DEATH HOAX

(Falmouth Outlook)

Last week Mrs. DeVaider, 30, wife of William Debruler, age 60, of Mc-Kinneyfield, formerly of Cynthiana, requested a rural carrier to notify a Cynthiana man that her baby was critically ill; on Saturday, she asked the mail carrier to notify the man that the baby was dead, and the report of the death became general. County Attorney Cummins, William Wyatt and Dr. W. A. McKenney went to the Debruler home and were told by Mrs. Debruler that the baby was born dead Saturday and had been placed in a large tin box that was on the table. She said she wanted the body buried at Kelat. Judge Cummins said he would secure the burial permit.

Tuesday Messrs. Wyatt and Wright went to the Debruler home to take the body to the cemetery at Kelat but they informed Mrs. Debruler that Judge Cummins had ordered that they would have to view the body before they could bury it, to which Mrs. Debruler objected. However, the tin box was opened and inside was a small wooden box nailed up and covered with gauze. The lid was lifted and there was found Mrs. Debruler's pocketbook wrapped in white cloth. This package was opened and was found to contain only rags. The matter of the hoax is not known.

AN ORDINANCE

An Ordinance repealing the Ordinance Creating the Volunteer Fire Department in Harrodsburg, Kentucky.

Whereas, The Mercer County Grand Jury, the Harrodsburg Municipal League and Firemen's Association with the consent and consent of the Mayor and other City Officials in an interview requested the Harrodsburg Kiwanis on August 8th, 1933, convert from a system of mutual or volunteer fire protection in this section of the state, specifying a running early morning race of a conflagration in a neighboring city, therefore be it ordained by the Mayor and City Council of the city of Carlisle, Ky.

That the chief or other person designated by the chief of the Carlisle, Ky., Fire Department is hereby authorized, directed to assist firemen in cities in the Exposition as necessary, as set out in the recital contained at the above meeting, in accordance with the rules and methods of the member cities, without further permission of the Mayor or Municipal being called.

All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Kentucky Legislature Asks Higher Prices For Leaf

A joint resolution petitioning federal executive to put into effect at once "a practical plan of surplus elimination and production control" for burley tobacco and "to secure for the producers of the 1933 crop of burley tobacco the minimum parity price" designated by the agricultural adjustment act was adopted Tuesday by the Senate and House of Representatives. The vote in the Senate: Perry B. Gaines, of Carrollton, Democrat, aye. The bill was designed to have the federal government take action, through Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, to help farmers under federal legislation.

"It is a petition asking the secretary of agriculture to take immediate steps to raise the price of the 1933 crop now almost ready for the market," Gaines said.

"The present visible supply of burley tobacco is greatly in excess of manufacturing requirements," the resolution read, "with conditions likely to be unless well organized and intelligently directed effort is made to forestall it, result in growers of the 1933 crop receiving prices therefor less than the actual cost of production."

Of all agricultural products included in the basic classification of the agricultural act, the resolution said, burley tobacco is probably better adapted to elimination of surplus, curtailment of production and price readjustment than any other."

Adoption of the resolution completed the senate's activity for the day. Action on the automobile owners' relief bill already passed by the house and ready for a vote in the senate, was deferred.

Campaign For Increased Buying To Start Sept. 20

A definite promise to start, around September 20, a national campaign to get the public to buy freely, was made Monday by Hugh S. Johnson in a Labor day address to the Illinois State Federation of Labor at Chicago.

With this Johnson coupled a warning that not only operation of the wage-raising, hour-shortening code provisions of the NRA, which he heads must increase the cost of things, but that "no finance and fiscal policy, the slightest move toward inflation might send prices skyrocketing."

"Every force in the country," he said, "is working toward increased prices along with increased wages and employment. In other words, things are going to be more valuable than money, and at such a time free buying is the part of prudence.

"About September 20, we shall begin a nation-wide campaign to try to convince the people of the need to buy freely and to begin at once —not as a patriotic duty but as a prudent use of money."

Johnson told his audience that the blue eagle campaign for swinging every employing establishment into line with voluntary agreements for higher wages and more jobs will be carried on, despite reaching today the "first objective."

"I think no one will say that the plan has not worked. There are faults and errors . . . but the fact remains that practically every employer in the country is under the blue eagle, that people have gone back to work in vast swarms, and that those who had work are getting better pay.

"I may go a step further and say that although this Labor day was the first objective, we shall not stop. You can not stop a movement like this; you must carry on to a conclusion. It is unfair to the loyal and patriotic men who have put up the blue eagle to permit any competitor to refuse to put him up."

Increased Enrollment Expected At U. Of Ky.

An increased enrollment, due to generally improved economic conditions, is expected when the University of Kentucky opens its 63rd fall term of the 1933-34 school year September 11.

Although practically no additions have been made to the teaching staff, a full curriculum of studies in all six colleges and the Graduate School will be available, with the addition of several new courses to comply with a more comprehensive selection in several departments.

In the College of Arts and Sciences, two departments which have not been operating for several years, will be added to the curriculum. These departments are Ancient Languages, and Philosophy and Psychology. The other two departments which have been added the semester are Animation system are Geology and Zoology.

The object of the comprehensive examination system and interest work is the best development of the intellectual power of the student which the latter can give during the major subject. The University of Kentucky is the first institution of higher education in the state of Kentucky to adopt this system.

The department of Physics has just established a new course for the training of the field force in the Patterson Literary Society and elevation from the status of an organization to that of a scientific course a long established service at the University for the purpose of both literary and scientific. The department of Literary Drama, which was under a separate department until during the 1932-33 school year, recently completed plans for an entirely separate department with more comprehensive course of study for the school term of 1933-34 school year.

Dr. M. E. Potter, head of the department of Physical Education, will introduce a new course "Physical Education and Medical Examination" this term, with Attorney and Physician to guide as prerequisite to the course.

Reservations for rooms in both the men's and the women's residence halls are coming in rapidly, according to reports from the office of the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men, and inquiries about the events and registration are pouring into the office of the Registrar.

The full program at the University of Kentucky opens Monday morning, September 11 at 8:00 o'clock when freshmen students are required to report at the registration building for registration and the opening of a two-day program for new students.

Upper-classmen register September 12 and 13 and classes for old and new students alike will begin Thursday morning September 14.

Harvard university has an apparatus that can press water in five different solid forms, and has squeezed ice into a substance as dense as water.

50 Clubs Enter Judging Teams At State Fair

The Junior Club Department of the College of Agriculture announced Tuesday that fifty counties had entered judging contests teams in the annual 4-H Club judging contest at the Kentucky State Fair next week. Fat cattle, dairy cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry will be judged, the winning teams representing State and national 4-H Club contest in Chicago. The latter contest will divide $200 among the highest scoring individuals.

The usual large exhibit of canned foods, clothing and room improvements which have been made by 4-H Club members, according to J. W. Hammonds, head of the club department.

THE COMMON SCHOOLS HANDICAPPED

(Hazlehurst News)

The struggle handicaps in the common schools of Kentucky is the lack of adequate financial support which is furnished free at the expense of the taxpayers.
