BALD HILL

(Laura O. Dotson, Cor.)

Mr. and Mrs. John Kenney and wife of Maysville, came in Sunday to spend the winter with their son, Jack Kenney and wife, of this community.

G. T. Wagoner and wife, Mrs. Harve Sherman and daughter, of Cane Ridge, Bourbon county, Mrs. Lillie Ritchie and mother, Mrs. Clarinetta Jones, of Paris, Hill Green and family, of Cane Run, Homer Carr Harden, of Lexington, were at the bedside Sunday of Mrs. Grace Harden who was taken ill unexpectedly last Friday, and is not much improved at this writing.

Otherwise, our community seems to be at normal, the children being in school, the women finishing their fall work, the men interested in their tobacco, and most all interested in the two churches which at present are having Sunday school and communion each Sunday morning.

Bro. Scott preaches over WLAP each Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. Tune in.

The state's total apple crop this season is 801,000 bushels compared to the state's total apple crop of 1,870,000 bushels in 1937.

Couldn't Sell Farm For $1,700 Refuses $5,000

Madisonville, Ky.—J. P. Miles, Madisonville grocer, who unsuccessfully tried for several years to sell a fifty-acre Henderson farm, near Reed, for $1,500, declined a $5,000 offer as an interest in oil royalties in the same tract when oil was discovered on the J. T. Griffith tract, adjoining the Miles farm.

The $5,000 offer was made to Miles after a 500-barrel-a-day well was brought in by Mackenzie & McSweeney. Owensboro, who moved their rig 600 feet to the Miles holdings to begin drilling for oil Wednesday.

The Miles farm was formerly the site of Carlinburg, a "ghost town," owned by the late T. S. Vanoia, father of Mrs. Miles. The town has reverted to farm land since the town was abandoned.

State Department Is Certifying Agent

Dr. W. T. Pennington, chief of the Kentucky Department of Labor, announced this week the state department has been appointed as the certifying agency for Kentucky under the federal wage-hour law.

As a result, he said, employment certificates or permits issued by the Kentucky department will have the "same force and effect" as federal age certificates required for employees, between 16 and 18 years of age, who work in establishments shipping goods in interstate commerce.

Sheep Experts Speak At The U. Of Kentucky

A demonstration in curing foot-rot in sheep and discussions of the growing and use of pastures for a more economical production of sheep raising featured a meeting of sheep raisers at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Thursday, about 225 men and "women" attended.

In the afternoon, Jack Dalton, shepherd at Hartland Farms, Lexington, discussed "Sheep Parasites, the treatment of footrot, worms and internal parasites and a tour from one pasture to another county. Lack of proper preparation of the feed bed before sowing off the food and exposing the infected parts often to the sunshine is the footrot disease, he said.

Speakers discussed experiences with grass mixtures for sheep, grazing sheep on alfalfa, R. E. Hudson and H. M. Roseberry, Bourbon county; Henry Bosaden and Lambert Quisenberry, Scott county; W. T. Forsee, Owen county; Ernest Hall, Harrison county; Walter Sousley, Fleming county; H. M. Stephenson, Grant county, and W. C. Johnstone and K. S. Feagin of the College of Agriculture and Home Ec. Miller of the college presided at the meeting.

After the meeting, the visiting farmers viewed the show flock which Harold Barber, shepherd at the Experiment Station, has prepared for exhibition at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. The flock will be shipped out next week. It includes a yearling Southdown wether, eight Southdown ram lambs, a Southdown ram lamb, three Hampshire wether lambs, three yearling Cheviot wethers and five Cheviot wether lambs. A yearling cross-bred ram and two cross-bred wether lambs. The sheep will be sold at the Chicago show two Aiuns yearling steers, a yearling Hereford steer and a yearling Angus steer and heifers. The steers were fitted by John Fraser, Experiment Station herdsman.

SANITARY SYSTEM HALTS MILK LOSS

Extreme Care Is Urged in Cleanliness of Cows.

By John A. Arnett, Extension Dairyman, University of Kentucky, College of Agriculture.

Dairymen lose thousands of dollars each summer as a result of not handling their milk properly. Milk spoils so easily contamination is allowed, every person connected with the milk should be clean in his methods. When dirt from healthy cows, few bacteria may be found in it.

Milk souring is caused by bacteria changing milk sugar into lactic acid. It is impossible to remove these bacteria by straining, as many people think.

Milk receives most of its contamination from the body of the cow during milking. Therefore, it is essential that all parts of the animal's body be kept clean and well groomed.

Then, too, the milker's hands may be a source of contamination and they should be clean and dry during the milking process.

Small top pails have proven effective in doing down the number of bacteria that enter while the cow is being milked. Dairymen should clean their pails with extreme care as one of the easiest and cheapest methods of controlling the bacteria in good milk.

All containers used in handling milk should be of metal with all corners and seams completely filled with solder. To clean these containers thoroughly they should first be rinsed in cold water, then scrubbed with a brush in water of the same temperature as that in the rinsing process in which a good grade of washing powder has been added. After washing, sterilize with steam and store in a clean place.

Milk should be cooled immediately after the milking process and held at a temperature of below 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Horses Need Water, Salt During the Hot Weather

Water and salt enable horses to do more work in hot weather.

A drink of water every hour in the hot days of summer will help horses salt the horses want at the barn or in the pasture at night, and the reasonable attention by the driver enables horses to work steadily on very hot days, advises a writer in Hoard's Dairyman.

Water in demand special attention during summer months. Feeds from work mares would too hard if they follow in the field. A fresh pail of water kept in the barn during the day and turned on sparingly in the mare at night. A good plan is to bring the mare in to feed in the South-East in the morning and afternoon while the foal is young.

Keep grasser care of the horse's feet to prevent lameness is always of paramount importance but a horse is not a serviceable horse. Feet should be trimed frequently and excessive growth should be removed to prevent breaks and thus causing the horse to become tender and to prevent both toe and heel corns.

Eight Breeds of Swine

In the United States there are two distinct classes of swine, the breeds of each class being of the bacon type. The plan of feeding has much to do with the class of market hogs produced. As an example, less corn and more meat and less fatty meat is the ration produces bacon, rather than lard in young hogs. The hogs known as the Duroc-Jersey, Spotted Poland China, Chester White, Berkshire, Hampshire and Tamworth England China. Those known as the bacon breeds are the Tamworth and Yorkshire. These last named are the only hogs that are producing our bacon.

Starting Mash for Turkeys

Turkey growers may use home produced or purchase farm grown grains for a starting mash, if they are balanced with a good protein supplement, says a St. Paul university farm authority. Following is a starter recipe that can be mixed on the farm, provided all ingredients (expressed in pounds) are included: corn 21, wheat bran 10, flour mids 10, ground oats or barley 10, alfalfa leaf meal 15, meat scrap 20, soybean oil meal 10, dried buttermilk 3, steamed bone meal 2, cod liver oil 2.

Water Held by Corn Land

Soils used for producing a three-year rotation of corn, oats and red clover, lose about 1,100 tons of water per acre than if the same soils are used to produce corn continuously without any fertilizer, it has been found at the South Dakota experiment station. If lime, manure and phosphate are used with the rotation, the soil will hold 46,500 more gallons of water per acre than when corn is grown continuously.

Great Nose Indicates Great Man

A great nose indicates a great man—genial, courteous, intellectual, gentle, courageous, is a quotation from Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Jackson Had Adopted Son

President Jackson had no children, but he adopted one of Mrs. Jackson's sister's children, a boy, who was named Andrew Jackson Jr., and who inherited the general's estate.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

This season of the year when most of the farmers are busy gathering their crops, and the leaves start falling, men roll and tumble in the fields believing all the fun of being a carefree boy. It is quite a familiar sound to hear shouts coming from the morning by the ducks and geese while wading south and it's open season.

The State and Federal Government have also begun to get busy as the season opened the 15th of November and it will be busy from next. A big limit of 10 ducks each day with not more than 2 of any species is allowed in the Canvasback, 3 Redhead, etc. A bag limit of 15 coots a day with no time more than two days limit on the possession limit.

It is a good thing to remember that you must have your state hunting license with you before the 25th of this month, or you will not be legally protected. Director of Accounts and Control. The payment of approximately $1,300,000 will be made up by a deficit in the General Fund due to loss of revenue, as reported in the last column before.

On January 1st of this next year, workmen who, for the last three years, have been paying a percentage of their wages into the Government, will be eligible for benefits under the Social Security Unemployment Compensation Commission is getting ready for this, preparing to employ approximately 400 more people to handle the work of collections for this Unemployment Insurance.

They have been located to lease a new building here in Frankfort and will be ready for them by the first of the year, and will be used until the new state office building is completed.

Circuit Judge Will H. Fulton, of Hardinsburg, was sworn in as a member of the Court of Appeals last week. He succeeds the late Judge Virgil H. Baird, a popular and greatly admired member from Glasgow.

U. S. Minister To Nazis Brought Home To Confer

America's ambassador to Nazi Germany, Hugh Wilson, Wednesday, was on his way home on the Manhattan boat he could catch after an order from President Roosevelt directed him to return for a consultation about the fate of Jews in the third Reich.

Although no definite action was foreseen as a result of this move, some observers believed it was intended to give the Nazis a strong dose of disapproval with which the American government regards persecution of Hebrews in the homeland.

Unofficial reports have reached here that property of American Jews in Germany were damaged in the recent wholesale rioting, but these are without confirmation. No protest has been made as yet to the German government.

Nicholas Man Is Freed On Manslaughter Charge

Robert George, Nicholas county, was acquitted in a Montgomery county court last week on a charge of voluntary manslaughter growing out of a charge after the death last year of Mrs. Robert Havens in an accident.

Mrs. Havens' truck struck a buggy in which Mrs. Havens was riding on the Sharpsburg road. Attorneys for the defense pointed out that the Havens buggy was not equipped with a tail light, that George was blinded by the headlights of approaching autos until it was too late to avoid collision and that Mrs. Havens died in his car while being taken to the hospital.

New Head Appointed For Lexington Clinic

Dr. F. K. Foley, former federal physician connected with the United States Veterans Hospital at Lexington, has taken charge of the Eastern State Hospital at Lexington, Governor A. B. Chandler announced Monday after the resignation of Dr. J. L. Vallandingham was accepted.

The new head of the hospital assumed his duties immediately after his return from Frankfort Monday, relieving Dr. C. C. Phillips, clinical head of the institution, who has been managing the place.

Simultaneous with his assumption of control, the Fayette county grand jury, ordered into session by Circuit Judge King Swope, of Lexington, began its investigation of the hospital, with full instruction to investigate alleged abuses and to take action in whatever way they see fit.
