W. H. KNIGHT, Mgr.

Ky. Utilities Co. Marks It's 30th. Anniversary

Hunting is flying in more than fifty Kentucky Utilities Company stores throughout the State during the two "middle" weeks of August. In their windows are patriotic displays. And back of it all there is the picture of a Kentucky business institution working so hard to help win the war that it can't take time off to celebrate its thirtieth birthday.

"We had hoped to make this thirtieth milestone in our program for better service, and hence a better Kentucky, a memorable occasion," said F. J. Herdrich, the company's district manager. "Then came Pearl Harbor, and now we are sweating—every day and night—by turning out more and more electricity to help make the tanks, planes, guns and other equipment needed to knock the Axis back into oblivion."

The growth of Kentucky Utilities Company since August 17, 1912, when it was organized to serve eight then small communities, has been spectacular, said Mr. Hardsty, "but spectacular only because it is a great accomplishment by and for Kentuckians. It has required untiring effort, constant concern for the welfare of Kentuckians by their neighbors, our employees and directors, and has been a growth the tribute to home effort which it represents today.

"We have witnessed in the development of new electrical devices which have made the lives of Kentuckians easier, more comfortable. Our staff stream almost wholly from residents of the communities which worked long and hard to build up the confidence so necessary to make an organization like ours efficient and respected.

"The company conducts a continuous training program for its employees in order to keep efficiency at a high pitch, stressing courtesy and friendly relations with the public. In addition to giving good service at a reasonable price, the company has endeavored to discharge its civic responsibilities by building up as a welfare program to take care of sickness, accidental illness, old age and at death."

Mr. Hardesty traced the company's history in these characteristics.

Kentucky Utilities was formed by the consolidation of 11 properties—16 communities with continuous electrical service.

In 1912 the company had fifty-six employees who were paid $41,965 for their first year's work. For the year ending June 30, 1942, the staff contained over 1,200 employees and the pay roll was $2,000,000.

The company had 2,015 customers in its first year. This number has grown to 92,000 this year. Many are stockholders. There is no record of any Kentucky Utilities stock in 1912. There are 6,200 Kentucky shareholders this year.

The company's fuel bill in 1912 totaled $42,283. For the year ending June 30, it was $1,423,861.

Its 1912 tax expense was $7,170. For the fiscal year 1941, this figure had jumped to $2,509,967.

Two hundred eighteen communities never had electric service of any kind until the company supplied it. Seven towns sold their municipal plants to the company. Thirty-eight areas were receiving limited night service only, until the new company took over and instituted 24-hour service. The company now serves 100,015 residential, 19,187 commercial, and 2,261 industrial customers. It furnishes current for twenty-four R. E. A. and five municipal systems, and has four lines supplying the T. V. A.

A BLURRED LETTER IS NO LETTER TO HIM

Letters to and from loved ones are precious. If your man is in a V-Mail area, your letters must photograph well on 16-mm film, so it can fly the oceans and be reprinted one-fourth size for him on arrival. Sheaffer's V-BLACK used in Sheaffer's Pen makes an outstanding copy to photograph.
