REGARDING PAPER SHORTAGE
(Shelbyville News)
There is a new paper shortage and it is a real one. It is not a new one. It is as disturbing a prospect for a newspaper as it would be for a hot raiser to look in his crib and see his corn supply nearly gone and with no chance to replenish it.
Price advances are occurring with alarming regularity but it isn't only the higher costs that are causing worry. The public often is willing to pay more for such necessities as newspapers but there is nothing to be done about a paper famine.
This time the cry of "wolf" is a real one, writes Harold Fleming, writing in the Christian Science Monitor, calling attention to a year ago a "phony" shortages. Rectifying the wastefulness drive this writer says that waste paper accumulated in the spring and summer of 1942 as the authorities, apparently unwilling to admit an error, did not materialize well over the collection but it fade out as the public grasped that there was no "shortage" in news paper shortage."
But there is no denying the shortage this time. Limited stocks used to carry a few old items a month and found in the month needs, now are in sight for refurbishing and the factory remains intact. The year's deficit now is around a million tons. Presumably this will mean more restrictions and more price increases.

"It's Made It's Way
By
The Way It's Made"

SMASH THIS MONOPOLY:
An editorial in the Jacksonville (Fla.) Journal.
Flying smack into the face of its own anti-inflationary protestations, the Office of Price Administration has just granted the Canadian newsprint trust an increase of $4 per ton, effective September 1, every penny of which, the total running into millions of dollars will be borne by the people of the United States. Newspaper publishers, of course, will be called on to pay the bill.
Why, in the middle of its campaign for rollback prices in other commodities, the OPA chooses to bring on higher prices for newsprint defies reason. OPA's left hand may wish to ignore what its right hand is doing. But Congress, and the people, as well as newspaper publishers, peanut ignore the sinister fact that the lines have been tightened. And they will be again and again, trapped as they are between the Scylla of a Canadian monopoly that knows what it wants and the Charybdis of an irresolute OPA, unless effective steps are taken at once to halt the gouging.
Clearly two things are of utmost and immediate concern:
1. OPA's inflationary decree must be rescinded before September 1, and hereafter extreme caution must seek to prevail upon OPA Chief Prentiss Brown to avoid the increase.
2. The Canadian newsprint monopoly must be broken. This can be done by development of a farm program that may be had in the United States. It can be reasonably assured by the removal from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other government agencies.
There is no time to lose. Every publisher in the United States and every reader who can appreciate the implications of the contemplated price rise should at once request his representatives in the end of OPA a cancellation of the 54 hike in newsprint costs.
The matter concerns us all. Newsprint readers as well as publishers know that the cost of newspaper production has increased tremendously since the outbreak of the war. To the ordinary rises in commodity prices, not little was contributed by the total increase in the many, often confusing, rulings and regulations of various governmental agencies. Publishers at first absorbed the increases, but when there became too burdensome advertisers' rates then were increased, and in turn to go up. Now comes the Canadian trust's monopolistic gouge.
Is it not time that the influence of newspapers be halted? Aggressive representative and every senator has a duty to use all the influence at his command to end OPA's gift to the Canadian monopoly rescinded.
It is not necessary to claim that the American people are entitled to cheap newsprint, as indeed may be the case. It is enough to know, as all the while must know, that the OPA has permitted to fold up a monopoly costs are about to be used to control; it is enough to know that the OPA has permitted to be imposed unjustified services, news and otherwise, on the remaining newspapers. It is enough to know that the wonder of the rest of the world has made it possible for OPA to attack upon it by a Canadian monopoly with OPA's assistance. It can be built here.
To set the OPA order rescinded, to break the Canadian monopoly, to halt the rise in newsprint costs are urgent business. Failure to get ourselves free of the U. S. Canadian monopoly means only the encouragement of the development of a similar industry to exist.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICANS
COVER WITH WILLKIE

Virgil Shield, Republican candidate for State Senator from Fayette county, was a guest of Republican leaders at Richmond Saturday. Shield, a three-man race, received what he considered to call his platform at Richmond. His post-primary statement filed in the Secretary of State's office.

Skipping over naming the administration and Senate contenders except to say they were "friends," Shield said the keynote days came from L. B. Young, who lives near the little bend of Green River in Hardin county.

"They're good days, too," Shield said with pride. "Young is a Democrat, elected by the Democratic Legislature, and Roger [illegible] Republican, elected by the Republican Legislature. Both are [illegible] Democrat Governor Simeon Willis."

Shield declined to discuss politics [illegible] with the 1940 Republican candidate for President, but [illegible] matters going on in Kentucky politics were aired.

CIVILIAN TO SOLDIER

Why should you float on a flaming sea,
Adrift on a rubber raft . . . for me—
While I complain that the passing day
Is not lavishly lived in the present way?
Why should your skies be drop-ping dusky,
Hammering, screaming, stilling your breath—
While I loll beneath a peaceful sky,
Telling the world how the war should be won?
Why should your youth blame-less and brave,
Rich oblivion in an Arctic grave—
While I crowd markets, eager to buy
Necessities without which you may die?
Today you fight on a foreign strand,
Living like savage people in-deed—
That Freedom to me may live
I'm not too proud to question "Why"
At a time when men must fight and die.
But my duty is clear—to give my all
My body, my bounty—lest you fail!
—Ila Josephine Brittain in the Kansas City Star.

SIMPLIFIED TAX FORMS FOR FILING DECLARATIONS

Second Major Step Under Current Tax Act To "Pay-As-You Go" Basis

FILING REQUIRED BY SEPT. 15

Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, today announced that forms and printed instructions for the filing of estimated income and Victory tax declarations on or before next September 15 as required by the new Current Tax Payment Act, are now being distributed to individual taxpayers by the Collectors of Internal Revenue.

Filing of the declarations will be the second major step in under the Current Tax Payment Act in converting the Federal individual income tax system to a "pay-as-you-go" basis. The first step was the inauguration on July 1 of the new withholding plan, under which the Victory tax is now to come tax and first bracket surtaxes are paid by millions of persons through deductions from their wages and salaries.

The payment declarations is to make current in their tax payments all those persons, whose regular, and Victory tax liability will be fully covered by collections through withholding and other credits
