THIS WEEK IN THE WAR

The primary theater of the war during the past week has appeared again to be in southern Russia, around Stalingrad and the lower valley of the Volga. There the German armies of General vonBock have been hammering persistently at the Russian defenders. The defense had been stubborn and has undoubtedly taken a heavy toll of life and material from the attackers. According to reports from Moscow and Berlin the defense of Stalingrad has been one of desperation. One is reminded of the slogan of the French at Verdun in the first World War, "They Shall Not Pass."

The defense of Stalingrad is the key to the Volga line that all-important link in the life of all of central Russia. The capture of Stalingrad, which lies on the west bank of the Volga at the point of its nearest approach to the main westerly Don River, would mean that the Germans had cut that line of transport by which the armies in the south lit would not be necessary for the Germans to move on and engage in the west or in Egypt. But the Russians still hold Stalingrad, to push on further this year. With the fighting around Stalingrad, the Germans could then push northward to the Moscow and establish a strong defense line along the Volga. Late reports indicate that the Germans have been attacking just south of Voronezh, which leads to the above conclusion, that the Germans are seeking to establish the Volga as a defense line for the winter, as soon as possible. That would permit them to move men and equipment to other fronts, perhaps in the west or in Egypt. But the Russians still hold the Caucasus and their armies have not been destroyed. Their effective forces remain intact. They still are willing to fight desperately and intelligently. So long as that situation continues there is no reason to hope that the Russians have enough strength to keep the Germans busy on that front, all winter.

Elsewhere there has been little of importance to report. The Japanese seem to have crossed the mountains in New Guinea and to be within 30 miles of Port Moresby, but that does not seem to be a real threat to Port Moresby, unless they can attack it also by sea in force and more effectively from the air than they have. In the Solomons action of minor importance seems to have occurred. That may be preliminary to other more important moves, but thus far it has had only a nuisance value against the American forces there. Japanese have suffered commoratively heavy losses for the minor importance of the movements thus far. The British have undertaken to occupy all of the island of Madagascar off the east coast of Africa, in the Indian Ocean. In the Belgian Congo some troops from there have landed. Africa will probably be the winter battlefield.

Dental Trailer Will Be Here

It was announced today by the Nicholas County Health Department that Doctor R. F. Grider, Assistant Director of the Kentucky Bureau of Dental Health, would arrive in Carlisle on October 10th. Doctor Grider will have at his disposal a new dental trailer which is modern in every way including facilities for all dental work. This trailer will later be on exhibition in the City of Carlisle.

Tentative plans have been made for this dental unit and operator to visit all the schools of Carlisle and Nicholas County and to examine the teeth of all children and to make such recommendations as are necessary. He will then work with the indigent children of the first three grades of all schools in a schedule which will be announced at a later date.

Is REPEAL a Success

No Liquor Is Our Nation's "Fifth Columnist"

Do you mean to tell us that a strong land that plans to whip the Axis Powers will surrender on the Home Front to the enemy Strong Drink? Give up to liquor.

Do you mean to tell us that a nation that can control sugar, tires and gasoline cannot handle bootleggers poking fruit jars through a hole in the fence? We can and we will drive the curse of liquor off our streets and the bootlegger into a respectable business or to a sentence behind the bars. We must do this or see drunkenness and inefficiency strangle us and defeat us in this war.

F. B. I. figures show arrests for drunkenness increased 83.1% from 1932 to 1939. Nearly 100%.

There are 437,000 saloons and roadhouses in America. (One for every 71 homes.) Eleven saloons for every five churches.

America is drinking herself to ruin at the rate of 14½ gallons per year for every man, woman and child in the land. (Figures from Treasury Department in Washington.)

Many young people who grew up in Prohibition in Carlisle never saw a drunk man, now our sons and daughters see demonstrations of the success of "Repeal" every week as drunks line our streets.
