FROM OVER THE LINE

(By J. W. Rogers)

March is here. "A cloudy stream is flowing, and a hard steel blast is blowing."

It was our special pleasure to meet Mr. William W. Tapp a Sunday visitor at Nicholas county but now of Bourbon county, a few days ago, for the first time, "by providence" and not by chance is to like them. He has a good wife, noble and true; of such good women there are only a few. He has several grown boys and I recall his little daughter, Margaret, is the youngest of all.

I recall that he said that Nicholas county is rich in historic lore. Think of the Old Log Cabin built by Daniel Boone, of the famous "Blue Licks," of Daniel Boone's creek, the first county in Kentucky, being lost in, and recovered from the Licking river, of the old apple tree on the farm of ex-Governor Metcalfe, the largest and oldest ever known in the state, or even in the U. S., whose spreading branches cover an area of 60 feet across, or 180 feet in circumference, and the first wagon ever built in Kentucky, being drawn from Lexington to Maysville, through Nicholas county. Many other interesting things and persons might be named.

This world is so full of so many good things, why should we all be as happy as kings?

"Don't you know? Don't you know that no one ought to do? when he has a little family depending on him. He ought to be a man and do the best he can, for Mollie and the baby, don't you know?

Silas Gunderfost says I have had lots of hot luck during the winter, but the worst was when 9 bushels of wheat I ought to but different pigments. Tell the truth, my fat hog died with the kolery. I had em sold but they died before I got em. That was my hot luck. Last summer I made a contract with Jim Cliff and killed herself and when I went to get my money I got split in half for loose use and there was a snag hole in the hide where it was worth the most. Our last Hyrum was down with the shakin sickness and I made a poker ball. Then to begin to meetin Sunday, and it got there just two late, sometimes I have a inclination to quit the meetin and then again I don't. I recall how one day for me not to do it as it would cost our girls getting married. I don't want to do any thing that was make the gals and boys mad. I will have to stand by the old church.

WAITING

(John Burroughs)

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind nor tide nor sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays—
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me,
No wind can drive my bark astray
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder height;
So from the good with equal law
Unto the sound of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

AMBER FROM EGYPT

(Agnes Grey)

Caught in this chain of amber lies The sunlight of Egyptian skies, The polished globes as warmly shine

As aged and honey-colored wine, Or circlet of Saharan stars Interpreted for dark in night's bazaars.

A beaded flash of Pharoh's gold, Those threaded moons of amber hold.

And if lift the precious strand, I grasp all Cairo in my hand.

Locked against bead clear tinkling tells

A distant tale of tiny donkey's bells.

On the low arched and latticed street,

Caught in this chain of amber lies The sunlight of Egyptian skies.
