THE EAGLE'S ORIGIN

In the conference attending the activities of the N. R. A. there has been much discussion over the origin of the Blue Eagle. It put the question to President Roosevelt. Mr. Crane, one of General Johnson's star publicity men:

"Don't you know who originated the Blue Eagle?" he exclaimed.

"I am amazed at your ignorance." He paused for a moment so that I would feel the full force of his scorn and then went on: "Why, Frank Wilson invented the Blue Eagle. Of course the actual drawing was made by a professional artist, but the idea was Frank Wilson not only hatched the Blue Eagle but he taught it to fly. Don't just answer your questions?"

I did not, except I was a bit hurt about the identity of Frank Wilson. So I tenderly instituted a second inquiry: "Who is Frank Wilson?"

"You don't know Frank Wilson?" spluttered Mr. Crane. He was speechless for a few seconds and then his breath returned. "Why, Frank Wilson is the man who sold all the Liberty bonds during the World War."

That, of course, refreshed my memory. Frank Wilson, a newspaper man from Sioux City, Iowa, was on of the Government's most effective publicity specialists in selling Liberty bonds to the American public. Yes, I remember him, but what, I asked, had he been doing all these years since the Liberty bond campaign?

"Why, he's been raising chickens," said Mr. Crane. "He has a big poultry farm up at Pawling, N. Y. He keeps about 5,000 White Leghorns for eggs. He has every newfangled contraption to make the hens lay. Every efficient in laying. He's really a masterful the way he makes them work. He gets them up long before daybreak by artificial sunrise and keeps them working until far beyond the hour for good chickens to go to roost. He isn't satisfied until they lay at least three eggs a day. I'm thinking of asking General Johnson to give them a code.

"But all my friends warned him not to go into the chicken business. But there was no stopping him. For a while he almost lost his shirt and then the State of New York decided to erect a large hospital near his farm. His eggs are in such demand that he can't spare any for his own breakfast table.

"I suppose," Mr. Clair concluded solemnly, "that it was his constant association with winged creatures that gave him the idea of the Blue Eagle."

Fourteen Nicholas County Boys In Forestry Camp

Tallbrook, Calif.
C. C. C. Co. 569
Aug. 18, 1933

Mr. Grimes Caywood,
Dear Sir—

As members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, we will express our opinion of what we think it means to boys of our standing.

It not only gave us work, which the greatest majority of us needed very badly, but gave us a chance to see the biggest majority of the western states and to see for ourselves what the west really looks like, as we had read about so much when we were in school. And part of us have the chance to go aboard the navy ships in San Diego port and see partly what the navy is like and what the navy boys have to do.

We left Carlisle on the thirtieth day of May, all as happy as larks and wanting to get where we were going. Went to Lexington for examination, which most of the boys passed without any trouble. We were issued railroad tickets to Fort Knox and given lodging at the The Leland Motel and also meal tickets. We left Lexington on May thirty-first for Camp Knox, where we stayed until the thirteenth day of June.

We arrived in Camp Knox about half-past two and when we saw all the tents and surroundings, I believe most of us were ready to turn around and come back home. But soon changed our mind as the first thing was a good meal, which made us feel quite a lot better, after which we were examined again and assigned to a company which all of us got in but two or three who came off and got into another company. They later got transferred into our company, which made all the boys from Carlisle in the same company.

We were all pitiful looking until we got a chance to change our clothes so they would fit us. As it happened, I don't think we could have gotten a better captain, who is Captain Lieutenant Lee Lewis, made Captain C. C. Westfall.

We remained in Camp Knox until June thirteenth, on which we boarded the train for California. The train was a Pullman and we remained on it for five days and four nights, only at a few stops that we made to get off of the stations to get off and take exercise, which was enjoyed by all. And something that all of us looked forward to was crossing the Mississippi river at about one o'clock in the night by a ferry boat, and we never had to move out of our seats. The train just rolled up on the ferry and we were across in a few moments. But when we crossed the desert everybody looked disappointed because it was so hot and dry.

On Sunday, June 18, we arrived in Tallbrook, California. We were greeted by a few of the citizens and the rangers who were in charge of our work. The rangers had trucks and buses to haul us to our camp, which is six miles from the railroad. We at once set up our stoves and made things ready to cook our meal, and afterwards we moved our equipment to the camp and began to clean off the grounds. We slept under the trees for about two weeks while we put up our mess hall, infirmary, tool shed, supply room and officers tents and also our tents which inclues twenty-one.

After we had everything fixed up in tip-top shape, we were sent out on the roads to make fire breaks around them. This consists of cutting down all trees and grubbing the roots out and cleaning of the leaves.

There are twenty-five men kept in camp all time so in case of fire we are ready to go. We had a little experience in fire on June 30. It was which is six miles from the railroad. We at once set up our stoves and made things ready to cook our meal, and afterwards we moved our equipment to the camp and began to clean off the grounds. We slept under the trees for about two weeks while we put up our mess hall, infirmary, tool shed, supply room and officers tents and also our tents which inclues twenty-one.

Proposed Change In Auto License Law

In his message to the state legislature Governor Ruby Laffoon recommended enactment of a temporary measure which would permit owners of automobiles who have not licensed them this year to buy a license by paying only the tax proportion of the year which remains. There should be no controversy over the proposal. It will no doubt be translated into law.

Under the present law the purchaser of a new automobile may license it by paying for the remaining months of the year. If the car be bought on September 1, for example, the license cost is only one twelfth that which is specified for the entire year.

But if an automobile previously licensed has been left in storage, not licensed this year, the owner is required to pay for a year's license regardless of when the tags are bought. The amended act be enacted the result will be that the cars in Kentucky which have not been licensed this year may be licensed at any time by payment of the proportionate part due. Such a license could be issued on Dec. 1 for one twelfth the yearly license fee.

The diminished number of automobile registrations in the state also year indicates that numbers of cars have not been licensed. Of N. O Gray, head of the automobile department, expresses the opinion that many of the unlicensed cars will be taken out of the garage, tags bought for them, and gasoline consumption increased as a result, after the law is approved by Governor Laffoon has become operative. Possibility of increased revenue as a result is such that there is no doubt of the wisdom of the proposed act.

Precinct Workers To Make House To House Canvass For NRA Pledges

WAR ON DEPRESSION

The appointment of precinct chairmen in each of the eighteen precincts of the Carlisle Voting Area Division, NRA drive was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Warren Fisher, the county chairman. They are as follows: Regine House, Mrs. Ben Henry; City Building, Mrs. Harry Burgess, Mathias Shop No. 2, Mrs. Charles Lauhon, Mrs. Chester Brewer and Mrs. Ben Alexander; Mathias Shop No. 1, Mrs. Vernon Brothers; Mayor's Office, Mrs. Lewis Robbins; Donnelly Scales, Mrs. Mack Ritchie; Manning Glory, Mrs. Thelma Cook; Weston, Mrs Ed Myers, Mrs. Guy Sharpsburg, Mrs. Ernest Booth; Headquarters, Mrs. Howard Allison, Mrs. Ben Hamilton; East Union, Mrs. Henry Bramblett; Moorefield, Mrs. Harvey Hargis; Myers, Mrs. Bertha Cameron; Rafferty's Store, Mrs. Lucy Laughlin; Taylor's Store, Mrs. Ernest Butler; Hornsville, Mrs. Butler Ritchie; Buna Vista, Mrs. Ernest Hamilton; Bald Hoss, Miss Irene Collier.

Each precinct chairman is expected to select as once a committee of workers. These are to canvass every householder in the precinct and secure it possible their signatures to the following pledge:

"I will cooperate in reemployment by supporting only those employers and laborers and workers who are members of NRA."

Workers are urged to begin their canvass at once and to complete their work as early as possible and by Saturday, September 16 has been set as this committee's deadline, on which complete reports from each precinct are to be made to the county chairman. It is believed that many precincts will finish their work much sooner, and Mrs. Fisher has reported Tuesday that her precinct, Taylor's Store, had completed its organization of workers and could guarantee one hundred per cent co-operation in the drive. Lists of the precinct workers selected by the chairmen should be furnished Mrs. Fisher as quickly as possible for publication in next week's Mercury.

Mrs. Ben Henry, chairman of the Regine House precinct announced Wednesday the appointment of the following workers: Mrs. Frank Henry, Mrs. Regine House and Miss Nora Flora.

Owing to the huge proportions of the drive, there is a shortage in the local supply of stickers, buttons and pledge cards. In the event that the pledge cards are exhausted, precinct chairmen will use the envelope of supplies sent them some blank sheets of paper and write at top of which the pledge may be written and signed. All of the workers may sign on the sheet beneath. If window stickers are exhausted, they may be secured from those received by calling at The Mercury office.

The importance of this work is evidenced in the statement this week by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson to the men and women of America, as follows:

"Men And Women Of America:

In 1917 the women of all of our country were asked to take up arms and go into battle. Instead of this the family our women met the sacrifice is one of America's spice that has been handed down to us by our fathers. They give their sons and husbands for the defense of the country but themselves filled the places left vacant by their going. I did my part dear ones never returned, they were the Gold Star proudly without lament or repining.

"In 1933 that same brave spirit in abroad, ready to support the Administration in its heroic effort to wage war—one that is less dramatic but even more vital to the life of the country, though there are no flags flying or bands playing for marching troops. This is an economic war that touches the life of every man and individual; there are no bombs bursting in air, for the enemy is the starving distress of unemployment and hunger bring in their train.

"The President and his aides have worked out a plan you and I and we us all enlist under the banner of the "Blue Eagle" and "Speak, act and serve together."

Edith Bolling Wilson"

It is believed that Nicholas county will respond to the campaign with the same loyalty that the county showed in time of war, for this is a war against Depression.

It takes 1,128,00 pounds of bacon, 8,625,000 pounds of beef, 9,000,000 eggs, 1,125,000 pounds of coffee, 6,750,000 pounds of flour, 2,500,000 pounds of pork to feed the 200,000 members of the Civilian Conservation Corps for one month.

Huge Crowd Present At Mayaville Celebration

A crowd of 15,000 people, called the largest gathering in Maysville in its history, lined the streets there Monday for the opening of Maysville's centennial as a city.

Settled in the territory in 1784, Maysville became an incorporated town in 1833, and the county seat of Mason county before many more years had passed.

A four-day celebration of unusual interest and splendid events, ceremonies in market square after a parade of 25 floats, 2,000 marchers, 27. Last week the House passed, 79 to 11, a bill calling for the nomination and election of 25 pledged delegates from the state at large to attend a convention at Frankfort December 11. The House will be asked to concur in Senate amendments. Little difficulty is expected in reaching an agreement.

The bill introduced on Friday afternoon until Tuesday afternoon when it was passed, on a long line horse exerted in the growth of this Ohio river city.

Parade and speeches over, the city turned to jubilation. An "open house" was everywhere, crowds filled the streets, taking keen interest in the display of antiques and historical relics with which merchants filled their windows.
