Flashlight S... When Fire W... Radio Plant

...er's Crew

A WIRELESS operator who found a way to send an SOS after his radio went dead saved a doomed crew and their burning boat as they drifted in the Huff 12 days out from Panama.

The boat, a 7,000 tons clipper, was made helpless when fire broke out in the engine room. The blaze spread to the power generator, crippling radio transmission. Then Frank Rasalin, the radio operator, got busy.

"I was in the wireless room," Rasalin said, "when somebody ran by and said the entire was on fire. I went down and found the engine already was crippled. In a second we were a crew of fire fighters.

"We couldn't keep the fire from the power generator. We did keep it from spreading to the rest of the ship, but we couldn't put it out.

"There we were, drifting helplessly with no way to send a radio call for help. We didn't know when the fire would get away from us and go through the entire boat. Well, communication was my job, so I began to communicate the only way I could.

"I grabbed my flashlight, climbed the mast and began flashing out an SOS. All the rest of the crew was below, fighting fire. After what seemed hours, an English steamer saw my signal. We all got into the lifeboats and our boat, thanks to some fresh flashlight batteries that gave a decipherable signal when we needed it."

The master of the English steamer boarded the clipper, bringing firefighting apparatus. They put out the blaze and towed the boat safely in sailing order for her return to port.

WHITE ROSE PATENT

There is no better bread than good, old-fashioned salt rising—that is, if the lady who prepares and bakes it has the flour which is used, as many flours are made in a way which will not produce "light bread", like our mothers used to make.

But you try White Rose this spring and we believe you will agree with the large number of ladies who hardly ever fail on salt-rising because they use White Rose exclusively.

White Rose is truly an all-purpose flour and will demonstrate its baking qualities all the way from pastry to the finest cake.

THE EARTH AND MAN

(Stopford Augustus Brooke)

A fifthpoon, a little rain coming,
A soft wind blowing from the west—
Asia woods and fields are awee again
And warmth within the mountain's breast.

So simple is the earth we tread,
So quick with love and life her frame,
Ten thousand years have dawned and died,
And still her magic is the same.

A little love, a little trust,
A soft impulse, a sudden dream—
And life as dry as desert dust
Is fresher than a mountain stream.

So simple is the heart of man.
So ready for new hope and joy;
Ten thousand years since it began
Have left it younger than a boy.
