Choice Of Teachers Up To Superintendent

Teachers in a consolidated school district where both the grades and a high school course are taught are selected by the County School Superintendent and not by the white district trustees, William R. Atkinson, Assistant Attorney General, said Friday.

Mr. Atkinson's ruling said that if there were only two trustees in a district and they should disagree, over selection of a teacher the County Superintendent also is empowered to name the teacher and end the deadlock.

ALL WET AGAIN

Not yet thoroughly "dried out" after a flood that covered nearly the nearby community of Sherburn on Monday was additionally injured by rains, resulting from 24 hours of rain.

Fox and Fleming creeks, tributaries of the Licking river, were reported out of their banks in one place out off state road No. 111, at a point between Millsboro and Sherburn. City More than a dozen homes and two stores in Sherburn were inundated flooded.

Moreland and other towns, included in the community of Farmers in Ruth county, reported washing rains generally Monday morning, although none fell during the day at Maysville, on the river.

Farmers Allowed To Harvest Excess Wheat

Contracting wheat growers who planted an area greater over their allotment planting to pasture if this spring have permission from the commission to let it mature and harvest it the producer Agricultural University of Kentucky was notified by the AAA Monday.

Such farmers, however if they do harvest their excess acreage this fall or next year, will be required to agree with an adjustment contract in line and make an additional reduction that year, equal to the excess planted acres harvested this year.

The AAA announcement stated: "The producer who has restricted planting under adjustment contract may request such increase in individual productions to enter into a bona fide contract. Such request must be offered and to make adjustments in their 1935 planting. This provision of removal of restrictions on winter wheat was a part of the agreement reached with producers in the spring wheat as a result of the Growth conference held here.

I LOVE YOU, SPRING

I love you, Spring! I love you!
I've loved you so, for years!
I love your fragrant bloom and scent,
I love your sunny skies;
I love your clinging breezes,
I love your laughing rills;
I love your gentle showers
A-glimmer on the hills.

I love you, Spring! I love you!
I've loved you, oh, so long!
I love your lilting raptures
Of record and song;
I love your soft beguilements,
I love your verdrous charms;
I love your sweet enfolding
Of your out-reaching arms.

I love you, Spring! I love you!
I've loved you many a day;
I love your grey drippings
On bud and bloom and spray;
I love your fickle pledgings,
I love your quick caress;
I love you, Spring! I love you!
Tis sad years ago in April
