Urges Repeal Of Farm Laws

President Asks Congress To Remove AAA Legislation From Statute Books

In a brief message to Congress Monday, President Roosevelt recommended that three of the four remaining Agricultural Adjustment laws be repealed and removed from the statute books. The phases of the law which the President urged removed were the Bankhead Cotton Control act, the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Control act, and the potato control act.

Congressional leaders moved quickly to carry out the recommendations of the President and new farm legislation was advanced on all fronts.

"This recommendation is made," Mr. Roosevelt said, "because of the termination of the program of agricultural production adjustment under the act of May 12, 1933, as amended, known as the Agricultural Adjustment act to which the three acts mentioned were auxiliaries."

Capitol Hill spokesmen agreed this should be done. Senator Russell, of Georgia, introduced a bill to repeal the Bankhead law soon after the message was read. Chairman Jones of the House Agricultural Committee, said he would introduce repealers for all three laws as soon as possible.

It has been generally recognized in administration circles that the three laws were doomed by the Supreme Court's AAA decision. Most administration leaders, however, enfored the sugar act was not disturbed.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, said he didn't see "any value" in keeping the three laws on the books. He added the cotton law which he sponsored, had served a purpose in the cotton belt "far more favorable than any purely cooperative program."

Senator George, of Georgia, said repeal "would cause confusion among farmers and in the industry generally. They have adjusted their jobs full anyway," he added. "They ought to have been repealed immediately after the court decision."

Reelection Of Roosevelt Urged By Governors

The renomination and reelection of Franklin D. Roosevelt were urged by Gov. Herbert Maw, of Utah, and Gov. A. B. Chandler in addresses at a rally sponsored by the Young Men's Democratic Clubs of Kentucky Tuesday night at Woodland auditorium in Washington.

Characterizing the program of the President as "A Subsidy to Humanity," Governor Chandler said that the failure and panic of the depression years had been averted by the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt. Franklin D. Roosevelt, that historic name will be submitted for reinvestment.

"Think of the dark days of the panic of the days when thousands of men were walking the streets, homeless, begging for help and no help was forthcoming," declared Governor Chandler. "Governor Morrison was not elected. After considering the situation the people of Kentucky decided to turn over the administration of the affairs of the state to Governor Laffoon. Governor Laffoon, who have returned from the battle fields of France, covered with glory, signs of hope for better times were discerned."

THE CARLISLE MERCURY

VOLUME LXX. ESTABLISHED 1867 CARLISLE, NICHOLAS COUNTY, KY., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1936 PUBLISHED WEEKLY NUMBER 7

TEN CONVICTS WHO FLED REFORMATORY ARE ALL CAPTURED

Four Captured By Posse In Lee County; Six Others Taken In Owen

TWO MAY GET DEATH

Ten convicts who escaped from the Frankfort Reformatory Friday and Saturday after they had cut dashes from the prison were all recaptured and are back in prison, and State state will try to send at least two of them to the electric chair for armed robbery committed during their short freedom.

The four who escaped Friday were John C. Morris, 28, serving a life sentence for armed robbery in having stolen weapons in breaking and entering, and three others last year while serving a sentence for bank robbery; Jesse Anderson, 23, a life termer from Breathitt county; Ed Hurst, 21, a life termer from Lee county, and Clarence Crawford, 26, Fayette county, serving 13 years for forgery and escape last Aug ust. Hurst is from Breathitt county but was sentenced in Henry county.

After terrorizing the Blue Grass section for several days last August Morris and his two fellow companions were captured at Ashland when they were surprised by a posse of policemen while eating in a restaurant. Morris was leader of the break last August and is believed to have been responsible for the break.

The four men seized Luther Dunn, night guard captain, and handcuffed him when he went into the hospital at about 4:30 o'clock Friday morning at their call. One of them attired in Dunn's coat, boldly walked up to guard Robert Wells at the gate Wells was slugged and the four seized guns and ammunition. They telephone for a cab and when it came, forced out the driver and escaped. Several motorists were held up and robbed of their car until they reached about 9 o'clock Friday morning after the taxicab had gone into a ditch. The car was finally abandoned near Mt. Sterling, where the convicts stole a pickup car belonging to Harry G. Enoch.

The prison break reverberated through the state government Friday, with charges and counter assertions attributed to prison guards that the prison force had been reduced were "a damned lie." The House of Representatives voted down a resolution to order a legislative investigation of the prison.

Morris, Crawford, Cosmer and Anderson were captured in the posse of Lee county officers, headed by Sheriff Chester Smith at the farm home of Dave Cooper, father of the escaped convict, at Athel, Lee county, Friday afternoon and were recaptured without the firing of a shot.

Six convicts escaped from the reformatory Saturday morning in a truck. They were Lawrence Taylor, 21, serving life for robbery; Dewey Caudill, 21, serving life for murder; Logan Leasure, serving life for robbery; his brother, Jesse Leasure, serving life for murder; Orval Pearson, 21, serving life for murder, and Vernie Griffin, 26, serving life for forgery. All of the men were captured in Owen county by state patrolmen early Friday night and the other three were caught in a barn Sunday morning.

Crawford and Morris, both of whom have escaped before, may be executed for their last escapade.

Farmers May Get AAA Checks Soon

Benefit Payments Stopped On January 6 To Be Resumed Immediately

The flow of AAA benefit checks to farmers may be started within this week.

Anticipating an early signature by President Roosevelt of the compromise with adjustment contracts up to the Supreme Court's invalidation of AAA, the Farm Administration prepared orders for payments totaling $600,000,000 with mailing checks to contract signers.

Officials say they will put in motion once more the check machine that stalled to a halt early January 6, are to be sent im mediately after Roosevelt signs the proclamation bill.

Congress leaders pushed the farm relief bill in an effort to get it through both houses before Saturday. Then they hope for quick action on such remaining issues as taxes, with the idea of adjourning Congress by May 1 at the latest.

ATTENDED 413 COURT DAYS

W. S. Gaunce Has Missed But One In 37 Years

Mr. W. S. Gaunce, farmer of the Saltwell section, while in The Mercury office Monday reminded us that February court day 37 years ago, in 1899, was the coldest day in regard in Kentucky, the thermometer being reported at 38 degrees below zero.

Mr. Gaunce said he rode horseback to Carlisle from his home that day, a distance of almost fourteen miles, to purchase the farm where he now is. He was almost frozen when he arrived here, but after "thawing out," braved the weather and returned home safely.

In the conversation he also related what is probably a record unequaled by any other citizen of the county. Since February court day in 1899, Mr. Gaunce said he had missed but one court day in Carlisle but one time. Court day has occurred 111 times in the 37 years with that one exception. Mr. Gaunce has been in Carlisle on court day during four or five years ago he was ill at that time and was forced to come to Carlisle on one court day.

Former Vice President Charles Curtis Dies

Curtis was born in the Kaw Indian reservation in Kansas and was part Indian. He entered politics in Kansas 40 years ago as a prosecuting attorney and was sent from that office to Congress, later becoming Senator. He resigned his senate seat to become Vice President and had exerted a wide influence in mid-west Republican politics.

Compulsory Primary Measure Made Law

The compulsory single primary bill became a law Thursday when Gov. A. B. Chandler signed it although he has not declared that he called the legislature in special session to enact a compulsory primary measure.

The Governor affixed his signature to the bill in a ceremony in the state reception room, where he was surrounded by the Democratic members of the house and senate.

The measure eliminated the possibility of a double primary such as was held in 1931 when Governor Laffoon defeated Chandler by a majority of 1,400 votes.

The compulsory single primary measure was blocked by the Laffoon forces, which apparently had passed the double primary bill.

Stanley To Oppose Logan For Senate

Former Governor, Senator And Congressman Announces Candidacy

A. O. Stanley, former Senator and Governor, announced last week he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate in the August primaries.

He will oppose United States Senator M. M. Logan who has already announced he would be a candidate for re-election.

Stanley, a native of Shelbyville, Ky., practiced law in Flemingsburg and Henderson before entering public life as Congressman in 1912. He served as Congressman until 1915. He was elected Governor in 1919 and on the death of Senator Ollie James was nominated and elected his successor. He was defeated in 1923 for re-election.

Since then he has practiced law in Washington and now is a member of the United States Tariff Commission.

Stanley in his announcement said he would be a candidate on the platform of the Democratic party and a supporter of President Roosevelt and his record.

He praised President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull for their efforts to aid agriculture and the world trade policy.

He declared congress should break down "trade barriers that are bankrupting the world" and restore trade relationships which have been assiduously fostered by every great statesman, beginning from Jefferson to Roosevelt and which have ensured the prosperity not only of agriculture alone but of all other activities directly dependent upon it for its."

Remarking he had given "more than 20 years of his life to a study of agricultural problems, Stanley said, "I am convinced that at this time the field of my greatest usefulness lies in a return to the duties of a legislator."

Most Of Tobacco Markets To Close

Final Sales To Be Held On Majority Of Floors This Week

Most of the burley tobacco markets in Kentucky will close this week, with final sales Thursday or Friday.

Receipts during the past week were the lightest since the sales started on December 2, and receipts this week are expected to be even lighter.

No closing dates have been set for Lexington, Paris and Richmond, but it is probable that latter markets will close next week.

Farmers say tobacco has shown a steady decline in price since the AAA was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, and that prices are from $6 to $12 lower than at the opening of the season, although these lower averages are hardly consistent with averages of markets.

Parts of a few crops in the county remain to be stripped, according to reports, farmers being unable to strip much last since Christmas, especially where they had no stripping room.

Legislature To End Saturday

First Of Special Sessions Is Expected To Be Called Week Later

The regular session of the Kentucky general assembly will end next Saturday night, but Governor Chandler is expected to call the legislators into the first of special sessions a week or ten days later.

Most of the legislation to be passed this week will hinge upon the Senate, where a number of the Governor's important measures are awaiting final action.

At present, it is said, three special sessions are under consideration, the first to provide recognization of the state government, the second to plan a two year period for the next years and the third to solve the problem of raising revenue necessary to carry on the state government.

As the final week of the regular session nears an end, the Governor has met with a single major rebuff in what he has asked of the assembly, and on the other hand, all of the administration measures have been passed by big majorities.

The real test of the Governor's power is expected to come at the special sessions, especially when the revenue raising measures are enacted.

100,000 Houses Built In U. S. Last Year

The housing market has shown a decided improvement. The low point was reached in 1932 with about 30,000 houses built. 1936 promises to attain from 80 to 90 per cent of the 1925 peak, according to reports in this field of building activity. Reports by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and by the Federal Housing Administration tend to warrant such a prediction.

It is reasonable to assume that this "boom" has substantial background and is likely to continue for some time. The housing shortage is more than double what it was at the end of the World War—conservatively estimated, at 2,000,000.

Secretary Perkins Says Business, Labor On Mend

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins said Monday labor and business were on "a rising curve." She attributed the rise to administration measures.

Secretary Perkins told a Colby College institute the Roosevelt administration recovery program "was proving successful" and "approximately 5,000,000 men and women, who were without jobs in 1933, have since been given remunerative jobs or restored to private industry."

"More than 4,000,000 persons she said, have found work on PWA construction projects ex ecutive camps, on state road work and on WPA jobs."

The December weekly payroll for industry, surveyed by the Labor Department, was 8.2 per cent higher than the weekly payroll in March, 1933, when President Roosevelt took office, representing "an increase of more than fifty per cent from the low point of the depression."

Factory employment for the first ten months of 1935 was more than a billion dollars greater, she said, than in the same period in 1933.

"Administration measures to raise wages, shorten hours, improve farm prices, increase purchasing power and to aid the banks and railroads have been primarily responsible for improved conditions and indicate that the substantial progress already made will continue," she said.

THEORY DEBUNKED

Groundhogs Did Not Come From Hiding Feb. 2

The much heralded trek of the groundhog from his winter's subsistence in the Cauldneas Day is still and humbug another superstition that should be discarded, Joe Holland, former of the Blue Licks section, believes.

Mr. Holland said a groundhog had come into his cabin while at the barn on ground hog day, he decided to see if his hoggship had emerged. Digging into the snow about two inches, he found two groundhogs curled up within three or four feet of each other.

Both were in a stupor and showed no signs of having moved from their beds. Mr. Holland lifted them out of the bed, threw them on the ground and tried to rouse them without success. Even when a dog attacked them the animals did not stir, so cold was the lethargy, and they were both killed by the dog without making any defense other than gritting their teeth.

So, at least two groundhogs failed to see their shadows on February 2.
