Use Cardboard To Insulate Cow Barn

Lined cardboard packing boxes, says Hardin Spencer, county dairy farmer, made a good cow barn floor at the cost of a few tacks and a little labor, according to Carl M. Clifton, tester for the Boone county dairy herd improvement association. Not a fancy job, but it did much to make the barn warmer, Mr. Clifton. Livestock farmers, especially dairymen, are in for results when animals are kept in warm, dry quarters, the manure made exposed to severe weather losses more than require there feed than do animals kept in well laid cases and low temperatures.

CENTRAL KENTUCKY HIGH SCHOOLS MAY ABOLISH FOOTBALL

High Cost Of Officials And Equipment, Small Attendance Reasons

CONFERENCE IS HELD

The probable necessity of abolishing football as a high school sport in Central Kentucky high schools was discussed at length at a meeting of school superintendents, coaches and other school officials in the Carlisle high school cafeteria last Friday night. The meeting was called to discuss a situation which rapidly is assuming gigantic proportions in this section of the state.

The meeting Friday was second which has been held within the last two weeks and was attended by representatives of six of the largest schools in the Central Kentucky Conference, including E. F. Hutchel, superintendent of the Carlisle school.

Several questions were brought before the body at the last meeting but several school officials voiced the opinion at Friday's meeting that other sports could be procured from some other channels, their schools may be forced to give up the grid game. Most of the school heads voiced the view that football as a competitive sport, but, their coffers empty and unpaid bills staring them in the face, ask "Where is the money coming from?"

Several plans have been discussed at both meetings, which were held on the open forum plan with the understanding that representatives could not speak officially for their schools before bringing the matter before their respective boards of trustees.

That the situation is acute was shown when many of the officials said that they would buy no new equipment for next season—and might be forced to give up the grid game immediately. Others said that while they lost money during the last few years, they might be able to carry on for another season and "hope for a good year."

Bernie Shively, the University of Kentucky's new athletic director, met with the school heads Friday and urged them to do all within their power to retain football as a scholastic sport.

Superintendent Frankel told The Mercury Saturday that the high cost of obtaining officials for games and the tremendous cost of equipment are the two major factors which are making football almost prohibitive in high schools. He stated that the costs at least $30 to obtain officials for a game, the officials being required, each of whom receives $10 or more. The visiting team is given a guarantee to cover expenses, which will average around $50, making a total of $80 per game. Gate receipts are seldom sufficient to pay the officials and the visiting team, Mr. Frankel said.

In addition is the cost of equipment. It costs approximately $30 to equip each player on a team and with a string of approximately twenty players this amounts to considerable money. The price of equipment has steadily mounted until now it is almost out of reach.

Football has never been self-sustaining at Carlisle or most of the other schools in Central Kentucky, Superintendent Frankel said, carrying the football program, Mr. Plunkett said.

13TH DIONNE

A son, the thirteenth child, was born at 8:15 o'clock Monday night to Mrs. Dionne, the mother of the famous quintuplets. This is the fifth boy—the other eight were girls. Both mother and child are reported doing nicely.

All CCC Camps May Be Retained

The House Tuesday overrode earlier budget plans and voted $25 to 6 to appropriate $50,000,000 to continue 300 Civilian Conservation Corps camps which had been doomed to fall under the federal economy axe on July 1.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

The bill will permit the CCC to continue at its present 1,500-camp strength during the next fiscal year despite President Roosevelt's January request that 200 be eliminated in connection with his federal economy drive.

Millersburg Man Ends Own Life

Tom Sheeler Fatally Wounds Self In Front Of Store Last Thursday Night

Tom Sheeler, 53, Bourbon county contractor and owner of a store in Millersburg, shot and killed himself with a pistol in front of his place of business at 7:40 o'clock last Thursday night.

Mr. Sheeler, who had been in ill health for several years, had attempted to take his own life by taking poison a few hours earlier, but this attempt was frustrated when the poison container was taken away from him and destroyed.

Captain John W. Throckmorton, 90, native of Bourbon county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ethel Louisville and Nashville agent at Carlisle, Thursday, after a short illness. He was retired about six years ago after having been in the employ of the railroad company for more than 25 years and was widely known throughout this section.
