Quarantine Against Corn Borer Applied By Ferguson

Kentucky farmers who have bought seed corn in Ohio or Indiana this year have shelled and tested it to determine whether it is free from the corn borer.

The quarantine established by Commissioner Ferguson applies not only to corn from Ohio and Indiana but from the New England states, Michigan, New York, New Jersey and West Virginia. It applies also to beans in the pod, cut flowers, cut corn plants, sorghum stalks or Sudan grass, except the seed.

Common carriers are warned against bringing infected plants of the classes banned into Kentucky under penalty of the corn borer law passed by the Legislature in 1928.

ORCHARDS IN BLOOM

The trees are bathed in pink and white
Miraculously---over night---
And dandelions in golden throng
Rim like a tinkling stream along
Each patch of grass in park and lane.
Suggests of gold under our feet.

In the woods, the violets lie,
Carpets of pale blue fallen sky,
And trillium, with umbrella trim
Grow by the lake's ice, mossy brim
But far more beautiful than these
Are the flowers that close my eyes.

In May the world is drenched with light
When fruit trees dress in pink and white!
