FROM OVER THE LINE

(J. W. Rogers)

We chanced to say, just the other day; we liked spare ribs and back bones very much. A friend said he never did eat them. We said why? He said he always ate the meat only and left the bones. As we travel the journey of life from earth to heaven, we hope to never meet a Nicholas county boy.

Stopped to hear two men talking about the earth, the street a few days ago. One said, "Sir, you are meaning looking man I ever saw." The other retorted, "Yes, and I'm a darned sight meaner than I look." We left.

"Heap on more wood! The wind is chill; But let it whistle as it will, We'll keep the Christmas merry, still."

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, the street a few ward men." Never in the world were these sacred words rang out from heavenly hosts than years ago, was there a time when the angels' song words were more intensively and extensively needed in the hearts of men, as now.

Let us "live to hail that season, by gifted minds foretold, when man shall live by reason, and not by gold; when man to man united, and every wrong be righted. The whole world shall be lighted, As Eden was of old."

THE FARM AND HOME

Two new Kentucky College of Agriculture circulars of interest to homemakers are "Wall Treatments in the Livable Home" and "Floor Coverings in the Livable Home." Both may be had free of cost by applying to county home demonstration agents.

Bees need no extra protection in most Kentucky winters, if the hives are behind windbreaks. Some beekeepers provide straw shields made of roofing paper. It is difficult to winter old bees. The bees should be young and have ample stores.

To waterproof shoes, melt together 12 ounces of tallow and 2 ounces of cod liver oil. Stir thoroughly and apply to the leather when warm but not hotter than the hand can bear. The sole

Nutmeg, cinnamon, caramel, chocolate, raisins, dates or cocoanut may be added to baked custard. Marshmallows may be placed on top of the custard. Plain custard may be served with any kind of fruit, or with jelly or jam.

It should be completely saturated.

It is not necessary to wait for freezing weather to butcher. A temperature of 30 to 36 degrees is sufficiently cool. Killing can be done on warmer days if there is a way to chill the carcass, but most any time after December 1 will do.

Apple Dumplings: Roll out pastry dough in rounds about the size of fruit plates. In the center of each place a pared and cored apple. Sprinkle the apple with a mixture of sugar, cinnamon, and a few grains of salt, and dot with butter. Fill the edges of the dough and press together. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

Nature balances things. If man is better than animals in one particular, he is worse in another.

Compliments Galore

There has never been a time when so many people are telling us "how good" is

White Rose Flour

We do not understand this sudden wave of popularity. But White Rose has always been good. It is more uniform, has more flavor and better baking qualities than any flour we know. We believe more people are beginning to realize this, they are talking about it, the good news spreads, and finally gets back to us.

Well, we certainly appreciate it, and will go right on making White Rose just as good as ever.

Christmas Play

By Katherine Edelman

THE town hall was wreathed with holly and mistletoe. Bright red bells hung from the old-fashioned chandeliers. Christmas candles sent their soft glow into the night. The place was all ready to welcome to the crowds who thronged through the doors.

By eight o'clock every seat was occupied. Small gossip and murmurs of expectancy ran through the crowd. The little town was proud of the boy who was taking the leading part in the play. They had known Ted Hastings all their lives. Known him as an easy-going lad, interested in nothing more than fishing and hunting and baseball in summer, and later as an astonishingly successful ambitious fellow. No one seemed to understand how the quick transformation occurred.

All eyes turned to the stage as the heavy curtain rolled upward. Three hundred pairs of eyes fastened themselves upon the moving, speaking figures. "Ian't Ted wonderful," every girl whispered breathlessly to each other. Between acts, then, the flow of applause filled the room. Hands met in loud acclaimence. Small boys made their appearance with floral tributes.

"Ted, you were perfectly wonderful." Sally was saying.

Ted earned the audience with every act. Every time he appeared to enter, to merge himself completely in the character of Scrooge, his make-believe was so convincing that it was difficult to draw a deep silence for a moment when the final curtain fell.

FOR the time it was no make-believe to Ted. He was living again all the agony of mind in seeing Sally Howard go away without a word. He had been sure until her train pulled out that she would come and say how sorry she was for the bitter, reproachful words she had flung at him. Words that had left their mark upon his character, making him into a mad, ambitious desire to show her what he could do.

He found no real satisfaction in the tumultuous applause that followed the play. He knew that in his heart cried out for Sally. If only she were here! If only she had cared! He scarcely knew what he was saying in answer to the hearty congratulations.

Wedding small hands pressing lightly around his arm, and a remembered voice spoke in his ear. "Ted, you were perfectly wonderful. Sally was saying, "wonderful. Wonderful. You've proved your point to me."

"Point, Sally, I don't understand. I thought you were in New York."

"I was, until yesterday. I've been keeping track of you. I knew all about the play, and—and the way you have been working lately. I wouldn't have missed this for anything in the world."

"But the things you said, Sally? They hurt—they still do."

"I wanted them to hurt, Ted. I know—I know it was cruel, but there seemed no other way. Someone had to give you the right kind of push to get you going. You know you were really lazy. But now, well, you're really put on speed."

"Nothing like the speed I'm going to show in getting ready for a Christmas eve cake. Mother's been in Hungary, Speculaas in Holland, and Lutfisk in Sweden.

Getting a Shoeful in Holland

Not on reindeer but on a white horse St. Nicholas arrives in some parts of Holland, and instead of looking for stockings he searches for shoes in which to fill them with gifts.

Judge J. B. Ross suffered painful bruises on his face and was shaken up Saturday when his automobile collided with another car as he was returning home from Lexington. Mr. Ross was following another car when the driver stopped without warning near Elmendorf Farm and Mr. Ross, who was driving, ran into the rear end of the car. The car of Mr. Ross was badly damaged. After receiving treatment at the office of a Lexington physician he was able to return home.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

(John A. Buxton)

She prayed that night for her newborn son
Who nestled his head on her breast.
Would he ever hold an army gun
And go to the war as a soldier?

Again she prayer for her grown-up boy,
Who marched with the boys that were leaving.
She heard the crowd in their cheers of joy,
While mothers were silently grieving.

Was this her dream of what might have been
A life full of honor and glory?
Or in the battle of horrid sin
A victim there mangled and gory?

Dreaming of babe in the manger
Of
Christ in her vision survived the cross
Knowing this woman was there
When she awakened on Christmas morning
There came her boy without hurt or loss.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

(John A. Buxton)

She prayed that night for her newborn son
Who nestled his head on her breast.
Would he ever hold an army gun
And go to the war as a soldier?

Again she prayer for her grown-up boy,
Who marched with the boys that were leaving.
She heard the crowd in their cheers of joy,
While mothers were silently grieving.

Was this her dream of what might have been
A life full of honor and glory?
Or in the battle of horrid sin
A victim there mangled and gory?

Dreaming of babe in the manger
Of
Christ in her vision survived the cross
Knowing this woman was there
When she awakened on Christmas morning
There came her boy without hurt or loss.
