffstetler was re-elected as a member of the Nicholas County Board of Education from the Fifth district and W. S. Gorrie was re-elected as a member from the First district without opposition.

The vote was unusually heavy throughout all counties in Central Kentucky, and although the result may not be known before the end of the week, Democratic headquarters believes Laffoon will be elected from between 30,000 and 40,000 majority over the number of votes cast.

Democratic organization of the next National House of Representatives was assured through the capture of the Eighth Michigan district, a Republican stronghold, in Tuesday's election.

Although the Democrats lost in the First Ohio district, formerly represented by the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth, the capture of the Michigan district gave the Democrats 217 seats and Republicans 215 seats, and Representative Lafferthe is only one more vacancy—in the Fifth New Jersey—normally Democratic, to be filled before the House organizes December 7. The other vacancy, in New York, is also Republican, cannot be filled until January 3.

A message to The Mercury office from Democratic State Campaign Headquarters in Louisville at 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon stated that the Louisville Times had issued an extra in which the election of Laffoon is predicted by a safe majority on the face of incomplete returns from a large number of counties.

According to Campaign Headquarters, reports received from the board from gives Laffoon a lead and it is probable he will be elected by a landslide.

Democratic leaders in Louisville claim they will carry the Fifth district, and a count of returns up until 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon showed the candidates running neck and neck.

Leg Band Layers For Hatching Eggs

Many good poultry raisers select breeding hens about this time of the year. Hens that are still laying on Nov. 1 usually are good breeders, says J. H. Hosking, head of the state poultry work at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

The later a hen lays in the summer and the longer the period over which she lays, the greater will be her production, so that the high producer is the late layer and hence the late molter, provided her summer ration has been balanced, Dr. Martin points out in a circular called, "When and How to Cull."

Leg band hens that are still laying and use their eggs for hatching next spring, is his suggestion.
