SOCIAL and SOCIETY

THE COMET

Like a small silver fish in a sea of blue,
I saw it in the deep until my mother woke me.
"Come to the window! Hurry!
Come here quickly!"
The room was strangely lighted from outdoors.
Her arms were warm as she set me on the floor.
The floor was cool and my chin just topped the sill.
"See, there above the spires on Two Church Hill!"

I clutched the sill and stared, I shook with glory.
While the great fiery star swam slowly southward,
Trailing its green-white stream of satellites,
Drawing my small soul wildly in its wake.
I blinked and stood on tiptoe. "Oh, what is it?"
Majestically across the night it moved.
"A comet," my mother said, and held her breath.
"You'll never see it again as long as you live!"

I tried to push my nose against the screen,
And watch the last sky, but I couldn't reach.
Brilliant, the great star swept into the south.
And I was sobbing like a foolish baby.
Not like a big girl quite past three years old
"But I want to live a hundred years!" I wept.
My mother took me firmly back in bed.
"Stop crying now and go to sleep," she scolded.

DEATHS

PETERS

Alois Peters, 81, died at 4 a. m. Friday, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ray Stamp, on the Maysville and Lexington road, where he had been ill for some time.

He was a native of Chillicothe, Ohio, and came to Carlisle when a young man. For many years he was engaged in the cobbler business.

Besides his daughter, he is survived by seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the St. John's Catholic church, with the Rev. Edward Priest officiating. Burial was in the Carlisle cemetery.

Pallbearers were William Cayley, Joe Mathias, Thomas Abraham, John Dunn, Tom Holland and Lawrence Cummins.

EWELL

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Walter Ewell, 39 year old chief carpenter's mate in the United States Navy, who died from a self inflicted bullet wound Thursday in Cincinnati.

A native of Nicholas county, Mr. Ewell was a son of the late William and Addie Ewell. He served in the navy for 21 years and was recalled in January of this year when war broke out again.

Mr. Ewell was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, and was in Cincinnati on sick leave at the time of the suicide. Friends said that he had been despondent about the war.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sue Hostetler, of Waynesville, Ohio, and, Mrs. Ollie Morris, of Carlisle and two brothers, Charles of Covington and Mont of Stanton.
