THE CARLISLE MERCURY
Established 1867
Entered at the Carlisle Postoffice as second class matter

In Memory of
WARREN H. FISHER
Editor 1912-1937

Mrs. Warren Fisher, Publisher
Gibson Prather, Editor and Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
One Year (in advance) $2.00

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1942 Active Member

MEMBER KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1942

We're In This Deep.

Westbrook Pegler, who operates on the theory that a gallon of vinegar will catch as many flies as honey will attract and who always finds more sin and evil through his specials to stray than through his daily column, came up with an article the other day in praise of President Roosevelt.

This was a bit strange as Pegler rarely praises anyone and has been a persistent critic of many administration policies, but in this latest effort he pointed out that in his estimation of Roosevelt policy is not necessarily a Roosevelt luter, and he reaffirmed his faith in the President as the best man in the world to be at the helm in the present conflict.

We liked that column, because we have always admired Pegler as a man of his convictions. We have thought him a bit bitter at times and we have disagreed on many occasions with his views, but we believe that he had faith in what he said.

* * *

And we cannot help, as we hear criticism of the manner in which the war effort is being conducted, but wonder if the critics can possibly realize that when they set-up ing is in direct conflict with the facts of the last eight years.

The first voice of warning of things to come was the voice of the President of the United States. He saw, but we and our elected representatives in the Congress would not heed.

Senator Borah, the leader of the isolationist forces in Congress before his death, cheered our ostrich-like policy with a positive statement that there "will be no war in Europe this year". That was in 1939, and weeks later France was on her knees.

A movement was launched in Congress to fortify our islands in the Pacific, but a group of isolationists, Democrats and Republicans together, came to the fore and defeated the measure. It was Bruce Barton, then a Republican congressman from New York, who quipped "Guam with the wind" after a measure that would have fortified the Island of Guam was beaten in the House. It's not funny now, is it, and Guam is gone with the wind—only the wind is the wind that was exhaled from those "they can't get us, boys" in the House.

* * *

It wasn't Roosevelt who did this. It was the Roosevelt haters, the That Man group, who brought it about. And now there are those who would sit back and criticize the manner in which he is attempting to carry on this war.

This is no time for recriminations. This is no time for idle criticism. This is no time for talk that has its inception in the fact that because we disapprove of some of the New Deal policies that we think nothing good can be accomplished in Washington.

We haven't had a single winning day since this war started. We're not the race horse type, unless we get in front and pitch we're going to lose those very same necks.

Unless we realize this pretty soon, we're going to be in a worse shape than we are.

Yes people that are talking the most— how much scrap material have you dumped in the barrel since this thing started? And how many bonds have you bought?

* * *

Clean Up Week.

Probably many persons have said it many times, but it was inspiring Court Judge Stanley Reed when he said a Kentucky audience that the best monies in which the "home folks" could best help in the war effort was by more about their daily tasks and doing them as well as possible.

So the Clean Up week campaign which begins Monday in Carlisle is a task that should be done well. Each of us can accomplish something worthwhile if we will but clean up our own back yards. It will aid the appearance and the health of the people of the community if we have it spotless next Saturday.

The first year cleaning week can be something more than just a week when we are tidying up our premises. The salvage committee in the county has asked for the old rags, old paper, old rubber and metal scrap, in response to a national plea for these materials. This year we can take that rubbish which we are going to throw out and convert some of it to the war effort.

A pen has been built on a downtown street for the metal. Certainly we can take those old pieces of iron and steel which are laying about the house or the yard and dump them into that pen to help get a jag. Surely we can see that the waste rubber and cardboard finds its way to the Salvage House.

Let's clean up with a will. Then we will look better and we'll all feel better when the job is done.

* * *

And while we're cleaning up the private premises, how about getting the streets cleaned up a little, too. If any of you members of the city council have ever been out Main street in a high wind you know that you can scarcely see from the Deposit Bank to Cole's corner.

And while we're on the subject, what about cleaning up the rest rooms in the Nicholas county court house. That place over there is no bed of roses.

Unity Helps.

There was a great spirit of unity exhibited at the banquet held by the Young Business Men's club Friday night. Such a spirit helps this community, and one hundred men, working together in a unified program for the betterment of this area, can accomplish anything they set out to do.

Now let's put a program going, let's not shat dismiss the organization from our mind until it's banquet time again, and all get together on this thing.

We can do it if everyone will get out and push. We can't do it if a few insist on either taking over in sitting back and criticizing the pushers.

* * *

We see that they have now taken up the matter of rationing rubber blades, but we suppose that will all scrape through somehow.

One famous movie actress says that it is her ambition to kiss 10000 soldiers this year. Could Sherman have been wrong about war?

The gateway, it is reported, are doing a rushing business. However, it is to be hoped that the box car numbers ever catch up with the national debt.

* * *

Latest press release from Washington warns against the hoarding of money. What money?

Seeing a little dog chasing a great big truck always makes us wonder if what he'd do with it if he ever caught it.

* * *

What we'd like to see is a fund to take care of German subs. A sinking fund would do it.

"An Editor's Random Thoughts"

Editor's Note: For several years readers throughout the State have asked for reprints of the brilliant editorials under Nature by the late Warren H. Fisher. With this in mind, and, believing that many would enjoy again his editorials, we are presenting reprints under the head used by Mr. Fisher so many times, "An Editor's Random Thoughts." We will try to pick each week the best editorial Mr. Fisher wrote. We believe you will read again with joy, one in which you will find all the beauty of Kentuckiana.

Viewing With Alarm.

We view with alarm the brilliant colors which young men's hose are sporting this year. We view with alarm the fact that in Nippanese is origin—the Japanese magnolias, and the japonica, which are otherwise known as Japanese quince.

* * *

—Buy Defense Bonds—

HULL AND WINCHELL

Cordell Hull, dignified, austere secretary of state, sat gazing out over the Atlantic ocean recently from a Miami beach cabana before the advance of turbulent, Broadway nonsleuth Walter Winchell.

For two months Mr. Hull has been absorbed from Washington, there has been speculation whether he would return. So news-starved Winchellfolk put the question bluntly to his cabana neighbor.

"Mr. Secretary, are you going back to work?"

The secretary of state replied in the affirmative. He said that after he had had sufficient rest in the South, he was going back to work.

Nobody—not Winchell's friends reproached him for putting such a blunt question to Mr. Hull. Winchell-folk question shamelessly to his colleagues.

Winchell: "I've gotta ask questions. That's my racket."

* * *

HOME FRONT FLASHES

Donald Nelson's appointment of a co-ordinator to iron the rubber industry in the U. S. a number of similar industry rulers. Others slated to be named will be coordinators for textiles, food, aircraft, metals, etc.

Administration draft registrants: You can write it down as certain that congress will enact selective legislation providing government aid for dependents. That means those engaged on dependent grounds will be reclassified.

The Necessary Afterthing.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

A DREW PEARSON & ROBERT ALLEN COLUMN

With the tremendous war expansion of the army and navy, interbranch bad blood has become an accompanying frequency of press reports of censure by fledgling pilots. These stories have brought a flood of worried inquiries to Washington newspapermen.

Relatives of aviators have expressed concern over the number of these accidents and the question of the training program.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND has investigated both matters. For military reasons detailed figures cannot be disclosed. But the following generalizations can be published:

1. That the U. S. percentage of accidents is less than that of the British and appreciably under the best available German figures. The casualty rate among Nazi trainees is reported to be quite high due to limited training facilities, personnel and equipment.

2. While U. S. accidents have increased numerically with the growth of the greatly increased number of men in training, the percentage of accidents has not increased. Today it is about the same as in peacetime. But the fact is of key importance, since it records progress from no-deforestation in the basic quality of the army and navy air arms, despite speed-ups and other war factors.

3. The present training systems are far superior to those of the World War. Trainees are selected more carefully and given much more and better instruction before they get their coveted wings.

The question of adequate military air reserves to be prepared for a national emergency or cosic debate for some time. Some authorities feel that the best defense of America is to fight the enemy, and cite the fact that Britain has defied such grim stories.

The President, however, has not entirely agreed with this view. He is against publication of totals and percentages, but does not object to certain reports of individual mishaps. This is the policy of the British, and the question is still under discussion.

—Buy Defense Bonds—

SPRING AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Outside the White House fence marsh-mallows with iced bayonets. But inside the tall, iron fence, defying the changing weather, is the perennial transfiguration of spring.

The grass is a soft green, and the beds of pansies and jonquils have burst into bloom in colorful brilliance. The towering cedars and trees were never lovelier—the magnolias, japonica, and forsythia.

On the Pennsylvania avenue side, the magnolias are making a gorgeous showing, supported by the forsythia and japonica bushes, all at their best. The three tall cedars are on display over the fountain in the front yard. They are the two best show places in the White House grounds.

The only star in the scene is the construction work on the East grounds, where sewers and conduits are being laid for what is officially described as a "recreational addition."

The colors seen best by the President from his desk are those of the jonquils and pansies in the shell garden just outside his office window.

There is a touch of irony in the fact that one of the favorite flowers of Nippanese is origin—the Japanese magnolias, and the japonica, which are otherwise known as Japanese quince.

* * *

—Buy Defense Bonds—

HULL AND WINCHELL

Cordell Hull, dignified, austere secretary of state, sat gazing out over the Atlantic ocean recently from a Miami beach cabana before the advance of turbulent, Broadway nonsleuth Walter Winchell.

For two months Mr. Hull has been absorbed from Washington, there has been speculation whether he would return. So news-starved Winchellfolk put the question bluntly to his cabana neighbor.

"Mr. Secretary, are you going back to work?"

The secretary of state replied in the affirmative. He said that after he had had sufficient rest in the South, he was going back to work.

Nobody—not Winchell's friends reproached him for putting such a blunt question to Mr. Hull. Winchell-folk question shamelessly to his colleagues.

Winchell: "I've gotta ask questions. That's my racket."

* * *

HOME FRONT FLASHES

Donald Nelson's appointment of a co-ordinator to iron the rubber industry in the U. S. a number of similar industry rulers. Others slated to be named will be coordinators for textiles, food, aircraft, metals, etc.

Administration draft registrants: You can write it down as certain that congress will enact selective legislation providing government aid for dependents. That means those engaged on dependent grounds will be reclassified.

The Necessary Afterthing.

50 YEARS AGO

There died—John Fitzgerald, of Carlisle, at a Lexington hospital.

Dr. J. R. Tilton left for Columbia, Mo. to attend a purebred livestock sale.

Dr. Jerry Foster, returned from Philadelphia, where he recently graduated from medical school.

James Spencer, Will Rose, W. W. Howe, and Charles W. Wood left on Mt. Elliott to assist in organizing a Knights of Pythias lodge.

Henry Gaines and Tom Allen, colored, of Bigbrain county, were held to the Nicholas county grand jury on a charge of using insulting language to a lady.

Hon. Winfield Buckner of Robertson county announced his candidacy for circuit judge. There were now three candidates, the other two being Thomas Owens and W. W. Kimbrough.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. W. C. Wood arrived from Collins, Miss. for a visit with relatives.

Married—Miss Ella Bedford and H. H. Rankin, both of Nicholas county, in Lexington.

Elliott Collier of Carlisle was awarded a contract to build a new Students' Fellows Temple at Flemingsburg.

J. Ray McIntyre of Carlisle was a member of the graduating class at the University of Kentucky Medical school.

Bordeaux, here, Mike and other buildings of W. H. Gibson near Carlisle were totally destroyed by fire.

Dueling outfits of the Nicholas County Oil and Gas Company and Carlisle will be put to work near Park Hill.

The following teachers in the Carlisle school were elected: Fred W. F. Ramey, Prof. C. F. Martin, Misses Mabelle Scott, Minnie Colville, Bee Tuttle, Mattie Power, Bessie Kimbrough, Bettie Shaw, Mattie Secrest, and Anna Johnson.

20 YEARS AGO

Incendiarism was suspected as the Inglis building in Millersburg was razed by fire.

Carlisle High school baseball team defeated both Mt. Sterling teams here. Paris was downed 26 to 4 and Mt. Sterling by 8 to 5.

Henry Harper was recorded as one of the best students in the University of Kentucky Engineering College.

Governor Morrow issued proclamation calling upon citizens to observe the 100th birthday anniversary of Ulysses S. Grant.

Fifty-three new suits were on file as circuit court prepared to convene.

"OWS ARE FLYING KITES" IN THE HILL

The sport is old—
Uncounted centuries ago
Some fun-loving lad of old Cathay
Gazed upward at their display
Of kites
On such a windy day.

The hill is old—
Scant fragments have the elements
Covered from the cliffside, deep and brown;
Time ever has it seemed to stand
Staunch guardian of the town.

The breeze is old—
Time was trimness and galleon sail
Skimmed before it, as it blew
Unchanged from the world, the breeze is old—
Only the boys are new.

—By Mary Y. Williams.

SOCIAL ERROR

If I'd a pound of sugar a week
Per person—that's the initial
Sugar ration to go into effect in Mid-May. It may soon be a
Social honor comparable to eating with your knife to take more than a scant teaspoonful of sugar for your coffee when you're a dinner guest. Some hosts might even tell you to bring your own, as they do in England.—Maysville Ledger.

OTHER EDITORIALS

"Get Fighting Mad"

By W. J. Weir, in Printers' Ink

Don't get me wrong—I'm just an ordinary guy. I'm not trying to pose as an expert on the muddling of public opinion. I'm not talking about what I'd do if it was my job to whip up the country on the war effort.

I'm talking as an average citizen. I'm saying, not what I'd like to tell them, but what I'd like to be told. Soap.

Because I'm concerned, and I've been concerned, about my reaction to all that's been happening. I'm buying bonds. I'm paying taxes. I'm doing all that.

But deep down inside, down where it really matters, something hasn't taken place yet that I feel ought to take place. I'm still a welter of confusion there. It keeps me awake at night and I suppose my boss what I know I ought to be clenching my fists.

You understand? It's like this:

I want to be told—not to buy Defense Stamps or Defense Bonds.

I want to be told to buy Victory Stamps or War Bonds.

I want to be told—not about the construction of houses in Defense Areas. I want to be told about the construction of houses in War Production Areas.

I want to be told—not to conserve gasoline. I want to be told to conserve gasoline in order to bomb Berlin to rags. Home.

I want to be told—not to do my part to keep Stalin or Pavlum from the doorstep. I want to be told to do my part to spread Americanism to all doorsteps.

I want to be told—not to help keep our world and our way of life from being lost. I want to be told to help build a new world and a better way of life.

I want a positive program instead of a passive one. I want something to fight for—not just something to fight against. I'm hungry for something to get pepped up about—I'm repelled from having only something to fear. I want something to do—not just to wait for.

In short, here we are, more than a year into this war. I remember the parades and the speeches and the ringing declarations. You've fought to win the world safe for democracy. We boldly declared it.

Words were coming.

Then Roosevelt and Churchill—not just a member of. We made a row that we'd reach Berlin or bust. We raved with plans to hang the Kaiser. We wanted the Hun to crawl on his knees. Remember? We stood—ourselves—for unconditional surrender.

I'm not trying to be critical. I'm not trying to be smart. I'm not trying to pose as an expert on the muddling of public opinion. I'm not talking about what I'd do if it was my job to whip up the country on the war effort.

I'm talking as an average citizen. I'm saying, not what I'd like to tell them, but what I'd like to be told. Soap.

Because I'm concerned, and I've been concerned, about my reaction to all that's been happening. I'm buying bonds. I'm paying taxes. I'm doing all that.

But deep down inside, down where it really matters, something hasn't taken place yet that I feel ought to take place. I'm still a welter of confusion there. It keeps me awake at night and I suppose my boss what I know I ought to be clenching my fists.

You understand? It's like this:

I want to be told—not to buy Defense Stamps or Defense Bonds.

I want to be told to buy Victory Stamps or War Bonds.

I want to be told—not about the construction of houses in Defense Areas. I want to be told about the construction of houses in War Production Areas.

I want to be told—not to conserve gasoline. I want to be told to conserve gasoline in order to bomb Berlin to rags. Home.

I want to be told—not to do my part to keep Stalin or Pavlum from the doorstep. I want to be told to do my part to spread Americanism to all doorsteps.

I want to be told—not to help keep our world and our way of life from being lost. I want to be told to help build a new world and a better way of life.

I want a positive program instead of a passive one. I want something to fight for—not just something to fight against. I'm hungry for something to get pepped up about—I'm repelled from having only something to fear. I want something to do—not just to wait for.

In short, here we are, more than a year into this war. I remember the parades and the speeches and the ringing declarations. You've fought to win the world safe for democracy. We boldly declared it.

Words were coming.

Then Roosevelt and Churchill—not just a member of. We made a row that we'd reach Berlin or bust. We raved with plans to hang the Kaiser. We wanted the Hun to crawl on his knees. Remember? We stood—ourselves—for unconditional surrender.

I'm not trying to be critical. I'm not trying to be smart. I'm not trying to pose as an expert on the muddling of public opinion. I'm not talking about what I'd do if it was my job to whip up the country on the war effort.

I'm talking as an average citizen. I'm saying, not what I'd like to tell them, but what I'd like to be told. Soap.

Because I'm concerned, and I've been concerned, about my reaction to all that's been happening. I'm buying bonds. I'm paying taxes. I'm doing all that.

But deep down inside, down where it really matters, something hasn't taken place yet that I feel ought to take place. I'm still a welter of confusion there. It keeps me awake at night and I suppose my boss what I know I ought to be clenching my fists.

You understand? It's like this:

I want to be told—not to buy Defense Stamps or Defense Bonds.

I want to be told to buy Victory Stamps or War Bonds.

I want to be told—not about the construction of houses in Defense Areas. I want to be told about the construction of houses in War Production Areas.

I want to be told—not to conserve gasoline. I want to be told to conserve gasoline in order to bomb Berlin to rags. Home.

I want to be told—not to do my part to keep Stalin or Pavlum from the doorstep. I want to be told to do my part to spread Americanism to all doorsteps.

I want to be told—not to help keep our world and our way of life from being lost. I want to be told to help build a new world and a better way of life.

I want a positive program instead of a passive one. I want something to fight for—not just something to fight against. I'm hungry for something to get pepped up about—I'm repelled from having only something to fear. I want something to do—not just to wait for.

In short, here we are, more than a year into this war. I remember the parades and the speeches and the ringing declarations. You've fought to win the world safe for democracy. We boldly declared it.

Words were coming.

Then Roosevelt and Churchill—not just a member of. We made a row that we'd reach Berlin or bust. We raved with plans to hang the Kaiser. We wanted the Hun to crawl on his knees. Remember? We stood—ourselves—for unconditional surrender.

We hated the Kaiser—we didn't laugh at him. We painted his loathsome physiognomy on toilet paper to make the most humiliating use of it. We likened his brain to sauerkraut to the cabbage-head of our enemy. We likened his brain to sauerkraut to the devil's food. We churned our pained butter into two pounds and did it with as much will as if we were turning out ammunition.

We took the offensive psychologically long before we took it physically. And if we hadn't taken it psychologically, we'd never have developed the drive to take it physically. And don't tell me we can't do the same now.

I want to sing that today we control our own destiny, tomorrow the destiny of the whole world. I want to sail against Germany, against Italy, against Japan. If they can sail against us and our allies, why can't we sail against them?

I want to construct a greater America co-prosperity sphere. I want to correct the mistakes of the Roosevelt treaty insofar as they allowed all this to happen. I want to win lebensraum for the democratic way of life.

I'm fed up with singing plaintive songs—I want to sing battle songs. Don't tell me there'll be bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover. To hell with bluebirds over the white cliffs. Let them fly over Berchtesgaden.

I'm bored with keeping a stiff upper lip—I want to develop a stiff uppercut. I'm tired of being made to feel sad. I want the experience—the purging, naturalistic, driving experience—of being made to feel mad. Fighting mad.

You get me!

THE POLICY OF THE EAGLE IN ACTION

That inspired flight from Australia to the Philippines and back has lifted up the heart of America. Those thirteen Army bombers "cut the cruise down a little," as one of the flyers said, between ourselves and the Japs in the Pacific. But the dramatic and the consternation which were visited upon the enemy were the least part of the victory; the greater part was its quick, keen refreshment in the spirit of the countrymen of the victors. At last we have seen the policy of the eagle which President Roosevelt promised us—flying high and striking hard—beautifully exemplified.

The enemy, German and Japanese, has traveled far on the road of terror, and has grown bold. His audacity has overwhelmed strongfold after stronghold that was "impregnable" and achieved many a military and naval feat that was "impossible." But our men in the Pacific have now demonstrated that our side can bring into play the elements of daring and surprise with courage and ingenuity that can take the breath away for a moment even of the gangster gamblers who have set upon us. We have from General Royce and his gallant force, under the inspiration of General Douglas MacArthur, a clear picture of the end of the defensive psychology which the enemy has exploited with such demoniac skill. We are unutterably glad and proud.

The news came, somewhat ironically, along with notice that Mr. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator, has abolished the "division of physical fitness"—which he had inherited from the Office of Civilian Defense where Mrs. Roosevelt and Mayor La Guardia had conferred it as a "morale-builder." Talk about morale! Not all the information and voluntarism services which sprawl in Washington can include the spirit of attack as can the perfect example of the spirit of attack in action.—Courier-Journal.

FROM OUR READERS

Dear Mercury:

You did not send me a notice but I'm sure my time for Mercury was up in March. I can't do without the Mercury. Enclosed find $1.25 for next six months. I thank you.

Sincerely
Mrs. Berenice S. Norton

The Key Insurance MATHIAS Insurance AGENCY

C. D. RAZOR with Baugh & Garner
Lexington, Ky.
Night Phone 8879-X

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

Appointment of Edward Briscoe of Louisville as chief probation officer for the western Kentucky district federal court was made permanent instead of temporary by Judges Shackelford Miller and Mac Swinford.

Chord Marvin Akers of Jeffersonville, Ind., and Custer Mel Brewer of New Albany, Ind., were elected co-captains of the University of Kentucky basketball team for next season.

Members of Panhellic Club Pallake post of the American Legion voted to organize a new fund-raising drive in continuing their effort to have Paducah represented in Kitty League baseball this season.

C. H. Chernault of Georgetown is a new member of the state soil conservation commission, taking the place of the late Joe E. Robinson of Lancaster, in appointment from Gov. Keen Johnson.

State Motor Transportation Director William Hunton granted permission for three McCracken county school bus operators to haul paying passengers to allevlate a transportation shortage affecting workers in Paducah factories and railroad shops.

A Civilian Conservation Corps motor truck driven by Curtis was among 15 throughout the country turned over to the army, presumably for training army mechanics, by order of President Roosevelt.

The Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Association, meeting in Louisville, chose these officers: Laurie Apitz, University of Louisville, president; Ralph Hibbitt, Centre, vice president; Quinn Decker, Centre College athletic director, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Peter College physical education director, secretary-treasurer.

The state motor transportation division authorized the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to institute pick up and delivery of its freight by trucks to and from its railroad stations on routes from Elizabethtown to Madisonville and from Guthrie to Hopkinsville.

The case of Wm. Ingram, former police chief of Olive Hill, charged with murder in the shooting of Clarence Scott, was expected to reach a jury in circuit court at Grayson Tuesday. Scott, a neighbor of Ingram, was shot to death in Olive Hill last October. Evidence in the case was completed Monday.

The body of a man found on the bank of the Barren River near Smith Bridge in Mercer County Saturday was identified as that of Roy C. Warren, 25, Madison county farmer who drowned last November 29 after he fell from a skiff at Hunter's Ferry.

Fire this week destroyed the Smithland Continental Telephone Company exchange housed in the home of Mrs. Mamie Bland at Glendale in Hardin County. The exchange was operated by Mrs. Bland. Telephone service was reestablished shortly after the fire.

Approximately 2000 students representing 103 Kentucky schools are expected to participate in the eighth annual Kentucky state high school music festival at the University of Kentucky Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The participants will be those who received rating of "excellent" or better in competitions held recently at Murray, Madisonville, Bowling Green, Louisville, Covington, Richmond, Harlan, Pineville and Pikeville.

Buy U. S. Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps!

MATHIAS Insurance AGENCY

C. D. RAZOR with
Baugh & Garner
Lexington, Ky.
Night Phone 8879-X

GIBBERISH

(Continued from Page 1)

shop. That Leonard took all day to sell the ad, taking the young lady who owned the dress shop to lunch. That the ad Leonard sold was a five dollar ad. That Leonard still hasn't been paid.

And that, says Mr. Merkell, is what happened in Paris.

In the Roberts room on Pearl Harbor it is confirmed by him that with no room into history above is Nelson's famous words of Trafalgar and John Paul Jones's "We have not yet begun to fight." Other famous words were uttered by Admiral Harbor Standley, the publicity-shy naval man who had charge of the Philippines before the Japs attack. Dropping his pretentiousness, he ran to the anti-aircraft gun position, "pressuring lead at the Japbombers." A few minutes later he was heard to intone: "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition. I just got one of the s-----."

* * *

You know we're always boosting those classified advertisements of ours, and they really will do a job if you'll only do what you want to sell, buy, sell, or trade. But it is not the purpose of this department to let the seeds of commercialism enter into the fair mere proposition. However, last week George Gaffin lost a nine dollar roll of linoleum. He put an ad in our row in and about his place of business. He stopped us and told us to get it back for him with a classified advertisement. We wrote the ad, and thought no more about the matter.

Then on Tuesday, Sheriff Bernard Clark told us he had found the pen. So we hurried down to and let Gaffin know. He published the ad Tuesday night before Thursday night.

Well, the paper came out Thursday morning and there was the classified section, and went back and gave Gaffin his pen. It broke a speed record on results because a man had the pen back five minutes after The Mercury hit the streets.

Now here's a ridiculous, won't pay the cokes, won't give anybody any reward, and just barely is speaking to. Humpty me.

* * *

We can't understand it.

* * *

The Quick and the Dead

Miss Annie Lou Henry Peters since he went through the other day with the army?

Memories crowded on him. He remembered when he was a lad in the old Church of Russell "revivals" were held in his own home property of the late Mrs. Sophia Bozeman and asking judgment of the Lord. After Mrs. Bozeman's death in a traffic accident January 31, a will was found left him all of her property. The conversion and the will are administrative or appointed when Gilpin did not answer a contest of the will on behalf of Gilpin's deceased only child, Irene Bozeman.

Six hundred Kentucky prisoners who have volunteered to serve in the armed forces are badly damaged the Kentucky penitentiary at Eddyville penitentiary by fire of undetermined origin, Warden O. Oldham county. They are the convicts designated by a 1942 legislative act as eligible for parole ahead of the previously specified period of half their terms, provided they join the army. All were convicted of felony crimes and are accepted on that score to the army. Those found physically and otherwise fit will be inducted directly from prison.

Nine girls, some of whom were aroused from sleep, escaped harm early Sunday when fire badly damaged the nine-room lodging house of Mrs. Mattie Borders at Hodgenville. The girls were roomers.

Miss Jane Inmes, 21, of Louisville, killed herself with a policeman's revolver while in his office at headquarters, Deputy Coroner M. Rodger Dougherty said in reporting the death a verdict of suicide. Louisville Police Chief A. E. Kimberling suspended the officer, Patrolman Benjamin H. Brucker, who was off duty and in a nearby soft drink parlor when the shot was fired.

A 70-year-old member of a homemakers' club in Fulton county is walking through her community to encourage families to have gardens.

A Boyd county grand jury indicted Jack Arnold Hanner, 32, on a murder charge in the fatal shooting last week of Chalmer Gullett, 33, head of an Ashland transfer firm. Hanner was set for April 29. Patrolman Sam Perry testified at a coroner's inquest that Hanner, a hitchhiker, told him Gullett had paid attention to Mrs. Hanner.

* * *

At Mount Vernon, another murder trial ended in a hung jury. Jesse Dunbar, 21, of Cincinnati, charged with the slaying of Ernest Duncan, also of Cincinnati, whose body was found in a burned automobile near Mount Vernon. Jesse Dunbar, Jr., and Duncan and Cobey were tried jointly. Dunbar and had lived at Burnside, Ky. He reported that his father was unable to appear in the cause of the automobile accident in which Cobey was killed as the two were returning from Tennessee.

The war is impeding justice in McCracken county. Circuit Judge Joe L. Price said at Paducah that all panels of petit jurymen scheduled to appear at the present term in order to be available to the grand and Commonwealth's Attorney Holland G. Bryan said that many had gone into the armed services or to defense industries in other localities.

Sixteen cars of a Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad freight train were derailed in the outskirts of Pikeville, eight being badly smashed and one plunging into the Big Sandy river. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents declined to comment on the wreck, apparently caused by a defective rail. Officials said that no sabotage was suspected. Agents did, however, investigate possibilities that a bomb was placed on the train.

Mrs. Johnson county fiscal court members. The Rev. Wm. Ray Beck and Ronald Daniels served six-hour sentences and paid $50 fines, for contempt of their own court. County Judge W. J. Ward imposed the penalties after Beck refused to withdraw his absence to consider a motion to set aside the $50 fines. The fines and sentences were imposed April 10 but circuit court was in session by recess Thursday.

Greenup circuit court received into custody a shotgun used by John H. Gilpin of the First Baptist Church of Russell "revivals" were held in his own home property of the late Mrs. Sophia Bozeman and asking judgment of the Lord. After Mrs. Bozeman's death in a traffic accident January 31, a will was found left him all of her property. The conversion and the will are administrative or appointed when Gilpin did not answer a contest of the will on behalf of Gilpin's deceased only child, Irene Bozeman.

Six hundred Kentucky prisoners who have volunteered to serve in the armed forces are badly damaged the Kentucky penitentiary at Eddyville penitentiary by fire of undetermined origin, Warden O. Oldham county. They are the convicts designated by a 1942 legislative act as eligible for parole ahead of the previously specified period of half their terms, provided they join the army. All were convicted of felony crimes and are accepted on that score to the army. Those found physically and otherwise fit will be inducted directly from prison.

Nine girls, some of whom were aroused from sleep, escaped harm early Sunday when fire badly damaged the nine-room lodging house of Mrs. Mattie Borders at Hodgenville. The girls were roomers.

Miss Jane Inmes, 21, of Louisville, killed herself with a policeman's revolver while in his office at headquarters, Deputy Coroner M. Rodger Dougherty said in reporting the death a verdict of suicide. Louisville Police Chief A. E. Kimberling suspended the officer, Patrolman Benjamin H. Brucker, who was off duty and in a nearby soft drink parlor when the shot was fired.

A 70-year-old member of a homemakers' club in Fulton county is walking through her community to encourage families to have gardens.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Improved Uniform International

Lesson for April 26

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts are copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

WATCHING CONTRIBUTIONS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 21:1-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.—Luke 9:24.

Learning by taking with Christ as they walked from place to place for food, and by giving as a result of which the disciples received. That the apostles needed this same gift has ever known, for while it had no great bulk, it troubled many. Paul wrote to Timothy that in the days of God Himself as preacher said Christ, with all due regard for our fine colleges and seminaries, we say this is still the outstanding need of Christian workers—to walk with God in Christ.

On the day of which our lesson speaks the subject considered was the widow's mite, and who should be saved. Several trends of thought on that matter are all pointed in the direction of a diligent following of Christ. In order to be saved, we learn, a man must

I. Make an Earnest Effort (vv. 22-24).

The question regarding how many were saved received a direct answer for our Lord wished to direct attention to the far more important question—Are you saved? Get that settled and the other matter will care for itself.

Here some who entered in at the strait gate will be surprised, but it is to receive a surprise, for our Lord says (v. 24) that it is through the strait "agonize" ever, for so may the word "strive" be translated. The door into eternal life is so narrow that no one can enter in through it with his sins—they must be taken away before it is not enough (v. 24), one must be born again.

II. Enter While the Door is Open (vv. 25-27).

The door stands open for all who will enter in. But a friendly Host is an open door. But men are silly when it comes to accepting opportunity. Or they seek it, but do not strive to enter in, and all at once the door is closed. Then it is too late to seek to enter, but it is too late. What is your attitude? Are you entering "while the door is open"?

III. Receive the Kingdom as a Little Child (vv. 28-30).

But now he's apologizing, won't pay the cokes, won't give anybody any reward, and just barely is speaking to. Humpty me.

* * *

We can't understand it.

* * *

The Quick and the Dead

Miss Annie Lou Henry Peters since he went through the other day with the army?

Memories crowded on him. He remembered when he was a lad in the old Church of Russell "revivals" were held in his own home property of the late Mrs. Sophia Bozeman and asking judgment of the Lord. After Mrs. Bozeman's death in a traffic accident January 31, a will was found left him all of her property. The conversion and the will are administrative or appointed when Gilpin did not answer a contest of the will on behalf of Gilpin's deceased only child, Irene Bozeman.

Six hundred Kentucky prisoners who have volunteered to serve in the armed forces are badly damaged the Kentucky penitentiary at Eddyville penitentiary by fire of undetermined origin, Warden O. Oldham county. They are the convicts designated by a 1942 legislative act as eligible for parole ahead of the previously specified period of half their terms, provided they join the army. All were convicted of felony crimes and are accepted on that score to the army. Those found physically and otherwise fit will be inducted directly from prison.

Nine girls, some of whom were aroused from sleep, escaped harm early Sunday when fire badly damaged the nine-room lodging house of Mrs. Mattie Borders at Hodgenville. The girls were roomers.

Miss Jane Inmes, 21, of Louisville, killed herself with a policeman's revolver while in his office at headquarters, Deputy Coroner M. Rodger Dougherty said in reporting the death a verdict of suicide. Louisville Police Chief A. E. Kimberling suspended the officer, Patrolman Benjamin H. Brucker, who was off duty and in a nearby soft drink parlor when the shot was fired.

A 70-year-old member of a homemakers' club in Fulton county is walking through her community to encourage families to have gardens.

Set the Rising Sun!

—Buy Defense Bonds—

SOUNDING THAT VICTORY NOTE!

USO

Army men go all out with brass, reed and strings in melodious proof that they enjoy their off-duty jam sessions at one of the 400-odd larger USO service men's clubs. USO's 1942 program, to be carried out through the $32,000,000 War Fund Campaign, May 11-July 4, calls for operation of 400 clubhouses and 225 other units at Army camps and Navy stations.

Fleming Youths Held In Postoffice Robbery

Two Fleming county youths on parole from Fayette Circuit Court were being held at Flemingsburg Friday in connection with the robbery of the Elizaville postoffice in Fleming county.

Fleming County Judge Robert S. Stokley said the youths were Robert Kirk, 19, of Ellisville, and Warren Markwell, 20, of Flemingsburg. Judge Stokley said they were arrested at Flemingsburg Wednesday night by Patrolman Ed Riley and were being held for postal authorities who are investigating the theft of $31 from the Elizaville postoffice Saturday night.

Fleming court officials said the youths had been paroled recently by Fayette Circuit Court to Lexington after they had had pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge, amended from grand larceny, in connection with the theft of a coin-operated phonograph from a Fayette county establishment.

Friday Last Day To File Suits

Friday, April 24, is the last day for filing suits for the May term of Nicholas circuit court, Lacy Barnett, clerk of the court, pointed out here this week. Under Kentucky law, suits must be filed at least ten days before the court convenes, and Judge J. C. Dedman will deliver his charge to the grand jury on May 4.

—For Victory: Buy Bonds—

Trio Unhurt

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toy and their child, all of Nicholas county, escaped injury Sunday afternoon when the light truck in which they were riding slid down an embankment and overturned near Buzzard Roost.

Drop some scrap iron in that court house today.

Have You Tried the Bourbon Laundry?
Phone 33
Our Agent Will Be Glad To Stop.
Rough Dry Wash 7c Per Lb.

Wanted Dead Stock
HORSES COWS HOGS SHEEP
Removed promptly and free of charge by clean, sanitary steel-bedded trucks.
We pay all telephone calls.
Phone 65 Carlisle
Kentucky Rendering Co. Inc.
Our plant is the most modern and sanitary rendering plant in the State. Pay a visit to it.
Taylorsville, Kentucky

THE WAR
Puts A Tighter Limitation On Our Service To Customers

A STRICTER LIMITATION upon utility companies for maintaining, repairing and supplying electric, gas and water facilities for general use by the public, has been placed by a War Production Board order issued March 26.

MAKING ADDITIONS or expansion of equipment beyond a given number of feet from existing facilities is prohibited by the order. This means that extensions of lines and pipes to provide service for new homes or to homes heretofore without utility service is now almost entirely forbidden. The order also puts certain limitations on repairing non-defense equipment.

THE ORDER APPLIES equally to commercial and industrial customers desiring to expand their existing utility facilities—except in the case of war material producers whose preference ratings are such as to exclude them from the restriction order. Excluded also from the tightened restriction are maintenance and repairs to facilities for public health and safety