Social and Society

A SUMMER'S EYE

(Michael Drayton)

Clear had the day been from the dawn,
All chequer'd was the sky,
Thin clouds, like scarfs of cobweb lawn,
Veil'd heaven's most glorious eye.

The wind had no more strength than this,
That scarcely it blew.
To make one leaf the next to kiss,
That closely by it grew.

The flowers, like brave embroidered girls,
Look'd as they mosk desired.
That it receives but a large share
From nature's rich perfumes.
