Stutes' Buildings at New York Fair

NEW YORK—This sketch was made from first plans for the Count of the State Buildings at the New York Fair 1937. Here the various features of the main, most of which have taken over for their display, will exhibit their natural advantages and industrial accomplishments. The flag-hub section is shown above. There will also be French and Spanish areas.

Beware the Chiseler

When you buy on price you can never be sure. It's untrue to say too much BUT IT IS TRUE TO SAY TOO LITTLE. BUT WHEN YOU BUY TOY LOTTERY EVERYTHING, because the thing you have bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought for. The law of averages hits you a little and getting a lot. IT CAN'T BE DONE.
