PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-10; 4:8-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I to thee—Acts 3:6.

Is Christianity on trial? Answers would differ, depending on varying points of view. Assuredly Christ is not on trial. He is the Son of God and the only Saviour of men, and we are "on trial" as to our attitude toward Him. It is also certain that the true Christian faith is not on trial. Even the liberal and so-called modernistic leaders confess that it is the only faith that has proved itself to the needs of daily experience.

There is a sense, however, in which Christianity as a whole is on trial. The Church which professes to represent Christ on earth has failed most miserably at so many points that the world is looking at it with the same cold suspicion with which the Church was viewed in the time of Peter. The question which one can feel on every hand even though it is not asked in words, is, "What have you that will meet the unprecedented need of the individual—the social order—the whole of humanity?" There is a sufficient and a satisfying answer, but it is not found so much in the temporal realm as in the spiritual. We have something to offer that is better than silver or gold—the salvation which is found in none other than Jesus Christ, our Lord.

I. Better Than Silver and Gold (3:1-5).

The lame man had long since abandoned hope of anything more than the coins that he could beg as he sat at the temple gate. He is typical of our hardened and cynical age which is interested only in what it can get in cash, and in what that money will buy. Even Christian people seem to have forgotten that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (Luke 12:15).

God has for us things far better than silver and gold—deliverance from the power and penalty of sin, glad liberation from the limitations of spirit which hold us down and make us content with the paltry things of earth. Where are these things, to be found? In Christ. How are they ministered? Through His faithful servants. Peter and John were the kind of men who, though busy, had time to pray (v. 1). If you know men or women like that, cultivate their friendship, look intently to them in faith (vv. 4, 5), receive their holy (v. 7), and above all, believe in their Christ (v. 6), and you will receive that which is better than silver and gold.

God healed this man's body, but what is more important, He healed his spirit (v. 8). We need this kind of healing for the spiritual cripples of our day. The weak-kneed, frightened, and spirit-darkened individuals in our churches and outside of them need the touch of God. Perhaps you may be used to bring them His healing and deliverance which is available in a wonderful way in a community that is needy can testify.

There are two reactions recorded in the context of our lesson which reveal the possible attitudes of men toward such experiences. Some were amazed and believed in Christ (4:4). Others hated the cause of Christ (4:16, 17) and they cast the preachers into prison (4:1-3). Did this discourage them? No, indeed. They knew that they owed allegiance to God rather than man (4:19, 20), and consequently used their very trial as an opportunity to proclaim Christ.

II. The Pre-eminent Saviour (4:8-12).

It has been suggested that one of the reasons for the tremendous power of the modern church in the light of such miraculous deliverances from the power of sin as are recorded in the pages of the gospels is the lack of emphasis on the miracle of the Word. After all there is no reason why the Word of God is not deemed and transformed life. Men must argue with our philosophy or question our theology, but a redeemed life is a living testimony in a community that is needy can testify.

There are two reactions recorded in the context of our lesson which reveal the possible attitudes of men toward such experiences. Some were amazed and believed in Christ (4:4). Others hated the cause of Christ (4:16, 17) and they cast the preachers into prison (4:1-3). Did this discourage them? No, indeed. They knew that they owed allegiance to God rather than man (4:19, 20), and consequently used their very trial as an opportunity to proclaim Christ.

Note here again that the speaker was a Spirit-filled man. That is the absolute prerequisite to effective proclamation of the truth. Observe also the care with which Peter makes known that he and John are to have no personal credit or glory. They "have something there" that might well be applied to present-day religious activity when many men must either have all the glory, or go off and start a new work where they can have it.

Let us make much of the clear teaching concerning the person and work of Christ which is found in these verses, particularly stressing His place of absolute pre-eminence as the one and only, and, at the same time, the sufficient Saviour of mankind. Let us not forget that "there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" (v. 12).

THE GARDEN

PLANNING I

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

The ground broken, the garden may lie until the time comes to get ready the seed bed, some time in March. The gardener, however, may not be idle, but he should improve this interval by putting his plans in order. On these wet days is done depends much of the satisfaction that should come from the garden.

The first step is to determine just how much garden space there is, for, on its size obviously hinges its output. In making measurements, irregularity in outlining should be noted, so that a wholly accurate map can be drawn, on the map should be shown walks, trees, possible tree-root competition, the almost inevitable grape arbor down the middle, "early" and wet spots, in fact, any feature that might affect the vegetables. Also shown should be the location of last year's tomatoes and cabbage, so that these vegetables can be "rotated" to avoid "yellows" and wilt.

Next comes making a "budget" of the vegetables that are to be used throughout the year. This is an individual matter, as families vary in size and in their tastes. A last year's garden diary would help, but if an individual is considered, the last page of Kentucky Farm and Home Science may be consulted. Here is shown a list of vegetables that are best adapted to a family of 5 which has room for a 50x100 plot. Those amounts doubled would be enough for 10 persons.

On the feet of garden soil depends the success of the garden. It should be composed largely of loam, although clay soils may be used by adding those materials that help to lighten it. Sandy soils should be improved by adding clay. See Circular 209. In the vegetable are found also vegetables that may not develop if the conditions are not favorable. Consequently, as well as will be noted in Table 2, no one vegetable, again in Table 2, no one crop remains in the ground between others, and some are added to fallow others. In this way the soil is kept in front.

If the garden is found still too small, some of the vegetables must be dropped. Obviously, first to be decided should be those that give the least return for the space they occupy. Next, those of which the family is not overfond. But some vegetables should be had. For there are many vegetables that are valuable for their nutritive value, if for no other reason than that they provide variety in the diet. Among these are the greens, such as spinach, kale, and chard, and the root crops, such as beets, carrots, and turnips.

Bath County Official Says He Won't Resign

Thomas J. Crouch, tax commissioner of Bath county for the past 17 years, denied Saturday that he is going to resign from office, saying "The only way they can get me out is to put me out." He did not reveal to whom "they" referred.

"Uncle Tommy," as Mr. Crouch is affectionately known to Bath county citizens, has held various offices in this county for the past 29 years. In 1910 "Uncle Tommy" was named deputy sheriff and filled that office until 1914 when he was named deputy sheriff under the late Marion Manley. He also served as deputy sheriff in 1918 under W. A. Boyd and held this position until 1922 when he was elected to his present office.

Palate Poll Proves Dixie Yams Correct

It's true what they say about Dixie watermelons and chickens. The Agriculture Department scientists came out with a palate poll—a digest of what Americans like to eat. They said, among many other interesting things, that:

Dixie watermelons average 30% pounds of watermelons and 129 pounds of poultry a year. Residents of Atlanta, Georgia, are the only city 30 pounds of watermelon per person.

The Southern negroes eat more watermelon than the white folks, even except those in the North Central states. Who average 16.2 pounds a year.

The watermelon-loving leaders are Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Columbus.

The heaviest beef eating is reported Alabama and Tennessee with 63 pounds per person. Georgia, Florida, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Columbus.

HOPKINS DRUG COMPANY Carlisle, Ky.

How "BIG"..."RICH"... "POWERFUL" is this Company?

You have no doubt heard the telephone company referred to or thought of it yourself as a big, rich, powerful company.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company has to be big in order to properly serve you and more than a million other telephone subscribers in the South. It has an obligation to meet your demands for adequate and dependable telephone service at any time of the year or day. It may be. Big, and able too is the army of telephone workers. More than seven thousand of them are now at work in these nine states, day and night.

The riches of the telephone company consist of switchboards, buildings wires cables and instruments—modern telephone plant and equipment which serve more than 1,500,000 subscribers. But all its property would be valueless if the public need for service should cease.

The money received by the telephone company is continually paid out for wages for materials for taxes and to bond and stockholders for the use of the money with which the company has bought the equipment and tools needed for the service.

Every penny received by the telephone company must be accounted for. Its books are kept in accordance with the regulations prescribed by the federal and state governments. They are open at all times for governmental inspection. They are audited regularly by accredited accounting agencies.

All the power the company possesses is granted to it by state and federal governments. Its rates, its practices, its service and its rates and practices are regulated and controlled by governmental agencies.

The telephone company is powerful, however, in some things. It is powerful in its unity of purpose and loyalty of workers. It possesses the power of the best minds in research, invention and manufacture. It has the power of the highest ideals of service and the courage to go forward, giving the public the most service and the best at the least cost consistent with financial stability.

THE ENTIRE COST OF THE C.C.C. COULD BE PAID FOR BY THE TAXES OF THE BREWING INDUSTRY

The Treasury Department shows expenditures of 326 million dollars for the Civilian Conservation Corps for the fiscal year of 1938. The brewing industry pays over a million dollars a day in taxes.

What Beer contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past few years. It believes everywhere realizes that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously the brewers cannot enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will cooperate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.

Farm Income Jump Forecast For 1939

An improved agricultural situation this year is "assured," the Department of Agriculture has reported in forecasting an increase in farm income.

The general index of prices of farm products turned sharply upward in the fall of 1938 and regained most of the losses of the early part of the year, department economists said.

"A strengthening factor will be the improved consumer demand flowing from increased industrial activity during the last half of 1939," the department said.

A GOOD DRIVER?

The Division of Highways, State of Illinois, issues monthly a safety bulletin. In the current issue it lists a number of questions for a driver and pedestrian to ask himself or herself. These questions are based on the causes of accidents which have been analyzed by the department.

It is said that any person who can answer all of them favorably is a good driver. Those who must answer in the negative for two or more need to check upon themselves or they will be involved in an accident before long.

Here is the list:

Do you bring your car to a full stop sign intersection?

Are brakes, lights and tires inspected regularly?

Do you use hand or mechanical signals when you are about to change direction?

Do you always drive at such speed that you can stop in the assured distance ahead? This applies to sharp hills where you would pass over a crest.

Do you drive as you are on the alert for pedestrians, particularly children?

Do you stay in line when nearing a hill or curve?

Are you sure your path is clear before you overtake and pass another vehicle?

Do you slow down at railroads, safety zones and curves?

Do you refuse to drive a car when drinking intoxicants?

Do you watch other vehicles and try to figure what the other fellow will do?

Do you always drive in your proper traffic lane?

Do you dim your lights for an approaching car?

Do you drive more slowly in fog, wet weather and darkness?

Do you keep windshield clean and wiper in good condition?

Do you always alight from your vehicle on the curb side?

Do you observe posted speed limits?

When making a left turn do you grant the right of way to all motorists affected by the change in direction?

Do you wait for the green light when walking across a signalized intersection?

When walking along a roadway do you walk towards approaching traffic and step off the road when a car approaches?

Do you always look both ways before crossing a street?

It would be an easy matter to answer the above favorably. But if you check closely you will realize that there are a number of the questions that you do not observe or only partially observe.

If this is correct you are a potential accident case with all the costs and unpleasantness that goes with a crash.

Travel In Kentucky Safer, Patrol Reports

Travel in Kentucky apparently is becoming considerably safer.

The State Highway Patrol reported that there were 1,000 fewer accidents during that period compared with 281 in each of the two previous months.

Deaths from the recorded train-automobile fatalities for the calendar year to 22 caused by stalling on tracks and attempting to beat trains at crossings.

Persons who perished on the highways were operating motor-truck vehicles, the patrol said, and eleven were bicycle riders. Automobile collisions killed 80, eighteen persons were killed by striking bridge rails, culverts, trees or posts.

"Strange as it may seem," says the patrol, "the majority of the fatal accidents tabulated occurred on 22 caused by stalling on tracks and attempting to beat trains at crossings."

Accidental Deaths In Nation Last Year Less

The National Safety Council announced the nation's accidental deaths were reduced by 10,200 in 1938, the greatest improvement ever recorded in a single year.

Last year's fatalities totaled 90,000, the council made known, the lowest aggregate since 1934 and a 10 per cent decline from the 1937 figure of 105,205. The greatest previous decrease was in 1919 when the total was 9,600 below the figure for 1918.

The safety experts disclosed further that 700,000 fewer persons were disabled by accidents in 1938 than in 1937, and that the economic loss from accidental deaths and injuries was cut by $400,000,000. Last year's disabling injuries totaled 9,200,000, and the economic loss was $3,200,000,000.

The council said the improvement was general in every classification of accidents except the domestic one.

Except for 1932 and 1933 last years' accidental death rate of 73 of 100,000 population was the lowest since 1922.

The chief factor in the country's exceptional showing was a 19 per cent reduction in traffic deaths, a saving of 7,600 lives, and a drop from 39.43 in 1937 to 32.000 in 1938.

In the home, however, accidents increased two per cent, from 32,000 in 1937 to 32,500 in 1938, outrunning the national traffic toll by 200.

Forty-five states brought their traffic fatalities below 1937 figures, and in 20 of them the improvement was 20 per cent or more. Rhode Island led with a decrease of 36 per cent in fatalities. Pennsylvania was runner-up with a 35 per cent reduction, and other states in the higher brackets, with their decreases, included Ohio (31 months) 29 per cent, Kentucky, 26; Indiana, 20.

Cities on the traffic fatalities honor roll included: Louisville, 45 per cent decrease, and Cincinnati, 17 per cent.

EXTERMINATING MARIHUANA

Just a few weeks ago marihuana was found growing in the byways of Kentucky, but the Federal Bu-reau of Narcotics reports that in 1938 twenty-six thousand tons of the drug-yielding plant were destroyed in twenty-three states. Marihuana commonly called Indian hemp, has legitimate uses as a fiber, and the cannabin derived from it was formerly prescribed for relief of pain. But its potential menace, according to authorities, is "in some ways greater than that of any other habit-forming drug"
