FROM OVER THE LINE

(By J. W. Rogers)

"There is a saying in the universe that is native to my blood, touch of nature, that is my heart is like a rhyme, with the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time."

Can the average reader see anything wrong with the above story? A man dreamed that he was in Prison, and that he was committed a crime for which he must pay the death penalty. He was wonderfully worked up. He gave the awful guillotine address for the purpose of severing his head from his body. Just as the executioner was about to press that fatal act, the maple tree gave him a mighty jerk to wake him from his troubled dream. He thought that was the guillotine, and died of fright instantly.

We asked a high school boy the other day, "What is the third and half third of a dollar?" He said he didn't know and that he never was good in fractions. He ought to know, it is a fair question.

If a man should ask you how many 3-cent stamps are there in a half dozen, what would you say?

Is there difference between Mississippi and Mississippi? What do you think? I will share you for one and throw in a cent. What? Do you think I will throw a cent? You bet I sing and throw in a dime.

Glad to note the promotion of Mr. Arnold Matson to Professor of Latin and Mathematics in high school. If you do your best in 21 days, he has the best chance to back to you.

Pretty lady that was seen on the streets of Carlisle last Saturday. As beautiful as she was, more beautiful one, what a beautiful dress she wore. But of course she was as ugly as the ugliest dress she wore. The same might be said of the men.

Little mountain now and then may be relished by the best of men.

Forty little urchins, running through the door, singing, pushing and pulling, and creating a din. Can't you keep more quiet, can't you mind the rule? Then this place is pleasant, learning, public school.

Our pastor, Rev. H. W. Lundy, will preach here next Sunday morning and night.

Mrs. Gusteller spent "2 kids" to meet on Sunday and he spent all of the week end with her last week while working them lowly. Then make me for both weeks sometimes. The kows and steers are into old man Simmons's cornfield and he knows it, you can't blame him for his part of the game. Martha Ferguson sent word to come quick and get my share out of her garden. This was eaten up everything. Must lady leave the gate open and the hogs get out on the rode and get off and my wife. Samantha sez many subjects though I can't be up to date this week days."

"Yours is the best flock of pullets I have inspected this year and I know I have seen five thousand."

Unquote.

This is what a prominent hatcheryman told Mr. E. T. Goffin, one of our leading poultrymen, when he visited his farm recently.

Mr. Goffin is a consistent user of

Tuxedo Feeds

and with the combination of his knowledge of poultry and the continued use of Tuxedo, why shouldn't he have the best flock of pullets in

Five Thousand

Mr. Goffin starts 'em on Tuxedo, he develops them on Tuxedo and he gets the premium eggs on Tuxedo.

Tuxedo Poultry Feeds will do for any good poultryman what it does for Mr. Goffin.

Social and Society

OCTOBER

(Stanley Finn Bartlett)

There's a whisper in the wood land.
There's a murmur in the brake.
There's a scarlet gypsy moppe.
Among the sumac lake.
There's a scarecrow in the corn field.
That's a spitkity with the chill.
O, there's a crimson in the river
And there's orange on the hill.
There's a tenseness in the evening
At the russet apples drop,
And the moonlight glistens red and low
On the corn and pumpkin crop.
There's a purple hush of asters
In the meadow, and the wall
Is ablaze with flaming streamers
For the carnival of fall.
