

In addition, Farrington said, reports indicate farmers are increasing the use of lime, are planting use of limestone tended to increase "off-flavor" sirup. Burned manure not only increased yields above those from using nitrate, phosphorus and potash, but poorly tolerated the use of limestone. At times adverse effects were noted.

Mr. Vaughn explained that the new system which went into effect this past January provides survivors insurance for widows and children of workers who have died since the first of this year. The new law also covers dependent children of workers who have died. Experience with these claims has already shown that dependent children of marriages may hold up payment.

Monthly insurance payments are the state executive order, the Department of Social Administration, announced yesterday.

Approximately 88 per cent of the farm operators in the state have associations with county agricultural associations this year. The figure is 10 per cent higher than the 1950 figure in which 78 per cent of the 150,000 farms on which the program was started for the 1950 program, Farm said.

Of the 135,000 farmers who filed plans already for the 1958 program, 68,000 tons of triple phosphate, 8,000 tons of triple superphosphate, 8,000 tons of of superphosphate and 28 percent of agricultural limestone. These grant-of-aid materials for use in connection with the 1940 program state. These grant-of-aid materials, Farrington said, are given in the form of cash payments to the local school boards.
