Mr. Rhea frequently referred to as the son of Republican was born a democrat in the 1st District Democratic Committeeman presented the proof to Democratic Chairman Hon. Bo-Bo declares that notwithstanding all the interest in the Democratic primary in Kentucky to-day, the prospects for victory in Kentucky next November are brighter than ever before. Democratic victory in November or in any wise make it difficult for our Democratic President to carry Kentucky for re-election in 1936.

Tom Rhea has kept and will keep that pledge. Win or lose, that's the way it is. Furthermore, he has declared that he will support the Democratic nominee for Governor whoever he may be.

Most Kentuckians who know that Mr. Rhea will keep his pledge, come what may, are already saying: It begins to look like Tom will soon be called upon to vote for himself.

Circus Elephant Retired to Zoo Quieta Upstart

Washington.—Everything has been done to make the elephant house at the Washington zoo since Old Babe made her debut.

Old Babe is veteran circus trouper who was a queen of the pickle line before Barnum flourished. She recently went into retirement here.

Zoo officials found themselves in a quandary when they tackled the problem of how to keep Old Babe from being lonely after her 50 years as boss of an elephant herd.

The only available companion for Old Babe was Peaches, a husky eight-ton year-old "bad actor" from the wilds of Burma. Mary Livingston, Peaches was a natural born bully, who was worried—but by several hundred pounds and knew no answer.

Officials realized, however, that Old Babe had plowed more than 100 miles with upstarts in her time. They decided to take a gift Peaches.

The young bully started at Old Babe's head.

Old Babe took one light slap at the upstart with her trunk, a light pressure on the forehead, and it was obvious Peaches the youngster a goose.

Then Old Babe trumpeted a soft command, a rumble which issued from her head. Instantly it was obvious to all, and it told the youngster some thing she understood at once.

Some youngsters in Colorado two and six months old never saw it rain until recently.

RHEA REFUSES TO LOWER PARTY STANDARDS

Ignores "Mud Slingers" in His Primary Race

Kentucky Democratic Arena Is Scene Of Great Turmoil As Many Candidates Seek Gubernatorial Nomination

(By Robert Fuller)

Louisville, July 17.—One of the greatest of all political campaigns ever witnessed in Kentucky is being under way in the State today with half a dozen candidates striving for the gubernatorial nomination to be awarded by the Democratic voters at forthcoming primaries the fate of which will be held on Saturday, August 3.

The tempo of the contest is fast and furious by a majority of the candidates. The pot is full of fireworks. One man alone remains cool, calm and deliberate. He is Tom Rhea. He will not join the fray. He declares that mud-slinging at his opponents will not help his cause. Consequently as the present Tom Rhea is leading the pack and looks to be the logical choice for the nomination.

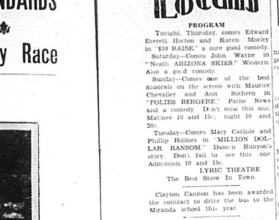
For Party Good

Friends and foes alike concede that it took Tom Rhea to knock loose from the Democratic Democrats to lose their heads, to tear at one another's throats and smash the structure that Democracy has built since the unhorsing of the

Dignity of the Office

In his opening address at Bowling Green several weeks ago Mr. Rhea made this pronouncement:

I have confined my remarks to the issues of this campaign and it will be my purpose to conduct my campaign with such dignity as will comport with the high office which I seek. I will not, either by word or act do anything which will tend to



TOM RHEA

Republicans in Kentucky four years ago.

Wherefore Tom Rhea pursues the even tenor of his way. Unperturbed by the name calling and mud-slinging of his opponents, he is confident that his policies will be carried out and his pledges fulfilled and false accusations unheeded.

Tom Rhea has kept and will keep that pledge. Win or lose, that's the way it is. Furthermore, he has declared that he will support the Democratic nominee for Governor whoever he may be.

Most Kentuckians who know that Mr. Rhea will keep his pledge, come what may, are already saying: It begins to look like Tom will soon be called upon to vote for himself.

"And that's okay with us."
