"Make it Four, Father!"

If you once have a taste of the New NuGrape, you always come back for more. It's just that sort of a flavor—a mysterious some-hing, horn of plump Concord grapes and sunshine. There is noth-ing anywhere near like it, with its bouquet of deweripened grapes, and its sparkling, dancing life—as of champagne.

Next to impossible to keep the New NoGrape on ice at home—the family sensks in for "just another bottle," even when a case is purchased at time. But since Nature and Science betweet it and brought it to be deplayful state of appetizing perfection—you can drink as much as you please as often as you please.

There is no substitute for the New NuGrape. Accept none, for it would only mean disap-pointment. The genuine is sold everywhere
