"are prevented not with the idea of frightening mothers and housekeepers, but merely in order to emphasize the importance of adequate physical examination of the domestic help.

By laboratory tests and physical examination it is possible to locate carriers; incipient cases of tuberculosis and victims of venereal diseases. A thorough physical examination of examination for signs of tuberculosis, supplemented by the necessary x-ray, throat cultures to be examined for the presence of diphtheria and scarlet fever germs, stool specimens to be examined for intestinal worms, urine examinations to detect syphilis in the blood and smears to be examined for gonorrhea. Such examinations should be repeated twice a year and the patient whose reports are negative is given a certificate of freedom from infectious diseases.

Sewell Warns Colleges About Heavy Spending

Declaring it has become very apparent that the people are unwilling to pay for part of the extensive program which the present legislature has based its appropriations on," State Inspector and Examiner Sewell Warren has warned that "if the present trend of smaller revenues and larger expenditures is continued it seems quite certain at this time that there will not be sufficient funds to maintain the state colleges and tax rate will probably be increased at this year.

Sewell's comment was contained in a report to Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Eastern State Teacher's College.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. DILLARD
Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard University
School of Public Health

Education to Carry On

Look to the schools and colleges for seeing society's greatest effort to perpetuate itself. Whatever objectives you may establish for your children, the schools will always one underly large purpose, the foundation stone at the end, and it is "to carry on."

You may think of reading, writing, arithmetic as the basic, but then you must return to the inevitable question "why?" They are tools of social intercourse. But our hope is always that the next generations will use them to better advantage than we have. One by one the adults of a community pass on. One by one the children of today rise up to take our places.

Are they prepared? Not "what do they know" but are they prepared for the new society? In this sense, children constitute the raw material of an ever-changing state or society. The school is the place we have invented for fashioning that raw material into understanding persons, with health and honest citizens, and willing workers. Our job is to turn out a boy or girl for product with each successive generation.

And when we come to examine the essentials and to ask "just what is important?" more and more we realize that at the top of the list we must place health—physical, mental, social, emotional health; fitness for work, play, and citizenship; a zest for complete, abundant living.

What about the "reducing craze" among girls? Dr. Dillard will describe it in his next article.

Cynthiana Average For Season Is $20.59

The Cynthiana Live Stock & Tobacco Sales Co., Cynthiana, Ky., successors to Clarence LeBus & Sons Co., announce that a great interest to all Nicholas county tobacco growers. A difference of a few cents a pound can sometimes mean a considerable increase in the income and the farmer wants to consider carefully before declining offer to sell the crop to his advantage.

The Cynthiana market has proved to be one of the best markets in the entire belt this season. Up to and including Friday, January 4, 1935, the Cynthiana market sold 3,544,121 pounds of tobacco for $729,734.83, average $20.59. Of the above mentioned total the Cynthiana Live Stock & Tobacco Sales Co. sold 1,801,298 pounds for $374,918.28, an average of $20.81; the latter average being $2.29 higher than the whole Cynthiana market average.

The sale shows an interesting comparison between this company's average and that for the other markets in the same territory. This fact is found in part by

Some of the high Nicholas county crops to go over the breaks on the Cynthiana market last week include Murray A. Cook & Bro., 1242 lbs. sold for an average of $29.00; $29.00. T. E. Colds Resistance • Varies Greatly

A Few Persons Never Have Colds; Some Have Them Continually

By Dr. Wilson G. Smillie
Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard University School of Public Health

Everyone who is exposed to a cold does not catch it. Some people are born lucky. They are not susceptible to colds, and no matter what they do or how careless they are, they never have colds. Others are happy people have not only their colds but spread them to others, while summer cold as well. This group is highly susceptible to colds and catch them in spite of every effort to avoid them. Between these two, however, there are certain conditions that increase the susceptibility or lower resistance to colds.

Rapid changes in temperature as well as movement and moisture of the air seem to play a part in the production of colds. These rapid changes from cold to warm and from dry to wet weather cannot be avoided. In many ways they are beneficial.

Cold Stimulates

Active, vigorous people receive a healthful stimulation from exposure to cold weather. If the surface of the body remains warm, cold weather is exhilarating; if the skin becomes chilled, then one is very apt to catch cold. The effect of enjoyment of hall weather is to keep the body surface warm and dry.

This brings up the question of proper clothing and its relation to catching cold. What should we change to heavy underwear? Under modern conditions most city life is spent indoors and we have developed the custom of heating houses and offices to 70 degrees in winter. Under these conditions the average person should use the same weight underwear the year round. When one goes out into the cold, suitable outer covering may be used to keep the skin from getting chilled. Children who give off heat rapidly, aged persons, and invalids who have a poor circulation, should wear heavier underclothing in winter weather.

Watch The Fords Go By

And listen to what the public is saying about them. There is a reason—Quality as well as beauty. Mr. Ford never experiments at the expense of buying public, but when he adds an improvement to his car it is there to stay, having been tested and found worthy of a place on a good car. He has followed this policy until his car today is the wonder of the automobile world. Come see the 1935 car for yourself and be convinced of its wonderful qualities.

TOBACCO AVERAGE DROPS TO $18.36 IN SALES LAST WEEK

Dissatisfaction Voiced As Prices Reach The Lowest Level Of Season

74,661,847 POUNDS SOLD

Ten of the largest markets in the central Kentucky burley belt during last week sold a total of 22,336,565 pounds of tobacco for total average being the largest for one week since the selling season opened early in December.

This tobacco, according to reports obtained Saturday, brought a total of $2,099,252.91, the week's average for the 10 markets being $18.36 per hundred pounds.

During the five weeks of sales this winter, these markets have sold a total of 74,661,847 pounds for $14,189,234.46, the reports showed, making the season average $19.00 per hundred. The sale of the first 75 million pounds in the same circuits last season found the average only slightly above $11.

While the sales last week at several markets were the largest of the season so far, the market averages generally were lower and the combined poundage was the smallest in ages 20 cents under that of the previous week. The comparative average for the 10 markets the first week was $20.34. For the second week, $19.75; for the third week, $19.36, and for the fourth week, $18.56.

Protests by tobacco growers over "low prices" on the Richmond market closed the Chamber of Commerce floor in that city last week to send telegrams to the largest tobacco firms and sales concerning the complaints. Growers on other markets also have complained that prices paid in recent weeks have not been consistent with those paid for the same grades much earlier in the season.

The Richmond trade board also sent a message to J. B. Hutson, chief of the AAA tobacco burley section, asking for an investigation of alleged sales of grades tobacco from crops of contract growers. The message insisted and that these alleged sales of low-grade excess leaf were depressing the market average and causing growers to take their product to warehouses in other cities.

While last week's large sales were being held in driveway of leaf to the warehouse floors continued steady to heavy at most markets, it was indicated good sales this week.

Summary of the week's sales follows:

Market	Pounds	Av.
Lexington	7,997,606	$19 43
Paris	1,960,830	20.70
Cynthiana	1,213,320	19.92

$1,063,372.39 ON DEPOSIT

In Four Banks Of Nicholas County, On December 31

The four banks in Nicholas county had total deposits of $1,063,372.39 at the close of business on December 31, 1934, according to statements published in this issue.

This was a percentage deposit of $117.06 for each of the 8,571 residents of the county. The deposits at the close of business December 31 were $30,674.18 night or than at the close of business June 30, 1934, six months before, and were a per capita deposit of $3.34 higher.

The combined ave ages of the four banks, the statements show, were $1,264,543.25.

On December 31 only a small portion of Nicholas county's tobacco crop had been sold and on that deposits were probably much smaller than they will be at the close of business on January 31. The statements of the four banks show all to be in sound financial condition.

Deposits in all four of the banks are protected by Federal Deposit Insurance.

Road Crew Here Sent To Bracken

W. W. Akoke And Staff Transferred To Brooksville By State Highway Department

W. W. Akoke, who has been located in Carlisle for more than two years as resident engineer of the State Highway Department, has been transferred to Brooksville as resident engineer during the completion of a grade and drain project. Mr. Akoke's entire crew was transferred with him. The crew, all of whom are local boys, are Elden Hutchings, Everett Smith, Fred Martin and Robert Henry.

Mr. Akoke has been located here on two occasions, having been in charge during the construction of the Carlisle and Flemingsburg road and the road and streets recently completed here. He has made many friends during his stay in Carlisle who will regret to see him and family leave Carlisle. His family will probably move to Brooksville within a short time.

Vinson Introduces Legion Bonus Bill

Representative Patman, Another Bonus Measure, Also Is Will Not Suppress Measure

The American Legion's bonus bill was introduced in the house Monday, quieting talk at least two well-defined groups in congress who don't want to pay off the adjusted compensation certificates.

Representative Vinson, Democrat, the bill, which would authorize the issuance of $2,000,000,000. Vinson predicted that "not a $1 will be evaded."

But Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas another leading bonus advocate, said he could not support the Legion bill. He is committed in favor of hauling tax-exempt interest-bearing bonds to pay off cash bonus, he said. "Fred Vinson is one of my good friends and a friend of the veterans, but if they invade us they lick us."

Mountain Gunman Kills Six And Then suicides

Six persons were shot to death in the Eastern Kentucky hillsville near Bros Bend, Rockcastle county, and two others were wounded by a crazed gunman who then took his "last shot and will" and took his own life. Mrs. Leona Hatch in Jackson, Clellan, George Collett, 41, told her husband, told officers the killer, George Collett, 41, told her there were three others he wanted to kill, and didn't have time.

Collett, former keeper of a roadhouse near Broadhead, shot to death his wife, Stella; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hutson; a neighbor couple, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Borders, and a brother-in-law, Howard Hutson, then wounded a woman, Carrie Hutson, who wounded but survived.

Collett then went to a tourist cabin and ended his life, leaving a note in which he said that he had been driven to the tragedy by the meddling of people.

Collett had recently been indicted for receiving stolen property. He is said to have become enraged because his wife would not sign a deed to some property to be sold to get out and leave that section. Mr. and Mrs. Borden were parents of a state highway patrolman who had recently arrested Collett.

Senator Barkley Favors Democratic Primary

Opposition to any move to select Democratic nominees for Kentucky state offices at a convention instead of a primary was expressed by Senator Alben W. Barkley in a letter Monday to R. O. Wells, of Paducah, member of the Democratic state executive committee.

"I most emphatically favor the primary election as against the convention," Barkley said, in his letter to the "questionable methods which frequently prevail in county conventions and sometimes in state conventions. Barkley said, however, practices by which conventions are so frequently manipulated."

Fire Destroys Home In County

Residence And Contents Of Mr. And Mrs. James McGinley Burned Saturday Afternoon

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James McGinley in the Hickory Ridge road about four miles from Carlisle was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. McGinley were absent from home.

Mr. and Mrs. McGinley had been to Carlisle and were returning home when they observed the house in a mass of flames. Only a few articles of furniture were saved. No insurance was carried on the furniture or contents.

Mr. and Mrs. McGinley have suffered more than their share of ill-luck during the past year. In addition to losing their home, it is said that three of their milk cows have died during the past summer and fall.
