Use Of Gasoline Not Much Affected By Rate Of Tax

The state gasoline tax in Kentucky does not appear to seriously influence consumption, Herbert Bourne, director of the Bureau of Public Roads, shows that the state ranks fifth in the percentage increase in consumption with the increase in the gasoline tax, and in states with tax rates above the average.

During 1937, 12 states increased their gasoline consumption by more than 10 per cent. In 10 of them the tax ranged from 4 to 7 cents. During the year 4 states increased the rate of tax to 7 cents so that the average rate for the United States rose from 6 cents in 1936 to 6.59 cents in 1937. Rates ranged from 2 cents in Delaware, the District of Columbia and Missouri to 7 cents in Florida, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The 6 states—New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Florida, Missouri and Tennessee—which received the largest amounts of gasoline tax money during 1937, consumption exceeding the receipts. For the United States for 1937 the 19,326,122,000 gallons consumed exceeded the receipts by 1,326,122,000 gallons, which the states collected. The total gasoline tax collections for the year 1937 brought the total to $762,709,000.

Lexington Youth Repudiates Confession To Murder

Patrick Stevens, 18-year-old Lexington youth serving a 10-year sentence in the Kentucky State penitentiary for burglary, last week repudiated a confession he gave to himself to Lexington officials in which he declared he killed Mrs. Mary Ellen Sullivan, 70, wealthy Lexington widow, who was found slain in the bedroom of her home on the night of March 11.

Stevens, in a statement to Commonwealth Attorney Ollie M. James, declared that he was forced to sign the confession by Lexington police after he had been beaten and questioned for 24 hours. He said he was not guilty of the murder but knew the guilty party.

Stevens was brought to Lexington from the penitentiary to testify at the trial of Lexington fullback, Carlton Shelley, charged with the murder.

Turkeys Don't Worry About Fat; Just Grow

Turkeys are different from hogs in one respect—in that they do not fatten, they merely grow, says Dr. J. Holmes Martin of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, in suggesting that farmers take advantage of comparatively cheap grains and keep the big birds growing until Thanksgiving or Christmas time.

Corn, wheat, oats and barley are good feeds for the big birds. He suggests a mixture of 200 pounds of mixed wheat feed or ground wheat, 100 pounds of ground yellow corn, 100 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of meat scrap and 5 pounds of salt. Both grain and mash should be self-fed.

GRASS PROTECTS DAMS

North Dakota farmers have a simple, inexpensive method of protecting earthen dams—built for soil and water conservation—from erosion, according to the Soil Conservation Service. Where rock or other material is not available for riprapping, they plant prairie sod, or "well diggers" grass, on the dam and spillway. The grass grows profusely wherever there is abundant moisture, and provides excellent protection against washing.

C. C. C., MOOREFIELD TIED; PLAYOFF GAME IS SET FOR TUESDAY

Gulf, Standard Tilt, Rained Out, To Be Played Off This Friday

TITLE SERIES SEPT. 2ND.

By virtue of a 9-8 and 7-6 over the National Guards, and eliminating the latter from any possible chance at the second half's title, C. C. C. went into a tie for the league lead with Moorefield.

League officials said that Moorefield and the C. C. C. would play off the second half lead and engage in the second game next Tuesday night, the first game with an out-of-town team, possibly Georgetown, will feature the evening's ball.

The Federal boys, playing a good brand of ball, found their batting eyes at the right time, and collected nine hits while the Guards collected only four.

C. C. C. scored their runs with two in the third inning, four in the fourth and one in the seventh. Moorefield scored their runs, one in the first inning, and three in the fourth inning.

In the other half of the ball game Gulf and Standard were forced to stop play when, after seven innings had been played, poured down and muddied the field, driving the fans to the exits.

Last Friday night Moorefield won over Pepper 13 to 6, while beating the Elks in the AM-star 3 to 6.

Because of the Tuesday postponement Gulf and Standard will play their second game of the season on Thursday and Pepper plays a postponed tilt on the first half of the ball.

The series for the league title between winners of the various halves will start Friday, September 2.

Bates Issued Thanks To Voters Of Nicholas

Congressman Joe B. Bates, Greenup, Democratic nominee for Eighth Congressional District seat, has issued a statement thanking Judge Fred M. Vinson and other Democratic candidates for nomination in the recent primary, and the constituents in Nicholas county for their support. The statement in the form of a letter to the Mercury which is published in the Carlisle Mercury.

Dear Sir:—

I wish to express through the columns of your paper my sincere thanks for the support given me in the Democratic primary held Saturday, August 6th. Such a splendid vote could not have been received except by the hard work of the splendid democrats I am glad to say that there was no ill feeling created during the campaign. I have always contended and refused to make any comments against any of my opponents.

I now feel that the duty of every democrat to get behind the nominees and work for a splendid victory in November, and I feel certain that the five gentlemen who ran against me will be found supporting the democrats of this District and will live up to the standards which have been set by my predecessor and give to this District an overwhelming majority.

Sincerely yours,
