THE CARLISLE MARKET

Under The Management Of James Shelton

WILL OPEN SALES ON

Wednesday, December 13th

Best Prices Unexcelled Light Best Treatment

We are here to give the farmers of this community a tobacco market. A market to which you can haul your tobacco and get it sold in a reasonable time. There will be no waiting one, two or three weeks at big expense incurred by extra trips to foreign markets.

All we ask is that you give us an opportunity to show you. If our market is not satisfactory we do not expect your patronage, but if we do prove our claims we believe it your patriotic duty to patronize and help build up your home market, which we consider one of the most logical marketing points in the State.

YOUR TOBACCO WILL BRING AS MUCH HERE AS ANYWHERE ELSE IN KY.

FROM OVER THE LINE

(By J. W. Rogers)

We were intensely interested in W. M. Hammond's prize essay in reading books, which appeared in a late Mercury. We took the privilege of reading the essay before our school at Alcorta. It was highly appreciated and complimented.

We have not noticed an answer to the Headquarters correspondent's question recently, asking for a word of five letters from which two may be taken and one is left. We think it is the word "stone." If s-t be taken, o-n-e will be left. Am I right? Other words of the "one" family composed of five letters, however, will also answer, such as crone prone, drone, etc. We would like a list of words to spell backwards, such as madam, revivel, Nella Allen, etc.

Long time ago, Ben Hardin, a famous Kentucky lawyer, to a speech against free public schools, told the following story: "I knew a man who had to prove a settlement. A small amount was involved. In giving his testimony, he often used words of many syllables, and often inappropriate to the sense. I saw quickly he was a country school-master. When the jury returned a verdict for settlement I asked, 'When did it take place?' He said, 'On the 39th of October.' Did you say on the 39th of October?' I asked. 'Yes, sir,' he said. I said 'Are you not mistaken? Was it not on the 28th?' He replied, 'No sir, I know the use of words as well as you do, and I say it was on the 39th.' Then I asked, 'How many days in October?' He didn't remember exactly, but said he thought 'It was somewhere between forty and fifty.' 'How many months in the year?' I asked. 'Over ten and under fifteen, not certain,' he replied. Then, I asked, 'Are you a schoolmaster?' 'Yes sir thank God, that's my occupation and I'm proud of it. I am making an application for a free school here, and I want you to help me.' I said, 'I'll do so with all my heart, for you measure up exactly to my notion of a free school teacher.'"

Words cannot express our sympathy for Martin Peebach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shell Peebach, in his almost unbearable affliction. We lost our right arm in infancy, which indeed was bad, but Martin's affliction may be worse. We are grateful for the best that can come to him under conditions.

ACREAGE CUT DELAYED

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration, in a statement given out last week, announced that its barley adjustment acreage control program will not be completed for several weeks. It was expected that the contracts would be in the hands of tobacco growers by the first of December, but officials said the contract has not been drawn. The administration said it is now at work on the barley program.

GOVERNOR WILL NOT ASK ASSEMBLY FOR ADDITIONAL REVENUE

Governor Declares He Will Veto Appropriations That Exceed Revenues

SCHOOLS FACE CRISIS

Speaking before 56 members of forthcoming legislature at a conference at Lexington Tuesday afternoon Governor LaFoon declared he will not ask the legislature that convenes in January to pass any measure to raise additional revenue.

After he became Governor, he said, the revenue of the state had fallen from $38,000,000 a year, outside of the road department, to $14,000,000 a year. Next year, he said, revenue will fall to approximately $12,000,000

Despite the loss in revenue of nearly $7,000,000 annually, the Governor said, and despite the fact that the last regular session appropriated $8,000,000 more than it had revenue available to meet, the state government, outside the road department, in the fiscal year ending July 1, 1932, ran only $750,000 behind.

The Governor said that perhaps without full authority of law he had prompt individual items in the budget measures, but if the next legislature runs over on appropriations he will veto the entire appropriation. He declared that unless money is made available he will close up departments of the state, lock them and send those who are manning them home.

This came as a somewhat dire warning in that it followed a statement of James H. Richmond, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, that "if something isn't done" 75 per cent of the schools will be operating on a five-months basis next year.

Musketeers In First Conference Tilt Friday

(By John Parker Ross)

The Musketeers will go to Lawrenceburg Friday, Dec. 15, for their first Conference basketball game of the 1933-34 season. Lawrenceburg will have played one game when they meet the Musketeers defeating the strong Midway team by a close score last week. As every follower of basketball knows, Lawrenceburg usually has a strong team and this year is not an exception to the rule. Hickory Bill Searcy, augmented by some good old men, will be a hard team to Lick, but the Musketeers look far better than they did last year, in fact, for a number of years.

The Musketeers will journey to Lawrenceburg in two cars with Coach Carlisle to engage the Musketeers on the hardwood. Practice started starting practice with the beginning of school, with the exception of a few weeks when they take the floor Tuesday night. Coach Carlisle has driven men on the varsity squad, and that reserve material will tell in the game with the Musketeers. Practice sessions are always hard-fought affairs, bunch of dead-eye basketers and will bear watching from start to finish.

We request that the fans turn out for the Conference game because the cause they always have a big following and we expect some long distance supporters as well.

And now for the games on Dec. 22, the homecoming games, the "C" Club reunion, and general get together meeting of the old timers of school game will be a corker, as is always the best in the league. This team ever winning by more than two points' game, and the Cowboy-Hoosa of David game. The center on the House of David team is almost 8 feet tall, and do you remember the redheaded, red whiskered player with those pants? Well, he is with them again this time, More about that game later. Come out Thursday and see the North Middletown-Muskeeter encounter.

Calls Meeting On The Poultry Code

On account of numerous requests received by the College of Agriculture at Lexington for information about the poultry code, a meeting has been called to be held at the office of County Agent R. H. Lickert at Plemington at 1 o'clock, Dec. 15.

The hatchery-breeder code of fair competition for the poultry industry has been framed and is expected to become effective in the near future. It must be followed by all hatchery owners, producers of breeding stock and hatching eggs, whether or not they are in business.

All persons interested in poultry raising are urged to attend the meeting at Plemington. For further information write to County Agent Lickert or to the College of Agriculture.

Wool Theft Cases Moved To Paris

Seven Men Charged With Stealing Wool Which Was Found Here To Face Trial At Paris

Seven men charged with stealing $400 worth of wool from a barn on the farm of Mrs. Will Guy were placed in custody of Bourbon county officers Monday after their cases, docketed before Judge W. H. Blackerford in the Clark circuit court, were transferred to the Bourbon circuit court.

The Guy farm is on the Bourbon-Clark line, but the barn from which the wool was stolen is situated on the Bourbon side. The seven defendants are Jesse Busby, Nicholas county; Bruce and Curtis Tackett, W. M. Price, Charles Owens and Charles Rogers.

The wool was stolen last spring and was recovered in the upper attic of a house on the East Union pike in this county occupied by Jesse Busby. Busby, who was arrested in connection with the case, was released on bond.

Committee To Pass On Ads

Business Men Form Organization To Investigate Advertising Schemes Offered Here

Business men of Carlisle reflected this week the organization of an advertising committee to pass on all advertising projects submitted to the merchants of the town by agents and solicitors. Such committees exist in most of the larger towns and it is necessary for the man who comes into town with an advertising scheme to call on the committee before vouching for the merit of the project.

Carlisle merchants have frequently been taken in by high-powered salesmen, selling advertising schemes largely worthless, or, when of any worth whatever, in most of the cases leaving town. Under the plan evolved this week, no business man need to take time to listen to the sales talk of an out-of-town salesman unless he bears a card from the local Merchants' Advertising Committee. All merchants in Carlisle will be given full details of the plan by letter.

Cochran Frees Dry Violators

Fifty-Five Defendants Dismissed In Federal Court At Calleltsburg Monday

Ruling that offenses against the prohibition amendment committed while the defendants had not been tried before the law was repealed could not be prosecuted, Federal Judge Ernest Cochran ordered 55 persons arrested on charges of violating the Eighteenth Amendment.

Judge Cochran told defendants that repeal of the prohibition enforcement law did not alter cases in which defendants had been indicted previously, or in which they have been placed on probation.

"This court has always stood squarely behind enforcement of the national prohibition law," he said, "and will strictly enforce the internal revenue laws regulating the manufacture, selling and moonshining." Judge Cochran said.

He called attention to the fact that there are still state laws governing liquor traffic, and said that in his belief these laws would be enforced in a strict manner.

Howard O. Hunter said he would return to this state shortly "to tell state officials that we must business and unless they take measures to share of the burden there will be no more relief.

SHARPSBURG FARMER ENDS HIS LIFE WITH SHOTGUN AND RAZOR

Charles Rogers, 52, Died At Local Hospital Saturday Night From Injuries

WAS ILL FOUR YEARS

Charles Rogers, 52 years old, well known farmer of the Sharpsburg section, died at the Johnson Memorial hospital here Sunday morning at 3 o'clock of self-inflicted gunshot and knife wounds.

Rogers was brought to the hospital about 8 o'clock Saturday night by Dr. E. B. Haller, who was called to the Rogers home on the farm of Walter Shrout near Sharpsburg.

According to members of the family, Rogers went into another room after eating his supper Saturday night. A short time later the family heard the report of a gun, but upon entering the room were told by Rogers that he had not heard the report. Rogers was left alone in the room and when the family again entered a short time later they found him slumped in a chair in a pool of blood.

Mr. Rogers first attempted to end his life with a shotgun, evidently aiming to shoot himself through the heart. The gun probably slipped and the charge struck him in the left arm, badly mangling the arm. He then went to a dresser, obtained a razor and slashed his throat on both sides, the jugular vein being severed on one side.

His arm was amputated at the hospital after he had been brought here.

Mr. Rogers had been in ill health for four years and is said to have brooded over his condition. He was known as an industrious, hard-working man and had many friends in his community. He is survived by his wife and five children.

The body was removed to his home in Sharpsburg, from which place funeral services were held and burial took place in the Sharpsburg cemetery.

Cynthiana Sheriff Dies In Missouri

R. S. Kitchen, 54 years old, nearing the end of his term as Sheriff of Harrison county, died Tuesday afternoon in the hospital at Savannah, Mo., where he suffered a stroke of paralysis Friday.

Mr. Kitchen went to the Missouri hospital about two weeks ago for special treatment. He had served nearly four years as Sheriff having been elected after four years as a deputy.

He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Ann Lee and a brother.

Sale Of Beer, Liquor In Louisville Unrestricted

Louisville beer drinkers may imbibe all the brew they can hold regardless of whether it is above 3.2 percent alcohol, and need not fear prosecution from authorities.

Following a ruling of Frankfort by Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton that Kentuckians may buy stronger than 3.2 beer from out-of-state prescriptions, Roy Easley safety director of Louisville, said that he has told him whether dealers dispensed 3.2 or 4 per cent beer when it was sold to end the sale of one as legal as the other and that no attempt would be made to interfere with the sale of the stronger drink.

Sale of liquor in Louisville is reported as practically open and unrestricted. Some drugstores even have displays of whisky and wine in their windows and on their counters. Some required amusement parks have announced that inasmuch as national prohibition was a thing of the past they would sell whatever a customer wanted.

New Banking Code To Go Into Effect December 31

Banking restrictions which were to have gone into effect December 2 under the code approved by the Kentucky Bankers Association, have been postponed until December 31, awaiting final action on approval of the code by President Roosevelt.

Other charges include charges on loans and on checks returned marked "not sufficient funds." On the latter checks depositors will be required to pay 25 cents under the national code.

Christmas Tree Here Probable

Lions Club And Legion Will Probably Provide Treat For Poor Children Of County

While definite arrangements have not been completed, Carlisle will in all probability have a community Christmas tree for the unfortunate children of the county.

The Lions Club at a recent meeting voted to sponsor a Christmas tree in conjunction with the American Legion if the Legion would assist. At the regular monthly meeting of the Legion a committee composed of E. E. Pfanstiel, E. B. Kendall and E. G. Meriwether was appointed to work with the Lions Club in promoting the tree. The Lions Club sponsored the Christmas tree last year. For several years the local post of the American Legion provided all funds and gave a Christmas tree to some 400 or seven hundred poor children of the county. Last year the Legion devoted all of its efforts to the forward-looking Christmas dinner for unfortunate ex-service men.

Farmers Pleased With Sales As Carlisle Tobacco Market Opens With $12.60 Average

TOBACCO CONTROL PROGRAM PROPOSES BIG CUT IN BURLEY

A. A. A. Announces Plan To Reduce Production And Raise Prices

$15,000,000 IN BENEFITS

A production adjustment program declared to limit the 1934 burley tobacco crop to approximately 250,000,000 pounds and improve prices to growers was announced Sunday by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Growers who sign agreements to reduce their acreage will receive about $15,000,000 from the government, Approximately $5,000,000 will be paid when the agreement is executed properly, and the remainder will be distributed later as adjustment payments based on sales value of the growers' 1933 crop, provided participating in the program will refrain from producing more than their production either 23 1-3 or 50 per cent of their base acreage and base tobacco production.

The base tobacco acreage and base tobacco production for an individual farm, according to the agreement, shall be one of the following: (a) The average acreage and production for 1932 and 1932; (b) 80 per cent of the average acreage and production for 1931, 1932 and 1932; (c) 80 per cent of the average acreage production for 1932; (d) 75 per cent of the largest production for 1932. Administration officials pointed out that the choices allowed growers in selecting a base payment will permit any grower to sign an agreement and qualify for payment if he grew tobacco in 1931, 1932 or 1933.

"Producers who take part in the reduction program will receive three payments," the A. A. A. announcement said. "There will be a rental payment of $20 for each acre that is required to be taken out of production. The rental payment, according to the agreement, will be made before March 1, 1934, or not more than 30 days after the agreement is accepted by the Secretary of Agriculture.

"The other payments will be adjustment payments and will be made in 10 per cent of the sales value of the 1933 crop, if the grower reduces his 1934 acreage by 33 1-3 per cent. If he reduces his acreage by 50 per cent, the first payment will be 15 per cent of the sales value of the 1933 crop.

"The second adjustment payment will be not less than 15 per cent of the sale value of the producer's 1934 crop if the producer has reduced his tobacco acreage and production by 33 1-3 per cent in accordance with the agreement. If the reduction was 50 per cent, the second payment would be not less than 35 per cent of the sale value of the 1934 crop. The second adjustment payment will be deducted each grower's pro-rata share of the rental expenses and of the county tobacco production control association.

A burley tobacco control association will be established in each county producing burley tobacco, and growers signing agreements will become members of these associations automatically. The primary function of the associations will be to certify agreements signed by burley producers and to certify the performance of the agreements.

Four Wounded By Bandits After Shelbyville Robbery

Four persons were wounded, two seriously, in a fusillade of shots exchanged by three robbers armed with machine guns and the night watchman of a chain grocery store at Shelbyville Monday. The burglary-robbery section of the town was thrown into wild excitement.

Wynne Selected As Coach At University Of Ky.

Chet Wynne, head coach of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala., last Thursday was offered a three-year contract to become head football coach at the University of Kentucky. Protest New High School In Bourbon

More than two hundred patrons of Bourbon county high schools assembled at their respective schools last night to enter their protest against a movement now being considered by Bourbon county board of education to erect a central high school somewhere in the county to take the place of the half dozen schools now located in different parts of the county.

This meeting, which followed a similar protest meeting at Millersburg earlier in the week, was presided over by Thomas Jones, school trustee at North Middletown. The county school patrons from all of the county high school districts were present. Resolutions protesting against the proposed move for a central high school were presented by John Willis Jones, North Middletown banker who was unanimously adopted. Mr. Mike McVey, of Paris, superintendent of the county schools, was present and stated that no final action regarding the project had been taken by the county school board.

Sales were held at six houses, four of them being blocked when the burley prices slipped.

The floor averages ranged from $12.30 to $14.15. The highest crop average was $21.25 paid for a crop sold from a farm near Paris.

Tobacco was moving on the floors of ten apparently brought satisfactory prices, however. November 15, County Agent R. J. Matson, Ed Claffin and several parents assisted the teachers members on their trip. Mr. Bankin served a hot lunch around a campfire in the woods and after some songs and yells everyone enjoyed the grapevine swings.

Other trips of this nature are being planned for the year in connection with various projects of club work.

NO REJECTIONS, NO COMPLAINTS; HIGH BASKET PRICE $26.50

Farmers Satisfied With Sales On Market Here. Other Markets In State Open

CLOSE THREE MARKETS

The Carlisle tobacco market opened Wednesday morning at Farmers Warehouse No. 1 when 28,000 pounds of tobacco sold for a total of $3,612.86, or an average of $12.60 per hundred pounds.

Due to the weather conditions, which dried out tobacco, the sale was much lighter than had been anticipated. Many farmers have indicated they will move their tobacco as soon as it comes in case.

The floor sold for prices ranging from $2 to $25.50. A large number of baskets brought above $20 per hundred.

Not a basket was rejected. Few if any crops on the floor brought less than an average of $10 per hundred.

The next sale will be held on Wednesday, December 20, in all probability.

The offering was mostly of a fairly good quality, and as a whole much better than last year's crop.

The information over the sale was expressed by farmers. While many expressed the opinion that the market was selling too low, every farmer who was asked stated that he believed the Carlisle market was as good as any in the state.

Several farmers told a representative of The Mercury that the prices were as good as on the opening sale at Lexington Monday and better than on Tuesday's sales.

Some of the better crop averages were as follows: A. W. Shrout and Taylor Sharon, 2220 pounds, $13.06; W. P. Ham & Son, 1285 pounds, $11.30; Mrs. Mollie Hamlin and Alvin Walton, 370 pounds, $17.71; Christine Ledford, 200 pounds, $12.50; Joe Gaunce and Jerry Kenney, 1210 pounds, $12.20; Mrs. Tom Hildreth and Henry Rogers, 770 pounds, $11.91; Arthur Earlywine, 290 pounds, $11.80; W. D. McEntire and Everett McEntire, 1243 pounds, $13.07; Henry Myers and Clayton Cannon, 1960 pounds, $12.20.

Higher prices on all tobacco except best grades marked the opening of the Lexington burley tobacco market Monday as a total of 1,158,905 pounds of leaf went over the floors for an average of $13.80 a hundred.

Apparently satisfied with the prices, which averaged $1.15 a hundred pounds more than last season, opening average of $12.05, the sales of ten thousand farmers, buyers and warehousemen were there from all corners of the burley belt for the opening sale, followed the sales with interest.

The price range on Mobley's auctions was from $2 a hundred pounds for green and frozen tips to $25.50 a basket for fat baskets of leaf. The several baskets sold for $24 and $25 per hundred.

Most sold from $3 to $7; red leaf brought from $7 to $11; bright leaf from $10 to $15; lugs from $12.50 to $20; trash from $12.50 to $21, and tips ranged from $11 to $20.
