A total of $162,141,237.08 was on deposit June 29, 1935, in 347 open banks in Kentucky, according to figures released Saturday by the State Banking Department. The report said that "generally" the banks of the State are in "very satisfactory condition."

According to the report, no banks in Kentucky have closed since August 1934, and nine closed before that time have been liquidated during the last twelve months.

New Tobacco Contract Approved By Wallace

As a result of hearings and investigations held on September 3, Secretary Wallace has approved new production adjustment programs for burley, Maryland, fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced last week.

The proposed programs provide for contracts for a four-year period, 1936 -1939, to follow the present programs. All four kinds of tobacco are covered by contracts for the crop years 1934 and 1935.

New contracts for these four kinds of tobacco are being prepared and will be ready to submit to growers before the 1935 crop marketing season begins.

The findings, based on the investigations and the evidence submitted at the hearings, showed that the current average farm prices for the 1934 crops of Maryland, burley and dark air-cured tobacco respectively, were less than the parity price or fair exchange value as defined in the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Evidence presented at the hearings indicated that without adjustment reversions in the tobacco growers normally would be expected to increase their plantings materially in 1936. These increased plantings would result in prices less than the fair exchange value for the 1936 crop of all four kinds of tobacco unless production adjustment programs are put into effect, it was contended.

The proclamation of the findings on tobacco was the first proclamation made under the new procedure prescribed by the Agricultural Adjustment Act as amended at the last session of Congress.

Barrett Predicts Warm Fall For Most Of Nation

You can plan on leaving those fur muffs in the trunk for quite a spell.

Anthony J. Barrett, the unofficial but highly respected weather prophet of the Chicago Board of Trade, forecasts a warm fall for most of the nation.

Barrett predicts "good weather for maturing corn" but "later on, poor weather for newly seeded wheat." He anticipated good prospects for cotton and other crops."

Barrett's methods are secret, but they have stood the test of time, the formula has been in the family for years. Anthony's brother, John, who died in 1922 had a nation-wide following. He had the unobtrusive with hard cash. He wagered Chicago would have no zero weather in 1920-21. It didn't. John collected $1,250 in bets.

FUTURE FARMER NOTES

The Future Farmer class went on a field trip to Cleveland Grower's Wednesday afternoon and he showed them how to block out sheep for showing purposes. They also judged a ring of Southdown ewes. The boys got a lot of points on what to look for in good breeding stock.

The class also went to Billy Smart's and observed his registered Jersey herd now which he won last year in the contest at school. The boys came from M. D. Boyce's farm at Winchester. Billy's son has developed into a sure true to type.

Every field trip like this helps and the boys, observing the best of stock realize the fact that good stock on a farm makes one enjoy life much more, it makes farm life more beautiful and complete and it also helps in the difficult task of changing in the sale.

The boys are getting ready for the fair. Each boy is trying to bring one or more of his projects and have them on exhibit this year, such as tobacco baby beeves, sheep, hogs, corn and turkeys. We are expecting a much more successful fair this year than ever before.

HUFF TAKEN IN NEW YORK

Malcom Huff, 29, of Harlan county, was arrested at the home of his brother in New York City Friday on a warrant charging him with murder in connection with the death of County Attorney Elmon Middleton, who was killed by a dynamite bomb in his automobile a few days before the recent run-off primary. Huff had been in Harlan since the arrest of six other men in Harlan county in connection with the murder. He disappeared before officers could serve a warrant. He will be returned to Harlan county.

The convicts, Edward Sims, Frank McDaniels, Eller Robinson, James Boyd Brown and James Morris, escaped from the reformatory May 12 by holding up prison guards and commandeering automobiles from motorists. All have been recaptured except McDaniels.

'Walking Munn' Wilson's Papers Are Not Accepted

Miss Buck W. Mahan, secretary of state, on advice of Assistant Attorney General Sam H. Brown, refused to accept the papers of "Walking Munn" Wilson, of Madisonville, as a candidate for lieutenant governor on the Independent ticket Monday.

The acceptance of the papers was refused under a law which sets out that a defeated primary candidate can not run for the same office in a later election under a different emblem. Wilson was defeated for the nomination for lieutenant governor in the August 3 primary.

H. A. I. Rosenberg, of Louisville, filed his declaration papers as candidate for governor on the Independent ticket. His papers were signed by 1,000 persons. His name will appear on the ballot under the emblem "Justice" and with the motto "Justice-Progress-Charity". under his name.

Half Of Coal Miners Of State On Strike

About half of Kentucky's approximately 50,000 coal miners were reported away from their jobs at the end of the first day of the nation-wide soft coal strike Monday.

The strike affected both Eastern and Western Kentucky. The state took the strike calmly and there were no disorders reported. Wages and truck mines were not affected.

United Mine Workers of America district officers reported that union members were not working in South-eastern Kentucky and Tenn. Walter Rennie, E. L. Reed, bookkeeper, estimated there were 10,000 to 12,000 non-paying members in district 19, which includes Southeastern Kentucky. The United Mine Workers district has seven quarters at Madisonville estimated 16,500 men were out in that district.

Rivers Are Property of States in Which Located

Rivers are the property of the states in which they are located, subject to federal jurisdiction of the federal government over navigable waters, and the state is prohibited to put obstructions in navigable waters without the consent of the federal government, but the state has title to the land under the water and the middle of the main channel, provided there is no legal agreement to the contrary. Sometimes two states agree by treaty or compact that the concurrent jurisdiction over a river, which forms the boundary between them.

The Ohio, Chattahoochee and Potomac rivers are notable exceptions of the general rule. Kentucky and West Virginia have absolute jurisdiction over the entire Ohio river along their shores as far as the low-water mark on the Ohio, Indiana and Illinois banks. If a controversy arises as to the title of land near the Illinois, Indiana or Ohio shore it is amenable to the laws of Kentucky or West Virginia, and the general federal laws of the United States are enforced to the northern bank of the stream. This is by reason of a person to sicklete a Kentucky law by falling on the Ohio side of the river. This boundary line has been judicially recognized many times by the Supreme court of the United States and the Supreme courts of the states involved.

The Northwest territory, from which Illinois, Indiana and Ohio were carved was ceded to the federal government in 1784 by the Commonwealth of Virginia. The resolutions of cession retained title and jurisdiction over the Ohio river to the low-water mark on the northern bank, and these rights were transmitted to Kentucky and West Virginia when they were later formed from Virginia territory.

Harmony in Music Found in 1300, Authority Says

The musical theories of Greek boxers were Pythagoras, Laos, Olympos and Dyteros, who flourished in the 6th B. C. The Romans were no better off musically, according to a book in the Montreal Herald. They were a mortal race and left no trace of their musical culture. About A. D. 320, Pope Silvester founded a school of singers at Rome and two or three centuries later, Pope Gregory the Great reorganized the music, introducing four new scales, which he called "modes." The first (or gay) having its final, or keynote, in the middle of its compass; the third (or sad) was so harmony, and there was none until about A. D. 1484, when Glarean Hafe and Mirchetus established the present principles of reduced and discord. Once these principles were known, a rapid advance in music was made, and ever since.

In 6th Henry Fawcett, an English man, astounded the world with his musical compositions. He was organist of Westminster abbey. When he was nineteen he composed his first opera, which was followed by seven other operas, and twelve sonatas for the violin, some of which are still heard, as well as his marches.

Classics in Art

We often speak of the classics in art, poetry literature and music, as if they all belonged to the same period of time. This, however, is not the case, asserts Henry Graves, Mus. B., L. R. A. M., in the Montreal Herald. The division of Greece and Rome are a thousand years older than the division of music. The earliest music (of a kind) was in all probability Egyptian, and we cannot form a correct idea of what it was like. We can only get some notion of it from the only scales that were then known. Harmony, as we understand the term, was unknown. Their conception of harmony was an accompaniment to voices of notes played an octave higher or lower, or a fifth or fourth below or above.

Hospital Superintendent Sues To Prevent Removal

Removed from his position as superintendent of the Western State Hospital at Hopkinsville Monday, effective immediately, Dr. E. L. Rooby, former superintendent of the Hopkinsville Monday night to prevent the department of public welfare board of control from putting the order into effect. Dr. L. D. Adams, medical director of the state reformatory, was named to succeed Dr. Ruby.

Dr. Ruby charged he was ordered removed because "I refused to collect 2 per cent of a year's salary of all employes of Western State Hospital to be used as a campaign fund for Thomas B. Rhea in the run-off primary. The fund amounted to $2,000 and was demanded of me by the board of public welfare." The suit pointed out no charges were placed against Dr. Ruby and that he was notified of the plan to remove him from office.

Governor Laffoon said he endorsed the board's action and denied Dr. Ruby was removed for political reasons. He said the superintendent was removed because he was "disloyal and unfit for confidential relations."

The Nicholas circuit court reconvened Tuesday morning after a recess of a week. All of Tuesday's session was taken up with the trial of Walter Williams, negro, charged with the slaying of Walter Harris in Hueysie several weeks ago.

Tuesday morning Judge Dedman suspended sentences of Clifton Kerns and Jim McCoety, each under sentence of one year for stealing chickens. Kerns and McCarty entered pleas of guilty to the charge last week and were given sentences of one year each.

Walter Williams, negro, charged with the slaying of Walter Harris, negro, in Hueysie several weeks ago in September 1934 was acquitted. Mrs. Harris testified that her husband was shot and fatally wounded.

HARRISON BOWLES KILLED BY TRAIN SATURDAY NIGHT

Mother Finds Body of Young Man Lying Alongside Tracks Sunday

BOTH LEGS SEVERED

With both legs cut off below the knees, the body of Harrison Bowles, 26 years old, of Mercy Station, was found alongside the railroad tracks by his mother, Mrs. Emma Bowles, about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The body was struck by a freight train about 9 o'clock Saturday night and is thought to have been killed instantly. He left Carlisle, according to several witnesses, after the night passenger train had passed through Carlisle, and was evidently on his way home when he was struck by the special freight train, traveling from Maysville to Paris.

Mrs. Bowles, searching along the track Sunday morning, was met by one by another of her children, came upon the body, which was in a curve about 100 yards from the corporate limits from Carlisle.

Coroner B. M. McKinney was notified and conducted an investigation. Mr. McKinney stated that it appeared that Bowles had met his death as the result of being struck by the train. He will conduct a formal inquest later.

Ed Bowles, father of the victim, was fatally injured about ten years ago when he was struck by a truck on which he was riding, collided with Carlisle. Besides Harrison, Mrs. Bowles is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were held at the grave in the Carlisle cemetery Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. P. Dees, presiding elder of the Maysville district of the M. E. Church, South.
