Crocheted bedspreads can be washed, but they should be carefully spread out on a clean sheet to dry and not hung on the line.

Metal door hinges can be kept from rusting by washing occasionally with warm soapy water, wipping dry and then rubbing with oil.

ROY COX IS KILLED INSTANTLY AS HIS MACHINE OVERTURNS

Well Known Young Man Found Dead Beneath Wrecked Car

WAS ALONE IN AUTO

Roy Cox, 32 years old, well known farmer of the Bowen Hill section, was found dead beneath his overturned automobile on the Sharpsburg road a short distance from his home about midnight last Thursday night. His face and head were crushed and he had suffered other injuries, which probably caused instant death.

Cox had spent the afternoon in Carlisle and was returning to his home when the tragedy occurred. He was driving alone in a Chevrolet coupe. The accident is thought to have occurred when the left front wheel of the car while rounding a sharp curve in the road broke off the spindle of Claude Whaley.

The tragedy was discovered by Mr. and Mrs Fithain Rice, who were returning to their home from Flemingsburg where they had been visiting relatives. Mr. Rice notified authorities and assisted in removing the body from the wrecked automobile.

Dr. S. H. McKinney, Coroner, was called to the scene where the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mathers, Peed & Co. Here it was learned that Cox had been taken to his home. The coroner's jury composed of W. H. Hughes, chairman, and Ben Hall, Jr., and Ben Hall, Sr., was called and an hour later returned a verdict that death was accidental.

Cox is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nannie Mae Berry Cox, one daughter, Helen, 6 years old; his father, Howard Cox, of Frankfort, one brother and two sisters.

Funeral services were held at the grave in the Carlisle cemetery Sunday morning at 10 o'clock conducted by Rev Garrett, pastor of the Moorefield Methodist church.

Both Parties Show Wide Variance In Elections

During the past seven years, the Democratic vote in Kentucky in state elections has varied 213,000 votes and the Republican vote has varied 187,000 ballots in the same length of time.

President Roosevelt polled the greatest Democratic vote in the history of the commonwealth when three years ago when he received 724,708, a tremendous total of ...580,574. The low ebb was in 1927, when the Republican forces were at the heighth of their control in the nation. That year only 387,848 votes were cast to vote for Beckham when he lost to Sampson in a majority of 32,000.

The maximum Republican support was for Hoover a year later when the former President swept Kentucky with a total of 353,560 votes and a majority of 180,000 over Al Smith, the most crushing defeat for Kentucky Democracy in the state's history. Four years ago Governor A. B. Chandler was elected by 72,000.

The only conclusion that can be drawn from these figures is that approximately one-fifth of the state's qualified voters reserve the right to vote either way as they consider party records and the individual merits of the candidates sponsored.

Chandler Given Boost By John L. Lewis

The randiacy of Lieut. Gov. A B (Happy) Chandler for governor Monday had a boost from the powerful personality of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Before a gigantic rally, unofficially estimated at 20,000 persons, Lewis yesterday declared that national attention would be directed upon the Kentucky election next week and called upon his listeners to "join in the overwhelming election" of Chandler as "a ringing endorsement of the policies of the greatest statesman of modern times, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

"To me," Lewis told his audience, who heard the last of his speech in the accompaniment of a pelting rain, "Lieut. Gov. Chandler typifies the finer elements of good citizenship. He stands forth courageously and untarnished as the champion and champion of those things and that program for which President Roosevelt stands."

Work On Roads To Begin Nov. 6

Reconstruction Of East Union And Gantt's Hill Employs More Than 60 Men

A representative of the Works Progress Administration was in Carlisle Tuesday afternoon and informed the Mercury that work would be started November 6 on the reconstruction of the East Union and Gantt's roads.

Approximately thirty relief laborers will be employed on the East Union road, but no foreman, nor number of non-relief laborers. The latter will supply and operate the oil treatment of the road.

The Gantt's road project calls for the reconstruction and water bound macadam surfacing of approximately half mile of the road. This project will furnish work for 30 relief laborers, it was said.

The projects for painting and repairing the 24 CCC bridges in the county and painting the interior and exterior of the court house have been approved but the work will be held in abeyance for the present, it was stated, because of weather conditions. It is expected that the two road projects will consume most of the winter months and when these projects have been finished the other projects will be started.

Two CKC Teams Have Perfect League Records

Carlisle High's Musketeers and the Lexington Henry Clay High Blue Devils are the only Central Kentucky Conference teams boasting perfect records at the conclusion of last week. Carlisle defeated Cynthiana, 20 to 0, in a fifth straight victory to move into first place ahead of Lexington, which played a 7-7 tie with Danville, a strong non-conference foe.

Danville, tied with Carlisle and Lexington for first place prior to last week's games, kept its record from defeat but was held to a 7-7 tie by Bradford Ewing, one of the biggest upsets of the season.

Chandler To Win By 52,000 Is Forecast

State Democratic headquarters at Louisville Thursday predicted that A. B. Chandler would defeat Albert B. Sweppe by 52,000 majority. Only the Ninth district was conceded to Sweppe.

Chandler headquarters said a survey showed four districts would give a heavy vote. Election of mayors and local officials in many cities also will contest over repeal of the state dry amendment; unusual interest in the governor's race and the vote on the old age pension amendment.

Only the Ninth district in southeastern Kentucky mountains was conceded to Sweppe. It was estimated at Democratic headquarters the Ninth would go Republican by approximately 10,000. Democratic majorities claimed for other districts: First, 5,000; Second, 5,000; Fourth, 8,000; Fifth, 16,000; Sixth, 12,000; Seventh, 2,000; Eighth, 8,000.

40,000 Will Be Employed In State On WPA Projects

George H. Goodman, state works progress administrator, said Monday that recent approval by Comptroller General McCart of funds for Kentucky projects, will enable the administration to place 40,000 men at work on worth while projects by the end of November.

State projects thus far approved for the state represent a total value of $8,884,674, Goodman said. He predicted that approvals from the comptroller general's office now would come through with dispatch.

Approximately two hundred young people will assemble at the court house at Carlisle Saturday morning, November 2, at 10 o'clock and, under the leadership of the Nicholas county drys, will make a long tour of the county in trucks, and cars in behalf of the dry campaign. The motorcade will be composed of a truck with the high school band, another truck with a speaker's stand, and other speakers.

The caravan will start from Carlisle at 10 a. m. Its first stop will be near Headquarters, and from there to Saltwell, to Barterville, then on to Rose Hill, Beaver, through the Cassidy section, to Myers and back to Carlisle. At each of these places speeches will be made and music will be rendered. All of the young people of Nicholas county are invited to take part in this event. Bring your lunch with you and prepare to have a big time.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL BAND

I attended the first public appearance of our high school band Tuesday morning and was very agreeably surprised at the progress they have been made. I thoroughly enjoyed every number and have nothing but praise for Mr. Perlmaster and his band. One thing I especially liked about me was the fact that the band is young and we will have the majority of the members for several years. There seems to be the finest spirit of cooperation and a sense of doing their best. I feel that the band deserves the praise and support of the entire community and am sure that it will get it. More fine boys and girls should be encouraged to take up this work.

Governor Has Wide Power In The Naming Of Officials, Half In State Highway

The state administration that is voted into office in Kentucky at the November 5 election will find at its disposal an unprecedented amount of patronage.

While it is almost impossible to determine the exact number of state employes who depend on the whim or turn of politics, conservative estimates are that there are no less than 8,000 positions the salaries of which are paid out of the state treasury.

By far the larger number of them are in the so-called "inner jobs" classification, which means that they are placed indirectly at the disposal of department heads and staunch supporters of the winning side in the state elections.

The choice appointments, however, which carry the big salaries, are at the disposal of the governor. These include nine highway commissioners ships, three Public Service Commission memberships, and a host of others too numerous to mention.

A number of appointees in the highway commission are holding their jobs under appointments that still have some years to go, but, by virtue of the 1934 "victory" act which the Laffoon administration sponsored, the terms expire whenever the governor takes a notion to exercise them.

In other words, the governor has the right, under the "power" act, to dismiss any appointive employe for any cause deemed sufficient by himself. The law does not require that he make the cause public. If he should not be inclined to, he may dismiss a $2,000-a-year appointee simply because he does not like the color of the tie the appointee wears.

Only a small percentage of the state employes are housed in the capitol building. Most of them are so-called "field workers." Estimates of the number of employes actually employed in the capitol building range from 250 to 500. No one has ever made an actual count of records.

Coincidental with President Roosevelt's projection of the AAA from an emergency to a permanent basis, the Farm Credit Administration Friday predicted an ending of government loans to farmers by 1938.

Nicholas county farmers, by a vote of more than 12 to 1, approved continuance of the corn-hog production control program in a referendum conducted at the office of County Agent R. J. Matson Saturday. The referendum was conducted throughout the nation and returns from the various states indicate continuance the program is favored by more than 7 to 1. In Kentucky the majority is much larger.

Many Children Need Clothing

Appeal Made For Cast-Off Clothing For Needy Children Of The County

Willie Wood Cook, school attendance officer, has asked The Mercury to appeal to citizens of Nicholas county for cast-off clothing for children of the county. Mr. Cook stated that many children in the county are facing the winter without clothing or shoes and declared conditions are distressing.

At least twenty-five children in the county are unable to attend school because they do not have clothing to wear, Mr. Cook said, and many others are attending school without sufficient clothing.

Direct relief has been stopped, Mr. Cook said, and the only hope of these children is the generosity of Nicholas county people.

It is believed that there are hundreds of garments and shoes which children have outgrown that owners will contribute.

Mr. Cook asks that clothing be left at the office of Mrs. Rita S. Taylor, County Superintendent, The Mercury office, any ladies home in Carlisle or any country store where it will be stored. Mr. Cook said he would personally distribute the clothing to needy children. Shoes, dresses, coats, boys clothing, under wear or any article of wearing apparel will be greatly appreciated.

President Seeks To Cut Expenses Next Year

Out of a presidential conference on next year's budget Monday came word of a prediction that regular departmental expenditures would be reduced at unchanged levels, but with "slight increases" possible.

The big question mark—the size of relief expenditures—remained unanswered.

President Roosevelt, with Secretary Morgenthau and Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget, began during the day the preliminary work for reductions in emergency spending which would limit the chief executive's forecast of a "sharply decreasing spread between income and outgo."

Morgenthau later snapped back at critics of the relief program with an assertion that at the present rate expenditures were running $878,000,000 less for this year than budget estimates as revised a month ago.

On the basis of the pre-election expenditures, he said the outlay for the full year would amount to $8,788,000,000 as compared with estimates of $8,446,000,000.
