TO THE VOTERS OF NICHOLAS COUNTY—

I want the people of Nicholas County to know that I sincerely appreciate its support that I received at the polls on August 5th, in my race for the nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney of the 16th Judicial District of Kentucky. It was one of the most enjoyable experiences of my life and I shall always remember with the kindest regards every one who in any way encouraged me in my candidacy. It was a pleasure to know you and my only regret is that it was impossible to meet all of you.

I congratulate my opponent upon his handsome and well deserved victory.

A CARD OF THANKS

JOHN F. SUGG
(From a picture made 13 years ago.)

Thanks, Thanks, Thanks!

Rastus, a colored lad, went to the village grocer and said: "Mr. Jones I wants you to write a letter for me."

"All right, Rastus, tell me what to write."

"I want you to write to Liza, my sweetheart, and gib her my love."

"All right Rastus. I have written that; now what else shall I say?"

"Gib her my love again," said the lad.

"All right, Rastus, I have written that again, now what else shall I write?"

"Gib her my love again," said the lad, "and tell her to 'scuse bad writin' and spellin'."

Rastus was not content with saying it once—neither am I.

I thank you, friends, for your condolence, kindness and loyal support in my race for County Clerk. I thank you, and again I thank you.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

A time of sadness was thrown over the entire community upon the sudden death of our co-worker Paul D. Darnall who so willingly and unselfishly worked for the betterment and uplift, not only of our hospital, but of the entire community.

Judge Darnall was appointed by the fiscal court a hospital director and later a member of the executive board of directors and it was through his endless efforts that the organization was completed and the institution established which has for the past four and one half years been so successfully operated. What an inspiration the life of Paul Darnell has been!

God knew all about how noble, How tireless he was and how brave How brilliant his possible career. Yet put him to sleep in his grave.

God knew all about those who loved him,
How bitter their trial must be,
And right through it all He is loving him,
And knows so much better than we.

So in the darkness we're trusting,
One day we shall say it was well.
God took from his young brow earth's laurels,
And crowned him with death's immortelles.

Resolve that we, the members of the executive board of Johnson Memorial Hospital, extend to his wife and children, mother and sister, our sincere sympathy in this their hour of trial.

Resolved that a copy of this memorial be spread at large upon the minute book of our board, a copy of same be sent to the family of Judge Darnall and a copy to the Carlisle Mercury.

Sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes are a thing of the past. Some are the victim of the drouth, the others of the chinch bug.

WILL ASK CONGRESS TO MAKE BLUE LICK A NATIONAL SHRINE

Says C. Frank Dunn At Anniversary Celebration At Blue Licks State Park

MANY ATTEND EVENT

Between 2,500 and 3,000 people listened to the program commemorating the 152nd anniversary of the last battle of the Revolution" at Blue Lick State Park last Saturday.

Judge A. M. J. Cochran presided at both the morning and afternoon sessions. The principal address of the day was delivered by Judge Samuel M. Wilson, whose subject was, "The Shawnee Warriors at the Blue Licks."

Judge Wilson traced the nomadic wanderings of the Shawnees terming them the "Bedouins of the American Wilderness." He said they were the only Indians that had ever succeeded in gaining a foothold" in Kentucky. He sketched the romantic career of the brilliant chief Tecumseh, whose name meant "Crouching Panther," or "Shooting Star." Telling of his military prowess his magnanimity in the treatment of prisoners and his efforts to unite the Thames river in 1813, when the British and Indians were defeated on the river Thames by General Harrison and Shelby, the chief Tecumseh being slain by a Kentuckian, Col. Richard M Johnson. Judge Wilson presented to Blue Licks Memorial a likeness of Tecumseh painted on a panel of wood.

James Tandy Ellis, well-known Kentucky orator, cited the bravery of the Kentuckians in the battle of Blue Licks battle and sustained the claim of many historians that, conceded the odds were greatly against the pioneers, the Indians exhibited bravery and fighting ability that matched the whites in many respects. General Ellis' address was "The Heroes of Kentucky."

Blue Licks in pioneer American history paralleled Yorktown in Colonial American history and should be lifted from the field of state shrines to the reverence and distinction that goes with federal designation of a national monument, C Frank Dunn, Lexington writer and historian, said in an address on "What Pals Mean to a State." Such a project, coupled with Boonesboro, Boone's Station and Bryan Station, he introduced at the next session of Congress by Senator Alben W. Barkley.

"The great pioneer stage where the Kentucky drama in the Revolutionary War drama was staged—that blood-soaked arena from the Cumberland gap to the Blue Licks whence the boundaries of a new-born nation were pushed across the Appalachians to the far shores of the Pacific—is to be proposed as the site for a long neglected and richly deserving National Memorial. It is a project in keeping with the spirit of gratitude that led the congress to establish at Yorktown and adjacent territory a similar National Colonial monument," said Mr. Dunn.

The morning program consisted of informal talks by Major General and Mrs. George B. Duncan, Mrs. James Tandy Ellis and the Rev. D. Hervey McDonald, Raleigh. Mr. McChesney and Mrs. Ellis represented patriotic societies. Harry V. McChesney, Frankfort, spoke on "The Kentucky Historical Society." James L. Isenberg, Harrodsburg, who was to speak on "Pioneer Memorial State Park," telegraphed that he was unable to attend and urged action to have Boonesboro made a National Monument. During the noon hour, Prof. W. B. Dietrich, Georgetown, lectured on pre-historic bones and Indian relics in the Blue Licks Museum.

Addresses in the afternoon were made by J. Thatter Sims, Mt. Olivet Kentucky county attorney, who welcomed the visitors in a brief address. Another speaker was J. Bernard Coughlin, of Maysville, state republican committeeman from Mason county in the general assembly.

The celebration was arranged by Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, director of state parks, who deserves great credit for the successful and enjoyable program.

Prof. J. W. Ireland, of Frankfort, led community singing and the program included singing by a quartet composed of Mrs. Edna Keller, Mrs. W. C. Talbert, Taylor Masters and Judge Innes B. Ross, of Carlisle. Invocations were delivered by the Rev. Floyd Montgomery, Mt. Olivet, and the Rev. Robert Mullikin, Pinon, with the benediction by the Rev. H. W. Alexander, Carlisle.

Loan applications from 1,062 Kentucky farmers were received by the Louisville Federal Land Bank during July, according to L. O. Hobson, information agent for the bank. The amount of the loan sought was $1,- 517,000. Hobson said 8,976 Kentucky farmers now are borrowers from the bank, their loans amounting to $11,- 700,000.42.

Home Owners May Apply For Loans

Applications For Refinancing Homes May Be Made To Attorney Or Appraiser

Applications to the Federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation for refinancing homes may be made by residents of Carlisle and Nicholas county at the R. Ross at his office, on Main street.

This is under the relief act passed by the Congress to help home owners whose properties are encumbered for more than being pressed or in danger of losing their homes, to save homes in danger of foreclosure on their homes, but neither seemed advisable, or was denied, after putting up a new hospital, one of the down stair wards would be a good home for the children. We realized this could not be used as a home for any but young youngsters very long as sick people and lively children do not get well together. As all of the Tibetan people do not have as many nerves sticking out as do American people if we left them for two years, or until we got up our school building. It was in July 1918 when we first started the Orphanage. For years we had generously supported the children themselves, then later on appointed a committee to look into the school classes, Christian Endeavor, etc. The majority of the orphans were assigned to them, they kept up with the child and we tried to teach the child that he or she was being supported by certain individuals or classes as the case might be. Our largest number was seventy-one. Among them the ages of one year to fifteen years of age. When they were first brought to us the first thing to do was scrub them up, I do not say give them a bath for that is too mild a word, what they needed was a thorough scouring for they had never seen a hot water faucet, let alone a bath tub, and the only cold water just ready to run in with a little twist. After the body was all clean the head was shaved, boy or girl treated alike, then nice clean blue cotton suits and in this case all were treated alike, boys and girls all wore blue, and white underclothing. In traveling across China one is aware of the fact that the people are fond of dark blue cloth for as every river bank, on every road where charcoal burners, and in fact, almost in blue everywhere, and now and then a white shirt. One time a missionary said it seemed too bad to make the orphans wear blue, but they like it, why not, let them have red, flowered, striped and such and have a variety?" I do not fear they would have felt out of place, and felt they were being singled out and stared at, so with the common people, yes but with the classes, no. Those who wear they wore blue Chinese cloth, took a bath in a round wooden tub, had their hair cropped, ate with chop sticks, but not spoons, knives or forks.

After school the older ones worked in the wheat and barley fields and in the garden, while the smaller children played, and at times stole away and brought home a few ears of corn, some English walnuts, apricots, peaches, yes, and sun flowers seed. I think they were the fondest of the latter. They were as human as our own children here in this land and no matter how much you told them it was wrong, once in a while they would get away and they always ate the seeds, shells and all. I believe it was my, not hungry pains that ever left me when I went hungry and returned. I remember one boy would come out to meet even were in the street and beggar me for food. He finally had to leave and find other quarters. That was only until I could if ever felt I made a complete failure with and gave him up as hopeless. I always tried to be patient and remember how good the people and apples looked just over the fence of our neighbors in Kentucky.
