THE HIGH COST OF COLDS

Estimating the high cost of colds has been one of the favorite pastimes of statisticians. It has been estimated that 100,000,000 people suffer from colds each year with a loss resulting from the absence of these figures, but the fact is that the loss is not only in the most expensive business of the world, but also in the most expensive business of the world.

In substituting honey for sugar in cooking it is necessary to reduce the amount of liquid used. If medium thick honey is used as a sugar substitute for all the sugar, reduce the liquid to one-half the amount. In baking a new home, use the same amount of liquid as in the old one. The liquid should be used in the same amount as in the old one.
