Kentucky Hens Lead In Mississippi Test

That Kentucky produces high-grade poultry that do well under native conditions is revealed in reports of pens which W. E. Pyles of Maysville entered in laying tests in Mississippi, Michigan and Florida.

In Mississippi, where the hens were confined in laying batteries, five hens in a pen of single comb White Leghorns owned by Mr. Pyles laid a total of 239 eggs in October and November, and five hens in another of his pens laid 221 eggs, tying for second place in the number of eggs laid in the two months. He also owned the highest laying five hens for November, with a record of 127 eggs.

The Mississippi contest is the first to be held in which the hens were kept in laying batteries.

Hens owned by Mr. Pyles placed near the top in a Michigan layers' demonstration, where the birds are confined during the winter months. He also made a high score in a Florida contest, where the hens remained over the year-round.

These results indicate that Kentucky is breeding high quality chickens, points out Dr. J. Holmes Martin, head of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture.

THE MIRACLE CROP

(Courier-Journal)

Hitch prior to grass and hay, the result of the devastating drouth, has been put a crop of corn for hogpasture. Not only is the hay hitch in prime feeding shape, but it has been developed as a stock feed. Hogpasture Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, and the results are startling. Experts in feeding, consisting of unrelished corn and soy bean meal, when ground combined over 30 per cent. protein and 70 per cent. carbohydrates and ever double the feed value of the corn or bean if offered separately. The corn, cutters and tobacco acreage control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration presents an opportunity to halt erosion, preserve fertility and at the same time put land to profitable use through growing this wonder crop from the Orient.

Ten years ago one ounce of K-rean hyperiens was distributed to Kentucky and Tennessee farmers, from this small beginning, thousands of acres now are planted to this miracle crop which not only produces pasture, hay, and seed, but builds crops in such a manner that fertility. Moreover, this clover will grow in soil which will not produce other clovers without the application of ground Limestone.

The city thing lacking about this remarkable legume is the name, which it is good for human consumption.

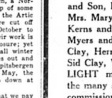
We have all experienced what we call first impressions when we make acquaintances. We like a person at once or we don't.



Often there is no reason for such a feeling. It can't be explained. We simply react that way; we like him or we don't.

It is like an electrical current passing between two persons. In one instance the current feels a favorable field or conductor in each of the individuals there is no repelling feeling of liking. In the other case one or both persons do not receive the current favorably. And there is antagonism. Some people we meet can you picture emotional currents that are created when two persons meet for the first time. Some day we may discover that after all the form of human electricity is involved.

Whatever the cause, we do remember having "feelings" in such a situation, or later after knowing a person better. Each day most of concern to parents and teachers is the fact that exactly the same reaction is felt by children. But they don't even feel it. They are not able to get along together by overlooking defects in one another. Children give in; they quarrel, sulk, and even try to win a point by physical victory.

Then, any cooperative project at school, any committee or club undertaking, is doomed to disruption unless the teacher is discerning and clever enough to discover these natural reactions and then to group children according to the capacity to get along well together.

What is the ultimate purpose of education? Dr. Ireland will discuss this next week.

Now Easy To Make Old Fashioned Sausage

One of the thrills of country life in the rich aromatic smell of delicious country pork sausage as it is prepared for breakfast on a especially Fall morning.

In the past few years, the consumption of sausage has greatly increased. Many good farmers in the county and their town customers become the art of country sausage making has been greatly simplified in fact made easy, even for those it little experience. Recipes for the popular blended sausage seasoning now in the market and offered at leading grocery stores in the county.

Scientific tests prove that fresh, wholesome pork sausage properly made and seasoned, is not only easily digested but is one of the most delicious of all meat foods. The digestibility and food value of pork sausage depend, first, upon good meat, and second, upon proper seasoning. To add spices and herbs necessary to properly season pork sausage to suit the past, however, often meant failure to the home sausage maker. But it doesn't any more. Farmers may now obtain the proper seasoning, ready to use, a few cents a pound, that has the delicious zestful sausage you ever tasted.

This seasoning is spicy and by Good Housekeeping Institute. It is put up in packages, ready to use. Just a mixture as to the quality of the meat. Simply add the seasoning from any of several leading dealers in this county.

Colds A Penalty Of Modern Life

Colds Are Catchy, And Only Hermits May Be Free From Them

By Dr. Wilson G. Smillie
Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard University School of Public Health

Are colds catching? Yes, certainly, they are catching. Contagion is abundant in the secretions of a cold that's got cold, and is spread to others by the victim through coughing and sneezing. This is particularly true when a person in the early stages of a cold is mixing the later stages of the disease with others. We don't like to say to a person with a cold probably will not give it to others.

Colds Are Unique Colds

If one could only live the life of a hermit, shut away from everyone else, he would never catch cold, no matter how cold the weather was cold as Greenland. Studies have been made at Spitsbergen, a Norwegian coal mining colony of about 500 people living within the Arctic Circle. These people are cut off from the world from October to late May by the ice. Their work is rigorous and full of exposure; yet they do not catch cold all winter long. When the ice goes out and the first ship arrives in Spitsbergen from Norway late in May, the whole community comes down at once with colds.

Two of the penalties that we pay for our active life in a modern civilization is that we are have to be isolation. In the course of a single day in the city we are in contact with a hundred or more people.

Thus it is almost impossible for a person to endure that he avoid contact with people who are suffering from colds. Infants can, and should be, protected from such contacts. Elderly people and invalids may be seriously affected by colds. They can and should protect themselves from contact with people who have colds. It is not possible, however, for the active busy person in the office, shop or school to protect himself at all times from persons who are sneezing and coughing with a cold. Some degree of exposure is unavoidable.

Seven Mentioned For Governor Favor Primary

Seven of the 10 men mentioned as making the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky next year is preference for a primary rather than a convention for selecting the nominee, according to the answers in reply to a questionnaire sent out by the Courier-Journal to editors of Cynthiana Democrat.

The article published by the Democrat concerning the results of the questionnaire explained:

"It may be pertinent to say that the letter to them (editors) contained the following paragraph:

"'As against the method of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination we would be glad to have an expression from you on the following: Are you in favor of a primary in August, 1935, for the selection of candidates for state offices? An answer of 'Yes' or 'No' written on this letter will be sufficient.'

"This asked the person addressed a candidate no matter which way he answered.

The questionnaires were mailed on December 12 and the answers came back in the following days: James H. Richmond, Ralph Gilbert, J. C. W. Beckham, John Young Brown, Neville Miller, George B. Martin, Frederick M. Wallis. Those who ignored the questionnaire, misplaced it or have not made up their minds are Thomas S. Rhea, Bailey P. Wootton and Elam Huddleston."

County Authorizes Committee To Apply For Loan For New Water Tank

ORDER TRAFFIC LIGHT

At the regular monthly meeting of the city council Monday night, Mrs. Lucy Daltell was appointed to make application to the Public Works Administration for a loan for the construction of a new standpipe at the Carlisle water works. Joe Clay, superintendent of the water works, told the council that the present tank has sprung a leak and it is feared the leak will grow larger. The present tank has been in use for almost 22 years, which is about the average life. The estimated cost for the new standpipe is $6,000.

The street committee was instructed to purchase and install one traffic light on trial for 30 days. If it proves to be a success, it is probable that more traffic lights will be installed at other points.

The penalty on city taxes will become effective on March 1, the council decided. The penalty was made because of confusion with the penalty on the state taxes, which was $10.00 a hundred pounds. The average for the first week of the current season based on reports from the same markets was $19.18, and for the third week $19.75.

Warehouses in the 10 cities during the past week sold a total of 17,-253,000 pounds, the total money paid by the buyers for this amount being $3,222,202.80.

Hauptmann Trial In Second Week

Several Witnesses Identify Hauptmann As Kidnaper Of Lindbergh Baby Two Years Ago

The trial of Bruno Hauptmann entered with the kidnaping and murder of the two-year-old son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on the night of March 1, 1932, entered the second week at Flemington, N. J., and is expected to continue for at least two more weeks.

Chief witnesses for the prosecution during the trial have been Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, Miss Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, Amandus Hochmuth, 74 years old, who lives at the entrance of the estate, and the wife of former Lindbergh estate on Roseland Mountain, and Joseph Perrone, a taxi-cab driver.

Colonel Lindbergh testified that he recognized the voice of Hauptmann as the man who spoke to him with whom he negotiated for the return of his child.

Hochmuth identified Hauptmann as a man he had seen near the Lindbergh home on the night of the kidnaping, and Perrone identified the defendant as the man who paid him a dollar to deliver a note to Dr. Jonathan Condon, Lindbergh go-between.

Hauptmann has maintained a stoic attitude throughout the trial, showing emotion on few occasions.

Gigantic Work Relief Program

President Would Employ 3,500,000 On Work Relief, Says Direct Relief Must Stop

A "new and greatly enlarged plan" of work relief was proposed to the Congress Friday by President Roosevelt. Without estimating the cost of putting the plan into effect, he said that instead of continuing outright doles, the government should put 3,500,000 unemployed to work at three clearance, elimination of grade crossings and several sales cities, some growers are complaining that the difference does not justify the steady decline in prices, it was reported.

New Health Service Offered By Nicholas County Health Officer

Dr. E. W. Atherton, director of the Nicholas County Health Department, announces a new health service, physical examination of domestic workers, available to people of this community.

In explaining this service, Dr. Atherton says, "The demand for accurate knowledge of the health conditions of their nurse, maids, cooks and laundresses, is coming to us daily from mothers who realize the risk in the dangers to which their households may be exposed by intimate contact with domestic servants. Many cases of tuberculosis have been actually transmitted to children by maids. "Typhoid Mary," one of the most famous of all typhoid carriers worked for years as a cook in private homes and institutions, spreading her food with fatal doses of typhoid germs. She is known to have caused more than fifty cases of typhoid fever and several deaths. Many attacks of diphtheria and scarlet fever have been brought into homes by servants, who themselves immune to the specific disease, still carried virulent germs in their throats. Most dangerous, because most treacherous of all, innocent appearing carriers of disease are frequently passed on to children by nurse girls. Impetigo, a contagious skin disease, and all forms of clothing recently contaminated by fresh discharges."

Dr. Atherton emphasizes the fact that a physical examination usually may be a "carrier" of many different diseases, typhoid, diphtheria, scarlet fever—even tuberculosis, and the dreaded infantile paralysis. Persons found free from tuberculosis frequently are able to continue work for years before becoming bed-ridden or sanitum in the early stages and when it is most infectious. Physicians examine that at least 40 per cent of all venereal diseases are innocently acquired."

"These facts," says Dr. Atherton,

$15,000 Damages Sought In Suit

W. C. Perrin Files Suit Against L. & N. Railroad For Death Of His Brother

W. C. Perrin, administrator of the estate of the late Jesse Perrin, filed suit in the Nicholas circuit court last week against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for $15,-000 damages as the result of the death of Jesse Perrin, who was struck by a train between Carlisle and Miller Station on October 6. Gross carelessness in the operation of the train is charged in the petition.

Mr. Perrin was killed instantly while he was walking along the railroad track enroute to his home in the Sunnybrook section. Cynthiana attorneys are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Declaring the Marion county court house at Lebanon an unfit place in which to hold court, Circuit Judge Mayes held a one-day special session of the Marion circuit court in the court house yard Monday.

After considerable research it was revealed that Arkansas and Kentucky were tied for the leadership. Arkansas's claim to this greatness rests largely on this list of towns: Bee Branch, Evening Shade, Tomato, Chimes, Ink, Love, Romance, Sweet Home, Tag, Raspberry, Solo, Dimple, Sunshower, Fifty-six (which is in Stone County and is not to be confused with Fifty-Six in Garrard County), Cash County, Okay, and Kingsland.

Ordinarily that "Okay" would give Arkansas the undisputed title to the walk, but it was learned that Kentucky has one, too, which is spelled "O. K." Kentucky started off with a beautiful list of great names: Beauty, Mask, Bird, Lily, Rosebud, Pearl, Sophia, Susie, Tillie, and a dozen others. This greatness was then topped by Kentucky's own Dixie Highway listing: Lust, Avon, Double, Dingus, Suffering, Climax, Gravel Switch, Biscuit, Bee, Cyclone, Gun, Hippo, Good Luck, Jump, and Beautiful. And, believe it or not, there is actually a Kentucky named Burp.

One of the funny town names listed in Kentucky is Barbecue, in Lincoln county where they are not post-office. The Mercury will enter exhaustive names of communities in this county against any in the state. Kentucky's Chamber of Commerce is the College of the Bible. He was pastor of the Paris Christian church for 22 years, retiring several months ago.

Funeral services were held at the Paris Christian church Wednesday morning and the body was taken to Glasgow for burial.

Governor Favors Work Relief Plan

Lufkon Believes Able Bodied Men Should Be Put To Work On Permanent Improvements

Voicing views hundred per cent favored with the plans of President Roosevelt as outlined in his message to the congress, Governor Ruby Lufkon Saturday afternoon attended a week-ended program for Kentucky which, he said, would assure work for "every able-bodied man in the state and at the same time give to something permanent to show for the expenditure."

The President's message to the 74th congress was termed by the governor an accomplishment of great courage and great vision. Its recommendations would, he said, if enacted into law, "go a long way toward recovery and toward a permanent depression begun."

"I have always been in favor of getting away from the do's and pulling men to their
