WITH THE County Agent

M. P. NICHOLS

GRASSHOPPERS ACTIVE

The County Agent because of his own observations and complaints already coming from the farmers feel not be reminded by the State Entomologist that grasshoppers are already plentiful and doing much damage. Farmers are urged to observe damage in their gardens already and to watch the young tobacco settings closely lest serious damage result before it is noticed. It is felt that if the below recommended bait is spread bountifully around at the edges of the garden and tobacco, that is on the grass surrounding these patches, that many of the hoppers will be poisoned before reaching the plants that are to be saved.

The poisoned bait is made by mixing while dry 100 pounds of wheat bran and 5 lbs. of Paris Green or white arsenic and then adding and mixing well 2 gallons of fresh, (not used) lubricating mineral oil such as is used for automobile crank cases of 20 to 31 S. A. E. rating, the latter being preferable in very hot, dry weather. This bait should be broadcast by hand at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds dry weight to the acre. (For a small garden 50x100 feet use 1-12 pounds bran, 1-12 ounce of poison and 1-4 pint of oil.) Scatter the poison in the morning between 6 and 8 a. m.

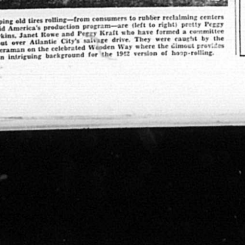
Do not look for results until about three days after applying the bait. Two or three applications may be necessary. Dead grasshoppers will be found under trash and litter—few of them die in the open spaces.

4-H SALVAGE WEEK

A couple of months ago officers appointed to work on Salvage, Defense and the War Program met with the County Judge to lay out a program to increase the amount of salvage material from this county. Four young people organizations were each allotted one week of each month. In May the 4-H's week was the 16th to the 16th.

It is only stating a fact and not making excuses to explain that that was graduation week and therefore the results were not as large as the County Agent anticipated. Nevertheless a total of 3,123 pounds of scrap iron, rubber, rags and paper were salvaged during that week which netted the 4-H clubs $21.39. The individual 4-H members according to reports received in this office are the most were Paul Neal, Curtis Ray, scrap iron; Nancy Wade, Estill Ann Ms. rubber; and Marion McGriffey, Carlisle route 2, old rags. The club turning in the largest number pounds of rubber was Carlisle.

The 4-H members and leaders have been informed by letter that again in June the 4-H salvage week is from the 13th to the 20th. Again ribbons have been ordered and awards will be made to both the individual and also the club who makes the largest contribution. Anyone who has scrap material, old rags or rubber, is urged to contact some club member, a club leader or the County Agents office that will be glad to help you.



"KEEP 'EM ROLLING"

Keeping old tires rolling—from consumers to rubber reclaiming centers to aid America's production program—are (left to right) pretty Peggy Hawkins, Janet Rowe and Peggy Krait who have formed a committee to put over Atlantic City's salvage drive. They were cast'n by the cameraman on the celebrated Wooden Way where the almost priceless an intriguing background for the 1942 version of hoop-rolling.

Kentucky 4-H'ers May Win War Bonds

Six Kentucky 4-H club members, during exceptional work this year will receive $25 war bonds from a fund established by the International Harvester Company. Awards will be made on general records in club work, leadership and community activities, and special contributions to the 4-H victory program.

Finds Control of Strawberry Borer

Poison baits for destroying adult strawberry crown borers is the newest wrinkle in the control of this serious pest of Kentucky strawberry plants. The method was developed by P. O. Ritcher of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

It was found that many adult crown borer beetles can be killed by the bait before they have a chance to lay their eggs in the plants. In one field experiment eight applications of bait between April 11 and June 25 reduced the number of borer infested plants by over 80 per cent.

The bait consists of dried apple pomace or cannery waste fuse coated with either sodium fluosilicate or common lead arsenate. The commercial preparation may be used or the growers can make his own from pomace left over from cider-making. The bait is practical only on small patches and about one half teaspoonful is dropped in the crown of each plant. One baiting is good for a week to 10 days and thirteen 50 and 75 pounds will treat an acre patch.

CUTTING WEEDS

Tobacco setting time is always a busy time but this season it is hoped will soon be over and one of the first jobs that should be classed as real crop work is that of cutting over pastures and weeds wherever they are found. Experienced farmers know that there are a few weeds such as wild pumpkins and others that have already set seed but many have not.

There are many good reasons for mowing our pastures at this checking and even killing certain weeds that have not already gone to seed. One is that it gives the pasture a neater appearance and farmers think that is very important if the premises are neat and clean. Many grasses have already headed out and the rubber, and timothy and morning them will will permit young shoots to grow and by so doing help to stock. Certain places where it has been dropped will not be eaten off by stock until it has been mowed over. Then the larger grasses that will be eaten as hay when it has been cut and the weeds killed.

In short, mowing over pastures needs to be done soon as possible and many of your best farm helpers more profit their growth at least twice a year.

Million Dollars Cost of Bad Eggs

Just plain bad eggs are costing Kentucky farmers a million dollars a year, it is estimated. This is a loss which could be largely prevented, according to Stanley Caton of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics, who offers the following suggestions:

Sell or can the roosters; they are not needed after the hatching season. Fertile eggs don't keep well.

Produce clean eggs by keeping a lot of litter on the hen house floor and in the nests. There should be a nest for every four or five hens.

Cool eggs before putting them into cases. This can be done by putting them in wire or split hickory baskets in the cellar or other cool place for a few hours.

Place eggs in the case small ends down, and keep the cases in a cool place.

Gather eggs at least three times daily in hot weather.

Take eggs to town at least three times a week.

Protect eggs from the sun while taking them to market.

Mr. Caton adds that he has found some producers who don't give proper care to eggs after gathering.

THE GARDEN

TIMELY TOPICS

Cauliflower—As soon as the first sign of the "flower" is seen, it should be shaded by a "tent" of the outer leaves drawn together over it and pinned with a toothpick or a twig. Left exposed, the flower head blasts and becomes discolored and worthless. Any cabbage worms that bother may be stopped with rotenone, not with an arsenical that might introduce the poisoning danger.

Broccoli—The bud clusters should be kept harvested clean, and no bloom should be left to open. Once this happens, further bud-setting stops, the mission of the broccoli plant having been accomplished. Again, rotenone should be used rather than an arsenical, if cabbage worms prove troublesome.

Radishes—With warm weather coming nearer and nearer, gardeners should switch to the white varieties. Icicle and Ladyfinger as they are slower to get hot than the red sorts.

Tomatoes—Spraying bimonthly during June and July with 4-4-50 Bordeaux, or better, with yellow copper oxide will help to keep the foliage clean and will be more fruit with better size and sweeter flavor. Another spray that is good is a pint of 5 per cent rotenone dust to one gallon of water, so they can be sold in the latter part of May.

The need of belts for aviation clothes will increase incomes from late lambs this year. By shearing late lambs the latter part of July, their wool should be about the right length when they are sold in October or November to permit the use of their pelts for the manufacture of suits for aviators.

Level Up Heels

If the heels of your shoes have become worn over, even to an eighth or an inch, take them to a shoe shop and have them leveled. It is bad for your feet to wear shoes run over, but it is not necessary to buy new heels immediately this happens. Heels can be leveled off at many times. At all drug stores. Get Dodd's today!

Louisville Market

President Roosevelt's orders that other canned food will be released only as needed for war materials abroad, and to admit that into the country free of duty, should be a great help to the wood, heel and other farm commodities. However, it should be remembered that there will be no lowering in the present.

THIS WEEK IN THE WAR

During the past week news has been anxiously sought from the Libyan desert and from the Pacific front. For nearly two weeks the mechanized forces of General Rommel have been engaged in a life and death struggle with the 8th. British army for control of the port of Tobruk and the highway to Egypt. Since Wednesday night Japanese and American naval and air forces have been fighting it out in the north Pacific from Midway Island to Dutch Harbor in the Aleutians.

Libya: Over the sands of western Libya the tanks of both armies have struggled against terrific heat and sand storms. The battle lines have been moved back and forward as one or the other of the foes has been making the attack. Overhead airplanes have roared and dived to attack concentrations of planes, tanks and trucks. The British seem at this writing to have held the upper hand throughout the battle area as a whole. They have been able to smash and smash the Germans as a five to three superiority in planes in the air. They have also turned the Germans and Italians from breaking their line of fortified positions and have apparently been able to meet attack with counter-attack and maneuver with his mother. Mrs. W. Farm Purchasing Power Stabilized by Price Ceiling

The purchasing power of farm products will be stabilized at an opportune time, if the price ceiling regulation recently announced by Price Administrator Henderson has the anticipated effect of generally holding retail and wholesale prices at present levels, according to Dr. H. H. Price, head of the department of markets and rural finance of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The prices received by farmers since July, 1941, have been the most favorable in relation to the cost of farming and farm family living of any comparable period since 1919, he declares. In these past 10 months the relative price of farm prices as paid to farmers has averaged about 100, or parity.

If the trend continues Dr. Price, the prices of farm products have been going up fast, but than the cost of farming and farm family living. This situation is due largely to during 1941 which was a prosperous year generally for Kentucky farmers. There are other factors of things that farmers may have been advancing rapidly, but the most beneficial effect of the earlier advantage of rising prices of farm products. The price ceiling regulation was issued in the expectation that it will stop the unfavorable decrease.

Oldham Girl Wins Records Contest

Three things home accounts do, says Babe G. Jesse, Oldham county, Kentucky winner of a blue ribbon in the national 4-H club accounting contest. They give facts on the cost of living, the value received for it and they improve saving habits.

Eighty lives with her parents and has completed six years of 4-H club work which included accounting for the last four years. Next September she will receive an expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago and in November, which pays for a trip to Louisville as winner of the International Harvester Company.
