STARLINGS INCREASE

A few pairs of European starlings were brought to New York in 1890 and released in Central Park. Since that time they have multiplied and pushed their way south to the Gulf, north into Canada and west as far as the Mississippi river. When this bird was introduced it was said to be a great insect eater and some ornithologists say that it is one of the few birds with a liking for the Japanese beetle, but like the English sparrow its vices far exceed its virtues.

Over this widespread area the starlings make war on the other forms of bird life and pester the farmer by destroying his crops, while in the cities they cluster around the large buildings and make life miserable for the crowds in the streets and for auto owners. Efforts to drive them from Washington, New York and other eastern cities have been in vain. Their flocking habit is the main objection to them.

They are a little smaller than the blackbird and their plumage varies with the season, sometimes rather spotty and mottled while at other times it is of a dark hue.

Social and Society

WHAT HAVE YOU DONE TODAY?

(Nixon Waterman)

We shall do so much in the years to come,
But what have we done today?
We shall give our gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give today?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak the words of love and cheer;
But what did we speak today?
We shall be so kind in the afterwhile,
But what have we been today?
We shall bring each lonely life a smile,
But what have we brought today?
We shall give to truth a grander birth,
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,
We shall feed the hungering souls of earth;
But whom have we fed today?
We shall reap such joys in the by-and-by,
But what have we sown today?
We shall build us mansions in the sky,
But what have we built today?
'Tis sweet in idle dreams to bask,
But here and now do we do our task?
Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask,
"What have we done today?"

NRA STAMPS NOW OUT

The new NRA stamps have been put on sale.

The stamp is printed in purple, but the design is entirely different from anything ever put out before by the Post Office Department. The central design is made up of a group of four people representing four different groups of society. At the right is a picture of a farmer, next to him is the merchant, then the mechanic and finally the consumer. Directly below the picture is the phrase, "In Common Determination." There is only one figure of value, and for the first time the cent mark is used on a stamp.

Dipping fish in boiling water will aid scaling.

PRATHER HALL

In this wonderful history of the Jews during this last quarter we have learned above everything else how God worked out His own eternal plans and purposes, step by step, surmounting human failure and sin, and triumphing over them. We see how divine grace was displayed, and divine power demonstrated in blessing, in spite of human sins to a people who were under the law. Again and again He in His great mercy provided leaders and brought them back from idols to worship the God of their fathers. They never wandered too far away for Him to reach them, but each suffered for his own sin. Come at 9:30.

CANCER NOT INHERITED

After experiments with 52,000 rats, during a period of 12 years, the Institute of Cancer Research announces the definite conclusion that cancer is never inherited. An announcement by the Institute says:

"Cancer is a terrible disease, not only because it brings pain and death, but also because it inspires an immense amount of worry in a great many people who are never going to suffer from it physically.

"It is the people who have seen cancer attack some member of their family who worry the most and without cause. It appears from the research done that cancer does not start unless there is an irritation present. The germ cells which are inherited from parents do not carry the liability to cancer.

"The main benefit derived from the study is that it removes the fatalistic attitude developed toward the disease. It is that attitude which keeps many persons away from the doctor during the early stages of the cancer growth, when through an early examination and treatment a life might often be saved."
