THE FIGHTIN' FIRST

(Mrs. Elizabeth Woodward)

The first United States infantry
Awaits the call.
And Uncle Sam won't be ashamed
Well fight until we fall.
We'll make it mighty hot for them
With bay'net, shot and shell,
We are a fighting regiment,
We'll give those Japs hell.

When we arrive "somewhere in Japan"
And plunge into the war,
We'll stick until the very end—
We're yankees to the core,
And when we think of those we left
Back in the U. S. A.
We know we'll whip the Japanese
If it takes till Judgment day.

We've a duty to perform boys,
And we're gonna put it through,
And we're gonna help the British
Fight the Germans, till they're through.
Though the Hitler's no Napoleon
Nor an Alexander Great,
He has tried to rule the nation,
So he's gonna meet his fate.

We'll fight 'em on the ocean,
Or we'll fight 'em in the air,
We'll fight 'em in the trenches
And we'll fight 'em everywhere.
For we are American Sammies
And there's nothing we don't dare,
And they'll hear us shoutin' cheerful
When they send us over there.

CREAKING floors are evidence of movement in the flooring or supporting members.

Floor joists should be sufficiently heavy to prevent sagging, which bridging is essential to eliminate lateral movement.

For rigidity, sub-flooring should be laid diagonally to the joists. Tongue and groove boards laid diagonally to the joists are very satisfactory.

Oak flooring must be nailed down with cut nails, at least at eight inch intervals.

Q. What defines "hard" water for laundering purposes?

A. "Hard" water is softened by the addition of borax or ammonia or other alkali which prevents the formation of lime soaps. The amount of softening mineral salts that determines the optimum quantity, as the destiny of hardness varies as the quantity of different kinds of water.

Q. What paint do you suggest for floors that get much wear?

A. Although paint of normal consistency is used on floors, for large stretch of ample design, it is far better in all types to thicken the paint by reducing the oil content, the better to stand against the possibility of scratches and runs spoiling the general appearance.

An excellent formula for this work has proved to be soft paste white lead but slightly thinned with boiled linseed oil and reduced. This represents a considerable oil reduction from the usual paint surface of the standard finish coat.

Q. How can ink stains be removed from linoleum?

A. Scouring will not wash away ink invariably be eliminated by gentle rubbing with fine steel wool or some sharp-edged instrument like a razor blade. Some scraping removes the finish, it should be renewed by waxing or lacquering as the case may be.

Odd Tom, battle scarred war horse of the United States Marines, served 25 years before being retired. He actively participated in battles and was wounded once.

About 12 gallons of water is required for a cow in milk. The water should be clean and not too cold because it must be warmed in the body with heat produced from feed. The amount of water drunk does not affect the richness of the milk.

If possible, plow the garden in January, turning under a heavy coat of manure. Freezing and thawings after such plowing will tend to make the soil loose and moist, and the manure will have a chance to break down into humus.

Carlisle Vs. Cynthiana

Carlisle meets Cynthiana here Friday in the first game after the holidays. A game with Stanford on Friday of last week was called off because of the weather.

Carlisle will be without the services of Elmer Clark for the remainder of the season. He was accepted by the Navy last week and will report the first of next week. He was Captain and guard on the varsity.

Seevers, Soper and Carter will fill in the guard position left vacant.

A preliminary game at 7:00 between the Junior High teams followed by the varsity.

Launch Nationwide Farm Machinery Repair Drive

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has announced a nationwide farm machinery repair program designed to help farmers meet prospective reductions in new farm machinery in 1942 to make more steel available for other defense needs.

The USDA Defense Boards, comprised of U. S. Department of Agriculture representatives in all States and counties, have been directed by the Secretary to assist farmers in the program to repair their farm equipment by the end of the coming winter.

As an initial step in the campaign, all farmers contacted in the current sign-up campaign for the 1942 Farm Defense Program, will be urged to check their machinery and to order needed repairs at once. Plans for carrying out the repair program will be made by State and county USDA Defense Boards early in November.

"Each Defense Board has been requested to organize at once and carry out intensive March 15 a complete program," Secretary Wickard said. "Farmers will be working for record production of food in 1942 despite shortages. There will be much less new farm machinery manufactured in 1942 than in 1941. Minimum requirements of steel for armaments have made it necessary for this Office of Production Management to curtail the production of steel in every civilian channel. Not only will there be a smaller amount of farm machinery manufactured in 1942 but there will also be less fence wire, steel fence posts, nails and other iron and steel materials available for farm use.

"In many areas fewer farm workers will be available than in recent years. To offset these shortages as far as possible the Government plans to make enough metal available so that farmers can obtain parts with which to repair used machinery. Much machinery that normally would be discarded must be used in 1942 and maintained at maximum efficiency if the food production goals are to be reached.

"This is not a farmer program alone. It must have the support and assistance of manufacturers, merchants, mechanics, blacksmiths, schools and colleges."

County defense boards are expected to make an appraisal of the farm equipment situation in their counties, an inventory of machinery repair and welding shops, and check on the availability of skilled mechanics and farmers skilled in repair work.

Each farmer will be urged to (1) check old machinery, (2) order necessary parts from dealers immediately and (3) notify his county defense board if parts cannot be obtained.
