Our aged citizen, R. Miller is not very well at this writing.

We have received word that the aged A. F. Ogden at the home of his son, Mack's at Monticello, is critically ill. His daughter, Mrs. W. E. Miller, of Carlisle, is at his bedside.

We have also received word that Mrs. Minnie Asbury Ogden, who was a missionary so long to Tibet, is returning there this November.

There are pensions and pensions, old age, widows, ministers, mail clerks, etc., and so on, and at last there is to be a teacher's pension, but not all teachers who have borne the burden for a quarter of a century or more, are eligible. Some small, legal peculiarity keeps the writer, J. W. Rogers, from "Over the Line," Stella Wasson and many others out. It is to be hoped that the next legislature will do something about this law, repeal it or revise it in such a way as to give many deserving, retired, teachers any way however, it may be, we are glad there is to be a teacher's pension for teachers and now hearing the battle cry.

It may be of interest to some, perhaps not to others, to know that the writer has been selected as a delegate to the state convention which is getting partly under way now and will continue after several years. We find much progress has been made, new methods, new tools, new books, with many other advantages. In up to date school work we board, our good superintendent and our efficient teacher, Miss Mary Lou Parris are to be patrons to cooperate.

Be sure and tune in your radios to WLAP, Lexington, Sunday morning at 10:30 when Evangelist Jack G. Dunn talk on the subject, "Is it wrong to use musical instruments in the Worship?" If you would like to know why some in the country take this position, perhaps Mr. Dunn will tell you. Tune in and see.

KENTUCKY FARMERS BOOST WHEAT YIELDS 67%, SURVEY SHOWS

Father and son inspect a bumper crop. Inset (1) Unfertilized root system, (2) fertilized root system gives strength to enable plant to go through the winter with less loss.

Kentucky farmers who use fertilizer and lime to increase their wheat yields by 8 bushels per acre on the average, or 67 per cent, according to a recent national survey in which 32,000 farmers told of their experience with fertilizer. The wheat growers who were interviewed were fed on their own farms the results achieved at experiment stations, which show that wheat is very responsive to fertilizer.

In addition to the increase in yield, 72 per cent of the farmers who were interviewed in 17 States reported better market quality; 50 per cent had noticed that fertilized crops got a quicker start; 45 per cent observed that crops were more resistant to disease; and 24 per cent reported that crops matured earlier.

Experiments carried on at experiment stations show that gets of fertilizer is equivalent to about the best place on a crop's rotation to make a liberal application of fertilizer on corn, since the residue from the fertilizer will benefit the wheat crop coming next in the rotation.

Kentucky farmers can substantially reduce their cost of wheat production per bushel by increasing their yield. In the eastern part of the United States it costs on the average around $15 to grow an acre of wheat, regardless of yield. If the yield is 15 bushels the crops get a quicker start; 45 per cent observed that crops were more resistant to disease; and 24 per cent reported that crops matured earlier.

Experiments carried on at experiment stations show that gets of fertilizer is equivalent to about $2.11 for each dollar spent for fertilizer and lime. In addition to increasing the yield and quality of the grain, fertilizer promotes a vigorous growth and larger yield of the clover or other hay crop which follows, which in turn benefits the crop coming next in the rotation.

LOCALS

Continuing his drive against speeders, City Marshal Malcolm Mercer has made several arrests the past week.

Nicholas county will have an unusually large apple crop this year, reports from the county indicate. Other fruit is about normal.

Dove hunters report the birds are being found in numbers in the county. The dove hunting season opened September 1 and will close October 31.

A sharp drop in temperature Wednesday morning caused local residents to bring out their winter coats and start rumbles. The thermometer Wednesday morning registered around 45 degrees.

Clyde Stewart suffered a painful cut on the index finger and thumb of his right hand late last Wednesday afternoon when his hand caught in the pantry shower for the Penny Lunch room.

After short business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Marion Mathers, refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

The fifth grade had most mothers present and received high average.

Two Carlisle grocery stores have discontinued business in the past few weeks. Billie Stephenson, whose stock of goods was in Ryland's 7-Eleven, did not reopen his store in the Grueter building, and George McCann has disposed of his stock of goods.

Burns Blount, Acquilla Kelley and James McCarty, entered the 4-H club at the January term of the Nicholas circuit court to serve sentences of one year for operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner, were among 41 prisoners of the Lagrange prison farm paroled recently.

While farmers have been cutting and housing tobacco during the past week, a considerable portion of the crop in Nicholas county remains unharvested. Cool weather will cause the leaf to ripen, farmers say, and a considerable portion will be cut the remainder of this week.

The Nicholas fiscal court, in session last week, re-employed Sterling Smith as superintendent of the Nicholas county infirmary for the year beginning March 1, 1941. Under the terms of the contract Mr. Smith will receive 25 cents per day for each inmate of the infirmary after the first next July instead of the present rate of 20 cents per day.

Approximately sixty members of Nicholas Post No. 6, American Legion, enjoyed the annual fish fry of the organization held last Friday night at the water works lake. At this meeting the treasurer was ordered to turn over to the Legion Auxiliary approximately $125 netted by the Legion from the carnival held here in August. The money will be used by the Auxiliary to provide warm lunches for indigent children of the city school.

SOCIAL and SOCIETY

AN OLD AUTUMNAL STORY

(David Morton)

My heart should not be troubled by this thing:
When will it learn that maples gone to flame
Are but the sequel to another spring.
The final syllable of summer's name
And what the old beech scatters through the grass
Is not of gold, though it appear to be;
My heart should know that what has come to pass
Is but the autumn stripping of a tree.
But always, still, I make too much of these Old tales of beeches and of maples burning.
That have another telling in the trees
Of every autumn—and the heart goes learning
Over again its own autumnal story.
From these slow grave griefs and this brief golden glory.
