We have all helped to make ELECTRICITY your most inexpensive servant

Your electric service company strives constantly to provide electric service more economically. That's one reason why electricity is so inexpensive today. There is another reason. With the rate schedule arranged so that the unit price is less with each additional use, our customers have reduced their own rates by applying electricity to more and more of their household tasks. This working arrangement between customer and company makes electric service constantly more useful and constantly lower in cost. As you make fuller use of the service, your rate is always going down.
