Old Flour
IS BETTER THAN NEW

To give flour that whiteness and fineness of texture, and dryness essential for excellent baking results it MUST be AGED— the older the better!

Certainly it is good to have fresh coffee—but fresh flour is "green" flour and cannot possibly make those delicious biscuits and cakes. Constant running of our mill enables us to fill all orders with flour that is properly aged!

Social and Society

AN UNLOVED MONTH

Few friends has March! A blustering rowdy lot,
Who meets scant welcome when he comes to town!
Each face he snarches wears for him a frown;
Drears close against him unmistakably.
Apparently abashed in no degree,
He goes swashbuckling up the street and down,
Each gesture adding to his ill repute.
Each graceless act a fresh disparagement.
Ah, March, perhaps I understand—I know
How warm and tender hearts are sometimes doomed
To hide behind a braggadocio air.
I look a child—oh, years and years ago—
Who longed for love, and, missing it, assumed
Rude nuffiness, pretending not to care.
—B. Y. Williams in New York Times.
