THE GARDEN

SUMMARY

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

For the past three weeks garden inquests have been held, held at this time so that preventable causes of "death" could be established and these causes evaded next year. Today, a final summing-up is to be made.

By this is not meant that 1939's gardens are done; far from it, for some of them are in top stride now. Neither does it mean that the campaign against insects is over; doubtless, the Mexican bean beetle is still being troublesome, but this insect definitely slows down at this time of year, for no eggs are likely to be laid from now on. However, this may be cold comfort to gardeners on whose beans the adults are operating and the insect, but adult bean beetles can be stopped. Doubtless, too, there will be a series by plant fire on the late-spread and turnips, but good gardeners keep themselves constantly prepared for just this emergency occurring.

In the main, though, this season's work is done and next year's garden looms, but next year's garden begins now, inasmuch as the behavior of 1940's garden quite largely depends on how it spends this winter.

In the past weeks, this has several times been said, and one way was indicated best to prepare the soil for the fall garden, which is to have it covered with a green crop. Then, several things were named, but of these only rye, and perhaps vetch, the main now to be used, and then only on that part of the garden where breaking can be delayed until late April.

If, however, the sowing of a cover crop is neglected, though this would be a pity, something may still be done almost as much for what has been done about the weeds this summer, part of the garden now bears a covering of these undesirables. On these, some seed has doubtless matured, but it would help even these to spade weeds under, to have them cut down into humus of a sort during the winter, rather than to find them in the way when the garden was broken at the start of the season of 1940, and burn them off then. If not done now, certainly this should be done early enough in the winter to change the weeds into humus. As the winter progresses, too, manure should be spread, to become soaked and to rot, so that when the season really opens, only disking is needed, or, at the most only a light replowing.

All the foregoing can only apply to gardens level enough not to winter-wash. Sloping gardens should not be broken until after the heaviest of the winter precipitation is past, but, anyhow, sloping gardens are best cared for by sowing them to soil-holding humus-making winter cover crops.

And, now, in giving over for the year, may we tell how pleasurable has been the writing of these gardening articles, and express, too, the hope that, now and then, were included items that met the real needs of fellow-Kentuckians; also the hope, that, when 1940 rolls around, we will go on together again, to make Kentucky gardens the best ever.

Thinks State In Need Of New Constitution

Kentucky's constitution, the third to serve the commonwealth, is "greatly in need of revision," believes the man who wrote one of the four amendments adopted by the last 26 years.

He is Commissioner Charles H. Morris of the Court of Appeals, whose solution is to "close my ears" as a delegate to a convention and campaign. He says he'll run for election as a delegate if enough citizens in favor.

Commissioner Morris as an author of several proposals was the sixth amendment to the constitution which was adopted in 1909 to allow the removal of sheriffs or jailers allowing a prisoner to be turned over to a mob. Since then prohibition, repeal and one previous amendment have been approved.

It's Judge Morris' idea that Kentucky should scrap its present constitution and write a new one, inasmuch as "it's almost impossible to submit an amendment that suits the people. This is evidenced by the rejection of so many important ones," he said.

One of the present instrument's inadequacies, Judge Morris believes is the low limit it sets on salaries of public officers. The constitution should be revised before any to raise the limit which is now set at $5000 for all officers save the Governor.

Revision also is needed in the matter of the distribution of school funds, Judge Morris believes, and the provisions relating to the limit of indebtedness of the state, counties and taxing districts should be set definitely "so the court of appeals won't have to construe them so frequently."

One particular fault of the constitution is its provision for so many elections in Morris' opinion. "We should have elections at the most every other year instead of every year," he said.

Morris also expressed the belief the constitution should allow any number of amendments to be voted on at one instead of only two as now allowed.

Kentucky's present constitution was adopted in 1891 and is composed of 263 sections.

Judgments Taken Against Sixteen State Employers

Sixteen Kentucky employers who have either refused or failed to pay contributions for which they are alleged to be liable and which go into the insurance fund of the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission had judgments amounting to $31,333.74 taken against them at the September term of Franklin circuit court.

The judgments obtained do not include interest alleged to be due on the amounts entered for contribution. Interest charges under the law are levied at the rate of one per cent a month as long as the contributions due remain unpaid.

These interest charges, which will be collected when the judgments are levied will vary as the periods of delinquency of the employers vary, some being over various periods of time.

The sixteen cases the employers failed to answer the petition filed against them by the Commission either by counsel or in person.

The largest single judgment in the group was obtained against The Black & Yandell Tobacco Company, of Drakesboro, Muhlenberg county, in amount to $[illegible] $556.61.

Program Change Helps Wheat Men

All wheat farmers in Kentucky have been notified of their 1940 wheat allotments, which were made according to the state office of Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

It also is announced, production goals have been established for each farm, given mantiss or cover crop acreage, and the amount of the 1940 allotment wheat farms. This entire program is based upon the present system of farming and at the present time no changes are anticipated in the farm program, since only wheat acreage harvested for grain in 1940 will be eligible for payments on wheat in 1940, but will be eligible for wheat insurance on the same basis as those crop for grain and grasses and cut green, or pasture, or not harvested, as pasture by weight of Austrian winter peas or vetch.

NCTC Tax Crusade Under New Leader

New impetus was given the National Constitutional Defense Committee's Kentucky drive against "consumer-penalizing" taxes with the announcement that Mrs. Paul B. Wickliffe of Greenville has been appointed to head the tax-education crusade in this state.

Named a member of the organization's national committee, Mrs. Wickliffe will lead the NCTC tax-study groups when they function in 151 Kentucky communities, according to Mrs. Melville Muckle-stone, NCTC president.

The national committee, a non-partisan, non-profit group, now has nearly 4,000 similar study groups meeting regularly throughout the country for instruction in the principles of constitutional government. Particular emphasis is placed on the "hidden taxes" which account for 56.2 per cent of all taxes paid by the average family, says the NCTC president explained.

"Hidden taxes constitute an ever growing menace to the economic welfare of the people," Mrs. Muckleston declared. "The federal government paid out more than 40 per cent of those in the low income group believe they pay no taxes, at all is an indication of how insidious the growth of this form of taxation has been, only through a broad education program can the people be fully awakened."

The average wage earner whose income is $1,500-a-year or less pays a sales tax bill of $171 without knowing.

NYA To Employ About 11,000 Students In State

National Youth Administration student aid during the 1939-40 school year will provide Kentucky part-time employment of approximately 11,000 students in Kentucky's 120 counties, according to an announcement made by Robert K. Salyers, state administrator.

The NYA is allotting funds totaling $1,000,000 to Kentucky high schools and colleges for employment of needy students who otherwise would not be able to attend school.

College students will receive approximately $191.00 of the fund, while the remaining $297,000 is to be distributed among high school students.

NYA jobs enable college students to earn amounts varying from $10 to $20 per month; high school pupils from $3.00 to $6.00 per month. To be eligible, applicants must be between the ages of 16 and 24 inclusive, in need of such assistance in order to continue their school work, and capable of maintaining satisfactory scholastic averages.

Dispelling The Fog

By Charles Michelson, Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

In the present welter of world alarm it is a relief to turn to news paper headlines on such prosaic subjects as business.

It is doubly pleasant to find that the country is not suffering poverty in our own country. For example, I note in the papers of the morning on which this is written that the Bureau of Agricultural Economics yesterday estimated the value of farm products marketings in July totaled $531,000,000, an increase of 7 per cent above the estimate for June, 17 per cent above the same day the New York Times announced that "Time" railroads show 42.2 per cent rise in income. From a New York paper the information comes the tidings that "Profits and dividends are rolling out of their tenants; loan sharks must be out of business; the rich must not oppress the poor. The Church must have ministers with a real message and must share in the spiritual life of the whole community.

No, we did not copy that paragraph out of today's newspaper. It is the message that the prophet Micah preached more than 2,700 years ago. And what's more, he not only told them what they should do, but how to accomplish his purpose of real social justice. It is to some of those who talk about this subject that I wish to refer, and really learned how it can be done.

I. Social Prejudice (1:1-16).

The inhumanity of man toward man is not confined to the days in which we live. There are fundamental reasons for such conditions, and they are the same in our time as in Micah's day. The responsibility rests largely on the failure of our religious and spiritual leaders to perform their duty.

1. Rulers without Judgment (3:1-4, 9-10).

The obligation of anyone who is given or who seeks public office is to know judgment. This does not mean only that he is to have a general knowledge of the law and its technicalities; he is to know justice in his world. He is to know it and to see that it is always rightly administered.

The leaders of Israel had woefully failed, in fact had deliberately departed from the standards of God, and Micah exposed them in plain, dramatic, well-spoken words. While there are 2 Rs not to be taken literally, they do in striking figurative speech describe the dire and unscrupulous politicians do to an unsuspecting people.

2. Prophets with a False Message (3:5-8).

In such a day might one not expect God's messengers to have a word of encouragement for the leaders and of comfort for the people? Not only did they keep quiet about the sin and corruption which they saw about them, but they actually encouraged their prominent and wealthy "church members" in their sin by saying, "All is well." Such religious leaders have not altogether perished from the earth.

Let ministers of God be like Micah, who is described in verse 8 as a man of judgment and justice, because he was "full of power by the Spirit of the Lord."

II. Social Security (3:11, 12; 6:6-8).

No, that idea was not discovered by the politicians of the 1930's. It has been in the plan of God from the beginning; in fact only in Him is there any real national, personal, or social security. Micah's day was unmasked false security and revealed the way of true security.

1. False Security and Divine Judgment (3:11, 12).

When the heads of a nation "judge for reward" and its religious leaders "teach for hire" and its prophets "divine for money" (v. 11), there is no use to talk piously about God and His ways.

The prophecy of verse 12 was fulfilled three times—by the Chaldeans in 586 B. C., by Titus in A. D. 70, and under Hadrian in A. D. 135. God always keeps His promises, even if the promise be a promise of judgment.

2. True Security and Divine Blessing (6:6-8).

God is not to be propitiated by the offerings of material things as a sacrifice or by any outward profession of piety. He looks at the heart.

Verse 8 is a remarkable and beautiful epitome of God's requirement of man, namely, justice, kindness, and humility; but note that this is the requirement of the Lord, and one which no man can possibly fulfill apart from Christ. It is evidently folly for men to quote this verse as did the agnostic Thomas Huxley and others, to justify themselves for not responding to the claims of the gospel of Christ. Only Christ can make any man capable of true justice, constant kindness, and genuine humility. Only thus can we meet the demands of the law.

Real social justice and security will come only as there is a recognition of Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord by the leaders, by the prophets and by the people.

Self Abnegation

After you have been kind, after love has stolen forth into the world and done its beautiful work, go back into the shade again and say nothing about it. Love hides even from itself. Love waives even self-satisfaction.—Henry Drummond.

LESSON TEXT—Micah 3:1-12; 6:6-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? —Micah 6:8.

We demand human rights, social justice, and economic security. Corruption, graft and bribe-taking officials must be put out of office. ### No Change In Farm Plans, Says Cooper

Dr. Thomas B. Cooper, dean and director of the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky, has joined Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in urging Kentucky farmers to proceed with their plans as if there were no war.

Commenting on a statement which he received from Secretary Wallace, Dean Cooper said: "American agriculture is in a much better position to meet the shock of war than it was 25 years ago. The very machinery by which farmers have used to adjust production to decreased demand in peacetime can be used in war-time to increase production if and when that becomes advisable.

"There is little likelihood that any substantial increase in production of the major crops will be desirable, certainly not in the near future," the Secretary's statement continued. "In any case, the farmer must have supplies and can be assisted in ample time to make any necessary increase in acreage."

The Secretary reminded American farmers that this year's wheat carryover is estimated at 238 million bushels, which compares to 111 million bushels average for the five years 1928-32 inclusive. The present carryover of cotton is also large, and prospects indicate that 1940 will be a supply year.

Supplies of meat animals are expected to be larger next year than this year, and there are unusually large production of milk this year. Supplies of canned fruits and vegetables are adequate for home consumption and will be large enough for the next year and 1940 than farm prices will be low.

"The exceptional gratitude and the high prices for wheat, cotton, meat, milk and eggs which it makes possible quite also as a consequence of the pandemonium against exorbitantly high prices."

HEARTLESS BUT SENSIBLE

(Atlanta Constitution)

It seems heartless to turn down the eloquent thumbs of many a fellow citizen this summer, and we should make the motorists do it. Nevertheless, we are filled with people who are not only ready to do their duty as citizens, but are overanxious to see somebody for something.

In this immediate section of the state youthful thumbers are not the only ones who are trying to get to their homes some time before dark. They too feed their destination by begging a ride on the highway. They are filled with people who are not only ready to do their duty as citizens, but are overanxious to see somebody for something.

The number of major crimes committed by hitchhikers is not large enough to be considered a national disgrace, but enough has ever compiled the number of damage suits against motorists by thumbers after accidents. The man with a car and a home and children is the target of many of the damage seeker. He could save himself a lot of trouble and expense by turning down every hitchhiker. It is easier to drive the thumbers a stony glare than to be saddled with a damage verdict by a jury.

The Hay Fever Season On In Full Blast

An estimated 3,000,000 sufferers from hay fever are now concentrating their attention upon methods of alleviating the discomfort that visits them annually.

As usual, the malady is aggravated by weeds that flourish everywhere. Apparently no serious effort is made, even in cities, to eliminate the source of the discontent.

Weeds flourish most amid cultivated soil. Scientists count the pollen in the air every day at one hundred stations throughout the nation. They say that the present crop is about average, which means that the sufferers will go through the usual period of sneezing until the hay fever season ends.

What's the Answer?

IT IS not really stars we see; it is a blinding light. And that light is not really sight but sensation. Any of the five senses when stimulated artificially will produce the sensation for which that sense is responsible. Thus, when a blow to the eye injures the nerves of the eye it sends to the brain a message of sight. Since there is really nothing there to see, it reacts in a sensation of blinding light.

FORGOTTEN SAVINGS

A peculiarly interesting if not romantic form of buried treasure is that which lies in long-forgotten bank accounts. New York papers are carrying advertisements by savings banks that seek the legal claimants to accounts which run into many thousands of dollars and all have this in common: A $40.000 Harrod-burg, boss-chamber of commerce, rub-works, $122,500; Clay, filtration plant, $142,000.

What Kind Of Advertising Pays?

Yeager and White, certified public accountants, recently completed a survey to determine the value of advertising, going directly to the consumers to secure their reactions to the various forms of advertising.

Two questions were asked:

1. "What kind of advertising influences you most in the buying of—"

2. "Which of the various types of advertising do you find most objectionable?"

The answers were:

1. Theater screen advertising is the most effective.
2. Billboards and circulars are opposed by 100 per cent.
3. Radio and direct mail are next in line.
4. Newspaper advertising was declared to be the most effective by the general public.
5. The survey found no direct love for general advertising. Generally, newspaper advertising is more than all other media combined.
6. Newspapers sell 56 per cent of the goods sold by advertising; all other media sell 44 per cent.
7. Only 1 out of 100 men buy soap from newspaper advertising; 53 out of every 100 women are influenced the same way.
8. Two out of every 100 women buy from circulars, while 10 out of every 100 object to circulars. One out of every 100 men buy from circulars and 10 object.
9. Thirty of every 100 women object to billboards and 42 out of every 100 object to theater screen advertising.

1940 Farm Program Will Be Unchanged

In the midst of his study of rapidly-rising food prices, Secretary Wallace said 1940 crop control programs would provide for little expansion in planting, despite a possible increased demand for American farm products as a result of the war.

Complaints sent to the White House on increased food costs have been referred to Wallace and to Attorney General Murphy. After a Cabinet meeting Wallace said that, while there are some instances of unjustified profiteering, the price level for the most part is lower than it was two to five years ago.

The Agriculture Department will continue acreage restrictions next year on such major crops as cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, rice, potatoes, peanuts and commercial vegetables.

Except for wheat, farmers will be asked to plant no more land to these crops than this year. The wheat program calls for an acreage of 62,000,000, compared to 55,000,000 this year.

Farmers must plant within acreage allotments given them by the department in order to be eligible for $725,000,000 in benefit payments and for Government loans on surplus commodities stored for future release on markets.

The 1940 program, Wallace said, has been formulated in the light of the European situation.

Bulletin Reports Fertilizer Tests

A bulletin of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station presents the results of the inspection of commercial fertilizers in the state last year, and gives the analyses of 1,100 samples of fertilizers sent in by manufacturers and others for inspection purposes. Results of the analyses are set forth in two tables—one considered satisfactory, and the other unsatisfactory.

Persons interested in the use of fertilizers for different crops should confer with their county agents, or write to the Experiment Station or College of Agriculture, Lexington.

KENTUCKY STATE BUDGET
A $5,128,229 HOLE IF BEER HAD NOT COME BACK!
In the year before its re-legalization Beer contributed practically nothing to the State Treasury.
Since re-legalization Beer has raised this huge Sum in taxes, for this state alone. For the nation as a whole Beer raises A MILLION DOLLARS A DAY!
AND NOW, TO KEEP BEER'S MANY BENEFITS, FOR YOU AND FOR THEM, AMERICA'S BREWERS WANT TO HELP KEEP BEER RETAILING AS WHOLESOME AS BEER ITSELF. THEIR PROGRAM WILL INTEREST YOU. LOCAL LAW AUTHORITIES . . . AND YOU, MAY WE SEND YOU THE FACTS? For free booklet, address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 18 East 48th Street, New York, N. Y.
Beer has made work in over 100 industries, since repeal. If Beer had not come back, there would have been 1 MILLION FEWER RESPECTABLE JOBS for the nation today.
BEER...a beverage of moderation
