Duties Of County Judge Are Found To Be Tiresome

tain a warrant for the guilty persons and indignantly hangs up the receiver muttering something about officials not doing their duty.

A young girl is brought into the office by an officer, who tells the Judge she is guilty of unbecoming conduct. The Judge learns from questioning that she lives in another town. She has ignored a previous warning to stay at home and is given her choice of spending 30 days in jail or leaving town, and she reluctantly accepts the latter sentence.

In the interim, several friends come in and exchange friendly greetings with the official, but their visits are cut short by the arrival of an aged woman who wants "that family put out of my house." The law is explained to her, and she is not satisfied because the family cannot be moved today. The Judge finally agrees to talk to the family and try to induce them to move without court procedure.

A colored woman enters and wants the Judge to "talk" to her husband again. It seems he spends his money for liquor and in other ways rather than for replenishing a larder emptied by six or seven hungry little mouths. The other "talking" of the day is helped for several weeks, she said. She is assured the performance will be repeated.

Many others call throughout the day, with requests for everything from school books to the loan of road machinery for chain ping ponds. In the short intervals when he has no visitors the Judge transacts the necessary business of his office.

Mild mannered, even tempered, indefatigable, Judge Curry appears equal to all occasions, although at times his patience becomes strained and he "lays down the law."

PRATHER HALL

The parable of the wheat and the tares was explained to the disciples of Hyperites who take their parables from other books, and was one given among the twelve disciples. The gospels are not expressed in the later years of the Pentecostal era. They will flourish in the last days, and perish in the judgments which Mankind will receive. Mankind, like darnel, is a menace to the wheat. Jesus in the minister himself is confirmed by the place it gives to the birds. In the first parable the birds represent the wicked spirits in their opposition to our Lord's ministry. In the parable of mustard they actually take their place in the kingdom of God. Jesus is the seed there will be an exceedingly rapid development of the kingdom of heaven, which will be like fable fashion, which destroys the seed of the word. The birds build their nests, and supports and protects them. Hay thither and Forard therefore, is considered harmless.

H. Varieties

Culex—Do not carry disease. (Pesta)

I. Anopholes—Responsible for malaria.

C. Stegomyia—Responsible for yellow fever.

Nine general hundred kinds. The three listed above are most important. Only two in Kentucky, Culex and Anopholes.

Distinguishing factors — Culex rests in a humped backed position, with its abdomen parallel to the surface of support. Have transparent wings.

Anopholes, with head, body and tail in a straight line, makes an angle with the surface on which it is resting. Have brownish wings.

Stegomyia, rest in approximately same position as Culex. Have yellow spots on wings.

III. Pathology.—Organism is transmitted from man to man by puncture of the female mosquito. When a mosquito has sucked into its mouth the blood of an infected person, the saliva which it injects into the next person, lastes will pass on the disease producing germ. The reaction of the host depends largely upon the person susceptibility, the dose received, and the condition of the blood. The reaction is quite severe. If the infected person happens to have syphilis it is also available to scratch any insect bite as an infection may result while would cause far more serious results than the bite alone.

IV. Control: Mosquitoes breed in stagnant water, ponds, rain barrels, etc. etc. Fever mosquitoes or stock water with sun fish.

The preferred method of control is to fill in depressions in the surface of the water has also proven to be satisfactory. The mosquito fish is also highly recommended for temporary relief. Screening of houses and buildings is also very effective. Smudge fires are also recommended. Many of the people are ignorant about their likes and dislikes, regarding odors, tastes, etc.

THE CARLISLE MERCURY

VOLUME LXX. ESTABLISHED 1867 CARLISLE, NICHOLAS COUNTY, KY., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1936 PUBLISHED WEEKLY NUMBER 46

SUPERVISORS WILL COMPLETE WORK IN COUNTY THIS WEEK

1300 Farms Have Been Visited By Supervisors During Past Four Weeks

CROPS BELOW NORMAL

Supervisors for the Nicholas County Agricultural Conservation Association will complete their work this week, according to Arthur Mullikin, County Supervisor.

The field supervisors taking 1936 Performance Records are W. S. Atkinson, H. T. Letton, C. C. Crockett, O. C. Rankin, Lavell Hollar, Walter Shepherd, R. B. Brierly, H. S. Clay Henry, Charles Ishmael, Henry L. Herndon, B. S. Stephenson, Clayton Huddleson, R. M. Hildreth, Howard Curry, Julian Atkinson, Oren Ray Griffin, Henry Letcher and Carl Ishmael.

During the past four weeks these men have inspected 1300 farms, prepared maps of each and secured estimated the acreage of soil depleting and soil conserving crops. The data will be sent to the Washington AAA office, visited the county late last week, and complimented the work of the Nicholas County Association.

As soon as these records are tabulated in the county office, the County Agricultural Agent will notify each farmer taking part in the program as to what he has earned and what he can still earn.

According to records at the county office many farmers have increased the acreage of corn this year, but the majority of crops are far below normal as a result of the drought. With this in view, it is believed that payments under the program will be of great need this winter. Efforts are being made to have the checks and get payments to farmers at the earliest possible time.

Two types of payments are being made, and are called Class 1 and Class 2 payments. The Class 1 payments consist of payments for reducing tobacco and grain crops. The tobacco payment can not exceed 30 per cent of the base set up for the farm and the grain reduction payment can not exceed 15 per cent of the base set up for the farm.

Class 2 payments are made for the carrying out of soil building practices in the form of acreage in legume crops, blue grass, orchard grass, redtop or for the use of lime and phosphate on soil conserving crops.

Farms may earn a soil building payment equal to one dollar per acre on the basis of 1935 soil building practices.

The County Agent is now notifying farmers how much of the payments they have earned and how much they can still earn before October 31, 1936.

Most seedings of grass have been made in the spring but fall seeding of bluegrass, orchard grass, and redtop have been very satisfactory in this section. Although orchard grass is less winter hardy than the bluegrasses, it has been found that fall seedings do better during the cool moist weather, than spring seedings followed by warm dry ages these crops. The land used for fall seedings should be seeded to a cover crop as soon as the emergency crop is taken off.

State Income Is Far Ahead Of Allotments

The financial position of the Commonwealth, Controller Frank D. Peterson of the Department of Finance said in a report Gov. A. B. Chandler made public Friday, "is sound" and "steps are being taken" to check a few agencies that have been spending out of proportion to their allotments.

The report covered July and August, the first two months of the fiscal year. Anticipated receipts for the quarter, the report showed, exceed allotments by $409,906.48.

"Our allotments for the first quarter amounted to $5,507,093.52," the report said. "We anticipate receipts for the first quarter, as attested to by the Department of Revenue, in excess of $5,500,000. The summary further showing that during the first two months of the current year we have charged and disbursed $1,744,-243.29 with available balances for the various agencies for the month of September of $3,145,771.63."

John G. Winant, former Republican Governor of New Hampshire, will answer Landon on Social Security.

Senator Tom Connally Of Texas--Fightn'st Senator-- Will Speak At Democratic Opening Rally Saturday

Preparations to take care of one of the largest political gatherings ever held in Kentucky are spoken men in Democratic campaign opening to be held at Lexington Saturday afternoon, according to T. Monroe Swinford, Chairman of the Kenton County Campaign Committee. Many large delegations, traveling by automobile and special train, are expected to attend the opening from Louisville, Central and Western Kentucky, it was stated. Huge numbers will pour into Covington from their neighboring counties. The meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. Central Standard time. A burgoo spread is being prepared.

Speakers will include U. S. Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, "the fightin'st senator who bears the reputation of being one of the plainest and most outspoken men in public life today. U. S. Senator Mills M. Logan and Governor A. B. Chandler, U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley will likewise be on hand if it is possible, according to John Kirkley, chairman of the Speakers Bureau.

Senator Connally, the fiery Texan, is expected to throw a withering fire against Republican arguments that the New Deal has failed the American people. The Texas Senator is now serving his second term in the upper branch of Congress and has the reputation of going "straight down the line" for President's policies. He will speak from the record, cite figures and "rail a spade a spade."

The Texas Senator, who was a member of the State Legislature and served ten years in Congress before being elected U. S. Senator started upon his colorful career as a newspaper reporter joining the Wm. Jennings Telephone upon his graduation from college in 1896. As member of the State Legislature he distinguished himself as one of the authors of the Goebel election contest law. Since being a member of Congress he has been a staunch defender of Democratic principles, a power in debate, a steadfast advocate of farm relief and the regulation of cotton exchanges. In the Senate he was named on the important foreign affairs committee and various special committees.

Senator Connally is a veteran of two wars. He volunteered his services in the Spanish-American War and rose from a buck private with the 2nd Texas Volunteers Infantry to regimental major. During the World War he left his seat in the Senate and, volunteering his services, was assigned to the 22nd Infantry Brigade, 11th Division with the rank of Captain.

During his campaign for Senator, Connally was so forthright in his speaking that he kept Texas editors wondering if they could put the stuff he said in the columns of their papers. He was christened Thomas Terry but all America knows him as "Tom" the fightin'st Senator Texas has turned in generations. He is a real Texan who has been described by one political writer in this fashion: "He is of the breed of Sam Houston, of the old Gov. Hogg type and something of the Joe Bailey in him."

From the foregoing it may be understood that Kentucky Democrats who attend the big opening in Covington have a real treat coming when the fiery Texan unleashes the thunder against the Republican opposition that now marked the New Deal efforts of President Roosevelt and his administration. From all indications the Texas Senator's remarks and the speeches of Gov. Chandler and Senator Logan will bring about a total eclipse of Republican pretensions and claims which they far have marked the G. O. P. bid for support of Kentucky voters in the present campaign.
