BOOKWORM

A starry-eyed young woman who was simply wild about literature was once discussing books with Mark Twain. She said:

"I'm very fond of Sir Walter Scott," said the eminent statesman and author, in answer to one of her questions. "Aren't you?"

"Oh, I'm crazy about him," gushed the intellectual young thing.

"Dont you think his Lady of the Lake very exquisite?" ventured Mr. Churchill.

"Oh, I just dote on it," was the reply.

"And Scott's Marmion—don't you feel that to be one of his best?"

"Unquestionably," said the girl ardently. "I've read it a dozen times."

"A dozen times?" repeated the astonished statesman. He looked at her suspiciously. "Say, what do you think of Scott's Emulsion?" he asked gravely.

"Oh, that," said the girl, sighing with delight. "That is the finest thing he ever wrote."—World Digest.

TROOPS MOVE THROUGH

Carlisle got its first visible taste of the War Saturday when a troop movement involving several hundred men took over the city streets for nearly an hour.

The motor convoy, made up of trucks, radio cars, jeeps, and ambulances, moved through on the double quick as townspeople stood and watched.

No word of the destination of the troops was given by anyone in authority. An estimated 150 vehicles were in the caravan.

GIBBERISH

We are not, and have never been classified as an alarmist. We believe in taking things as they come, and in expecting the best until the worst should happen along. And we would never write anything that would alarm the good people who reside in the Headquarters neighborhood.

But we must be factual. We must be realists. We must record things as they happen, or as they are going to happen.

So we must set down, here and now and without further delay, that Mr. John Peterson Pirtle, principal at the Headquarters school, has purchased unto himself a bicycle. With a motor attachment. And he intends to ride this to and from his daily duties at the Headquarters school.

This should get you ready, you people who reside on the road between here and Headquarters. If you have a neighbor who does not take the Mercury, then get out and spread the tidings. Sound the tocsin. Say it over the line fence. Hang it out with the wash. Discuss it

WE GOT THE REV. THOMPSON FIXED UP

The Baptist preacher was in a jam last week.

The Rev. James Thompson had lost a collie pup—and the worst thing about it was that the pup wasn't his but one he had agreed to deliver to a man who had purchased the little fellow. And the pup had strayed away, as pups will.

But the Rev. Thompson is a practical man—so he immediately placed a lost ad in The Mercury's classified column. And in two hours he had his pup again.

The ad was so good that three other people had called him since he found the right door, saying they have a pup he is welcome to. Which goes to show the pulling power these little want ads have.

Danville, Ky., April 8—Modern reproduction as true as thorough research could produce, these quaint old buildings on present-day Danville's Constitution Square form the scene of starting events in Kentucky's sesquicentennial celebration this year, on April 15. State Park, the Presbyterian church, adjacent jail and pioneer Court House formed the nucleus of early Danville. Eventually they are to be filled with furnishings like those of the days when they were built.

The suit was filed by Bertha Cameron, Ella Conway, Mary Jane Brannagen, Florence Roy, James P. Jap Gains in Week Are Small

Sinking of Langley is Biggest Disaster to Allied Forces

The Japanese war machine picked up little ground in the week just ended, but American forces suffered one of the major losses of the war when it was announced that the aircraft carrier Langley had been sunk in the Pacific with a loss of life that probably totaled seven hundred.

Hold Bataan

Small gains were recorded in Bataan where General Wainwright continued to hold out in the best MacArthur fashion. Smashes by land and sea by and the invaders little and the losses inflicted by the United State and native defenders were called large.

Japan suffered a major setback as the tried to make another Pearl Harbor out of Ceylon. RAF fliers reported that 52 Japanese planes were shot down as the raid was met by a fully prepared defender, and bombs dropped by the Nippanese raiders caused little damage.

On Monday, India had her first actual air raid in the country proper and the Jap fleet was reported loose in the Bay of Bengal. Allied ships were said to be hunting the pack.

In Europe, a heavy Easter snow delayed Adolf Hitler's long promised spring offensive against the Russians. The Soviets continued hammering at the Nazis, claiming 415 planes shot down in eight days.

In News Reel

Hedgeville—Mrs. Jimmie Smith, son and Mrs. Emma Reed and Mr. Roy E. Smith of Tyler, Texas, may be seen in a current news reel as the officer in command of the evacuation of the Japanese from the west coast of the United States, one can fruit, one can corn was

"Save the Empties, Boys -"I'll Need 'Em Later"

A woman who wouldn't tell the court her name tried to take the whole blame for a quantity of untaxed whiskey found in a house with her and her consort but both were fined $20 and given 30 days in jail Monday afternoon in Carlisle police court.

Nothing daunted, however, the woman, whose maiden name was Yazell and whose married name is listed as Howard, called back to officers who were pouring 14 half pints of the moonshine down a drain, "Save those bottles for me, boys, I'll need 'em when I get out."

The woman is Emma Lee Yazell, about thirty, daughter of Tom Watt Yazell of Henryville. The man is Brooks Bussell, about twenty-five.

Children in House, Too

Officers who made the raid said that they found the woman and man and two small children in the house, which they entered after kicking in the front door. They were armed with search warrants.

As soon as the woman saw Chief of Police Malcolm Armstrong and Sheriff Humpty Clark enter the door, she ran to the refrigerator in the kitchen and began smashing whiskey bottles. The officers said that she smashed two half-pints before they grabbed her. Bussell remained in bed.

Deputy Sheriff John Anderson who had gone to the rear of the house to prevent an escape from that section said that Sheriff Clark called to him and he went inside. He grabbed the woman who was resisting and put her in the car.

Wouldn't Tell Name

Then after taking the children to the home of the woman's father, they brought Bussell and the Howard woman to the jail.

When asked her name in court yesterday, the woman told Judge Hardy Myers, "You all got a warrant. You ought to know my name."

Bussell had nothing to say in his defense after pleading not guilty but the woman denied that he was living there with her. Cubie Marshall, a neighbor who lives three doors from the Howard woman's house on Spring street, testified that he saw Bussell about the house "all the time."

Stolen Tires Are Found Here

Alcek Simpson Says Didn't Buy Tires From Paris Men

Alcek Simpson, colored Carlisle garage owner, was under $1,000 bond here this week for his appearance in a Paris court Friday morning to answer to a charge of receiving stolen property.

The charge was the outgrowth of the theft of six tires from a freight car in Paris, which led to the arrest of Robert Fisher, Paris negro, and J. W. McIlvaine, Paris. Officers said that five of the tires were found in Simpson's garage on West Main street here Monday night.

Simpson said that Fisher and McIlvaine came to his garage Sunday morning, offering to sell him the tires.

They started pricing them at $35 and finally got down to $30," he said, "and finally I told them that I was afraid of the tires and that I thought there was something wrong about it."

"Finally Fisher, a boy that I knew, asked me to lend him five dollars and I did that. Then they drove off and left the tires, although I told them not to. I didn't buy the tires, I didn't try to sell the tires, and as soon as the officers found in I knew what they wanted.

"The mistake I made was not reporting the matter to the law as soon as they left the tires at my place, but I was afraid that there might be a mistake and that the tires might really belong to the white man from Paris. So I just let them stay there."

Cannon Is Sold, Will Be Scrapped

A landmark of many years standing in Carlisle was slated for removal this week as the American Legion Post, No 17, announced that it had sold the cannon in the Nicholas county court house yard. It is to be scrapped for the all out war effort.

The gun, made in Essen by the Krupp munitions company, was a captive of the first world war. In deciding to scrap it, the local Legion is following the move made by many such orgnizations in the country—placing a useless landmark in a position where it can do some good in the current conflict.

City Council Cites Law to Billiard Halls

Ordinance, State Law Read by Town Fathers

Copies of the Kentucky statutes governing the playing of minors in billiard parlors will be sent to Carlisle pool room owners by order of the Carlisle City Council, accomplished by a warning to observe the state law.

The Council took the action Monday night at a regular monthly meeting, during the course of which a city Board of Equalization was named, the dog problem in the city was discussed, and the date for the annual clean-up week was set here.

Roger Womack, city attorney, was instructed by Mayor W. C. Talbert, with Council approval, to send copies of the state law regarding pool rooms to each of the Carlisle establishments where billiards are played. Members of the group said they had "heard complaints" during the past few days over what some youths playing pool in the local halls.

Action

Not less than one minute Monday night there was a vacancy in the city clerk's office.

The Council asked Arthur Mullikin, city clerk, for his resignation, accepted it, then voted to raise the salary from twenty to $25 per month, elected Mr. Mullikin to the position. He was then sworn in by Mayor Talbert, the whole business taking less than two minutes.

(The statue covering billiard halls makes the owner of each room liable for indictment if a person under 21 years of age plays in his place without consent of the parent.

(The city ordinance governing the billiard halls is as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for the owner, keeper, or tenant having control of any billiard or pool table, or billiard or pool table at any public place or resort in the city to suffer or permit any minor under the age of twenty-one years to play on such table, or to suffer or permit a minor under the age of eighteen years to remain in such room, or about or such public place of resort.")

Mr. Womack said he would write to the Kentucky statutes in the matter immediately.

Mayor Talbert named R. L. Burdette, C. C. Stewart and Tom Herndon to sit as a three man Board of Equalization in the consideration of city property assessments.

Appearing before the Council, Dr. Donald B. Thurber, county health officer, said that four persons have been bitten in Carlisle recently by dogs and another had been killed by a train in a fit. He declared that he did not believe it necessary to take any drastic measures, saying that two city ordinances which are on the books should take care of the matter. These, which the Council ordered published and which appear in this issue of The Mercury, prohibit dogs running loose on the streets and the harboring of a vicious dog.

The date for the clean-up week will be the week beginning April 27. The campaign will be jointly sponsored by the Carlisle Lions Club and the Nicholas County Health Department.
