FROM OVER THE LINE

(By J. W. Rogers)

Let them who will, repine in fate, and droop their heads in sorrow; I'll laugh when cares upon me wait, I know they'll leave to morrow.

My purse is light, but what of that, my heart is light to match it; and if I tear my only coat, I'll laugh and try to patch it.

If we look up when we walk along, we might not see a $5 bill some one had lost. If we walk along, we might bump our head against a pole. Better look out when we walk about.

I cannot be an election booster, but I can stamp beneath the Hoover.

Sorry to learn of the illness of our old time friend Fielding Wills, of Carlisle. We have known him most of his life and ours.

We predict the passage of the Embargo Repeal Act. The pressure against the Embargo is too tremendous to successfully resist. As the case in 1807, when opposition grew to such disaffection as to seriously menace maintenance of the Union. Opponents spelled the word "embargo" backwards then, and we might do that now—"Ogrbalme."

It costs about 48 cents per day to keep 100 non-layers.
It costs 60 cents per day to keep 100 hens on 50 per cent production, which at 25 cents per dozen is $1.06 a day.
It costs 75 cents per day to keep 100 hens on 70 per cent production which, at 25 cents per dozen, is $1.46 a day.
Which is the best proposition for you: To spend 48 cents a day and receive no return or add just a few cents for the proper feed and turn that loss of 46 cents into a profit of 50 and 75 cents a day.
These figures are the result of actual tests and we believe they will work out for you.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in an orderly manner here Tuesday night with few reports of damage. A large crowd attended the carnival given by the Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church in the armory. Parties were held by the Methodist and Baptist Sunday schools.

KENTUCKY LANDSCAPE

(Minnie Markham Kerr in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

The low rock fences, gray and worn with age,
Go staggering aimlessly across the fields
Like tired old men whose life is heritage
Of former seasons and of earlier yields.
The sheep browse idly in the autumn sun,
The grass is gray and brown upon the hill;
The cattle lie in the shock, the reaping done,
And all the world is languorous and still
Except where asters by the dusty road
Repeat their timeless, inarticulate cry,
Or where the maples lift their leafy load
And raise their chant of color to the sky.
While far below her towering palaces
The river glows with opalescent shades.

Mrs. Walter J. Myers is confined to her home, suffering from sprained ankles, received Monday night when she fell down a few steps in front of her home.

HEALTH NOTES

Doctor L. E. Smith, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis Association of the State Board of Health, Louisville, will be with the local Health Department on November 9 and 10. Doctor Smith spent seven years in Africa as a medical missionary and has a new slide pictures and relate some of his own experiences while there. He will show a number of pictures on education and religion, in comparison with our own country where we have these advantages. The public is cordially invited to attend these lectures and pictures. The school children will, of course, be given first preference, and as many as the building will accommodate will be taken care of. This is a rare opportunity for the citizens of this community to hear first hand information from a Christian physician.

The following is the schedule of Doctor Smith's lectures and pictures:

Thursday, November 9—Moorefield, at Moorefield school, 9 a. m.; Cane Run and Miranda at Moorefield, 10:15 a. m.; East Union at East Union school, 1:30 p. m.

Friday, November 10—Ellisville, Bartersville and Myers at city school, 8:15 a. m.; City school, 9:30 a. m.; Headquarters, Hildreth and Parks at city school, 1:30 p. m.; Henryville school, 2:45 p. m.

Tuberculin tests were completed at East Union school Tuesday.
