FROM OVER THE LINE

Met Mr. Foster McClain and his genial wife, Cassidy Creek, Nicholas county, last week. He is a young farmer; and she a young home builder. So far as we know, they make things. The blood of life is flowing warm, with these young people on the farm.

The following facts in true history interests us, and may be of interest to others:

Nicholas county was formed out of parts of Bourbon and Mason counties in 1799, and named in honor of Capt. George Nicholas a soldier of the American Revolutionary War.

Metcalfe county, Ky., was formed in 1860, and was named in honor of Thomas Metcalfe, 26th governor of Kentucky, then a citizen of Nicholas county.

Edmonton, the county seat of Metcalfe county, was named in honor of Edmund Rogers, a Revolutionary soldier who died and was buried on which the town is built.

James Rogers, grandfather of the writer, was a soldier of the War of 1812, one of the volunteer "Hunters of Kentucky," who were famous for services rendered the New Orleans campaign, 1815. He was wounded in that engagement, having a part of a hand shot off. Here we recall the lines of Samuel Woodworth, an American journalist of early times, from the "Hunters of Kentucky":

"I rose you've read it in the prints how Pakenham attempted to make old Hickory Jack[illegible] won't you credit such a set as the hunters of Kentucky."

So! Jackson he made ready his flints. If he in fight was lucky, he'd have the girls and cotton boys. In spite of old Kentucky. But Jackson, he was wide awake. And wasn't scared at trifles. He knew the deadly aim, and fire of Kentucky rifles.

We did not choose to waste our fire, We snugly kept our places. We did not let our patience part until they showed their faces. But when so near we saw them wink, We knew 'twas time to stop 'em. It would be down-right cowardice, I think, to see Kentuckians drop 'em.

They found at last 'twas vain to fight, When least was all their booty, And so they wisely took to flight, and left us all our beauty."

Dog Dies Of Grief When Master Called To Service

A recent issue of the Cincinnati Post carried the obituary of a German Shepherd dog belonging to Harry Sipe, of Cincinnati, who died of grief when its master was called to Camp Shelby, Miss., for a year's training with the National Guard.

When Mr. Sipe was called into service he was not allowed to take the dog with him, and placed the animal in the kennels of his master. He was then taken to the hospital and treated by a veterinarian without benefit, and finally lapsed into a coma from which he never recovered.

The dog was twelve years old and had been the constant companion of Mr. Sipe. When Mr. Sipe attended field training with the Second Battalion, 148th Infantry he would always surrender the dog was taken along and had learned to march with Mr. Sipe's company, keeping step with the soldiers, and was the pet of the regiment. The animal was given wide publicity by newspaper correspondents covering the Second Army maneuvers in Wisconsin. When Mr. Sipe's regiment was ordered to Camp Shelby orders were issued that pets could not be taken.

Mr. Sipe is a cousin of Mr. R. T. Kirkland, of Carlisle.

—Luke 1:28

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

(Henry Morton McGohan)
"In God we trust."
This motto stands
Like a beacon in a world of strife.
With God we must
Intrust our lands,
Our home and destiny of life.

"In Him we live,"
A statement from
The Record of God's Word, divine.
Then to Him give
Our greatest sum,
The custody of your soul and mine.

May Christ be "King
And Lord of All."
Let Christian prayers now be heard.
That God may bring
The speedy fall
Of doctrine that distrace His Word.

Red Tape Cut To Rush New Army Camps

The new director of the Army's $1,137,000,000 construction program took action Monday to speed lagging work on camps, cantonments and other defense projects.

Lieut. Col. Brehon B. Somervell, virginia engineer officer placed in charge of construction only seventy-two hours ago, announced decentralization of the Army's share of the vast building program in the interest of speed and efficiency.

Somervell also took steps to reorganize the harassed national headquarters, ordering eleven major administrative sections consolidated into five effective Tuesday.

To deal with labor difficulties which Secretary Stimson reported had caused delay in completing twenty-five camps, Somervell said an official "of wide experience" would be named in a few days.

Avoiding forecasts on progress of camp construction, the new director said winter weather would be a handicap. He said it would take "every bit of experience, drive and energy we have" to complete camps and other facilities on schedule with the Army's goal of 1,400,000 men by June.
