LIVING ARCHAEOLOGY

It is interesting to probe around the past and find out how things were done in a former time to pick up a few bits of old-fashioned life. In the past, the head of a household, whether he was a farmer or a craftsman, was the one who was responsible for the well-being of his family. He was the one who had to make decisions about the future of his family and the future of his community. This is the spirit of living archaeology, which is a study of the past through the study of the present. It is a study of the past through the study of the present. It is a study of the past through the study of the present.

THE GARDEN

LUXURIES III

By John G. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture. No lot of garden luxuries would be complete without apricots. For here is a luxury indeed, though not outside the reach of any gardener who wishes strongly enough to have it. The difficulty in having it lies in this, that the majority of so many gardeners is too short to bridge the gap between the apricot and the ground. In the season they are starting early, they are planting their apricots, and the time for enjoying their own fruit. That time is now. An apricot planting is a laborious affair or it will be if started correctly and managed properly. It is a laborious affair or it will be if started correctly and managed properly. ### Urging Feeding Sals

Mineral With Care. Reports of livestock losses recently caused by excessive feeding of mineral mixtures, containing salt, continue to reach the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. It is urged that farmers use mineral mixtures with care and not overfeed their livestock. It is urged that farmers use mineral mixtures with care and not overfeed their livestock.

Developing Carlisle's Greatest Asset

BETWEEN the ages of one month and twenty years there are probably one thousand boys and girls in Carlisle. Each boy and girl expects us to furnish good schools, clean entertainment, sanitary improvements—and opportunity. All things must come from the dollar that is spent at home. None of them can come from the dollar that is sent away from home.

Everything of every kind that helps Carlisle—helps you—helps every growing boy and girl in Carlisle.

You want any bigger reason why—
