The Real Christmas Story

Probably no community in the state makes more provision for the underprivileged and the dependent children of the state than this county. Throughout the year individuals and organizations send large numbers, and at Christmas time expect even larger numbers...

Decorating the Tree

Realism compels the report that little progress has been made along the line of a ruberized Christmas tree. In an Illinois element, a group of urbanism is not dead a decision of sending tree to be decorated with ornaments at once in a heated home. Picking up after a mounting spruce is greatly expedited by a vacuum cleaner...

Tobacco Prices Are Disappointing

General dissatisfaction is being voiced by farmers in this county over the prices being received for their tobacco crop this year. A large number of farmers have told us that their crop averaged 15 cents per pound, or less. At fifteen cents per pound, farmers say, they cannot produce tobacco and make a living...

Make Your Greeting Personal

Mrs. Virginia C. Reynolds, postmaster, reports that she has received a great many Christmas mail. Hundreds of cards are received at the postoffice each Christmas with the usual half-cent stamp and incorrectly addressed. Mrs. Reynolds has a letter addressed to a resident of the county on a post office, which should have been addressed to the post office in the county, cannot be sent to that post office...

What's Effect On Toys

The spirit of the times is always reflected in toys and this year the models are different. Most of the toys are unexcited rather than the greater portion of the toys for boys this year are particularly unexciting. The Christmas death row in New York, airplane, and other things are a relief, and other death-deferring toys are being introduced on the toy counters. Some of them are quite realistic. For instance, of great size, the other day we saw a toy tank which was quite realistic. For instance, of great size, and keeps up a starburst ball of fire, until it runs down. A piece of film rubbed against steel furnished the sparks.

Washington Merry-go-round

PARITY PAYMENTS, D. C. Farm legislation for two consecutive sessions will likely be introduced in the House before the end of the year. The bill is expected to provide for parity payments to farmers...
