April Fools Day— Watch Your Step!

Today Thursday, is the first of April. This day is also known as "All Fools Day."

Watch your step and don't get fooled by more than thirteen of your friends. If today was Saturday "In the Old Days," you might have gotten it thirteen times.

Electric Connections Now Available

The County Acent has just received word from manayers of local R. E. A. Co-ops and other officials that new W. P. B. orders make more liberal the requirements for new customers to secure the electric current. Under this new ruling anyone who need not go further than five hundred feet to an established line may secure the current even if it will have five animal units. Furthermore a farther distance than 500 feet to exceed one thousand feet may be secured even if there is only one animal unit per one thousand feet.

It was understood that where several could get together and pay for an extension line, that under certain circumstances this limit might be run providing the animal units per one hundred feet. More will about these requirements and the necessity for rural use of electric current to feed our armies may be secured from Project managers or Power Superintendents in the local R. E. A. Co-ops.

Farm Women Save Rationing Stamps

Don't use food ration stamps that was the advice of Mrs. Ruby Fiscal Assistant in charge of the Tucky Federation of Homemakers, when she discussed the rationing of foods at a meeting of Homemakers from 10 counties, meeting in Lexington recently. Mrs. Fiscal urged that women of the farm consider carefully the foods they need before they use their stamps. "Don't buy because you are pressed for time and can't think what you need," she said. "Make out your menus and plan for something else. Don't buy because your neighbor is buying. Don't use stamps for foods you don't need. Don't buy because you have stamps and can't think what you want. Just smile when you are asked if you have stamps and point to something else. Don't buy because you have a coupon and point to something else. Don't buy because you have a coupon and point to something else. Don't buy because you have a coupon
