IT'S YOUR DUTY TO VOTE

Saturday is the day when all voters have the opportunity to express their choice among the candidates who will be nominated on the ten tickets to be voted for in November. From all indications the interest is below par. Voters have many other interests —war, safety of loved ones in the battle zones, food questions, rationing and a thousand and one other things considered more vital to living than the election. An election is always an important event. The balance of power rests in the hands of the voters. The continuation of good government through the ballot box is a paramount issue. Full and free use of the ballot guarantee good government and the blessings that go with it.

It is, therefore, the duty of every eligible voter to become interested in politics. It is a sacred duty to vote regardless who you are for. This is one of the most important elections in many years. Interest in this county seems to center around the contests between Donaldson and Kilgore in the Governor's race and Smart and Prichard in the Democratic race. The Moberly boys has retrained from taking any part in any of the Primary races. Outstanding men in the field of public service are offering themselves to the voters in this campaign. It is up to the voters to nominate this type of candidate and then do everything within their power to bring about their election in November. You can help select such a ticket if you will go to the polls Saturday and see that your neighbors and friends do likewise and vote for those candidates you know are making the race not from a selfish motive but wholly from a desire to be of service to the State and her citizenry.

THE THREAT BEHIND FREE MAIL

As far back as anyone can remember the post office department has shown an operating loss at the end of each year. And, on several occasions, this ever-present deficit has been projected by some congressmen as arguments in favor of increasing postal rates. Such a move again threatens.

Through heightened efficiency and economy of operation, the department in the last 10 years has trimmed its annual deficit from 112 million dollars to only 14 millions. However, there is still a deficit and as long as it exists it is a potential lever with which some legislators may try to raise postal rates.

This deficit is due entirely to the free mail carried for the many government departments and agencies. The volume of this mail has multiplied five-fold in the last ten years. Last year the postal department estimated that if this free mail had been paid for, it would have brought 72 million dollars into its coffers, wiping out the 14 million dollar deficit and leaving a 58 million dollar profit. Thus it is clear that the way to turn the department's loss into gain and eliminate this threat to rates is to revoke the free mailing privilege and require the agencies to pay postage on all mail they send out.

Business mail users and private individuals as well would suffer from an increase of rates at this time. A means to avert this postal rate menace and combat any moves in that direction is passage of the Burch Bill. (H. R. 2001) which provides that all government departments and bureaus be required to pay postage on all mail they send out. Active support of this bill would be in the interests of all mail users, the post office department, and sound governmental accounting.

CARDS ON THE TABLE

Evidence piles up to indicate that there not only is a determined effort being made in this country to make the government supreme in the lives and affairs of every individual, but that there has long been a definitely worked out program to accomplish that end.

We have seen the electric power industry dominated by a deliberate program to socialize it. We have seen the credit and banking machinery of the nation slowly but surely dominated by centralized authority. We have seen the owners of coal mines jockeyed out of control and operation of their properties. We see definite evidence of an attempt to have the government step into the field of oil production, in spite of the record service rendered by the American oil industry. And now there are warnings that American railroads may be used as a springboard for a vast post-war program of socialized public works.

The foregoing "softening up" of private enterprise all ties in with the recently prepared program of the National Resources Planning Board. It has been repeatedly pointed out in the press and in Congress that many officials on our public payrolls are working free or directing the boards and bureaus that have been planning a program of state socialism as another "emergency" project when this war is over.

It is no exaggeration to say that the day is rapidly approaching when we must decide whether we want to remain free citizens or travel the road of government-dominated serfs.

That Senator B. Frey enterprise is recognized is indicated by recent news reports from Cincinnati, where Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel Company, took time in a recent address said that industry must "cut the apron strings" of politics by proclaims whether they are for free enterprise or against it. Mr. Sykes might have said, whether they are for free citizens or serfs. Between them, because these can be no free citizens without free enterprise. You are no longer a free man when you are dependent on government for your daily job, your shelter or your bread and butter.

POLLS OF PUBLIC OPINION

Recent polls of public opinion show that Governor Dewey of New York is leading all other Republicans as the favorite for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1944. For instance Dewey gets 53 per cent and Wilkie 27 per cent in New York State. Dewey gets 27 per cent and Wilkie 19 per cent in Illinois. Dewey insists that he is not a candidate but of course he could be drafted for the nomination.

On every corner lot Wilkie is described as a politician "of vision" by the politicians, especially by the Republican leaders in the out of Congress. In that connection the ability of politicians to switch to the leading candidate was shown in the 1940 Republican National Convention in which Wilkie trailed the procession in early voting until the politicians all jumped aboard his band wagon and nominated him with many loud whoops. The big political bosses change their minds quicker than the proverbial jack rabbit.

All of this adds up to the inevitable conclusion that the chances are about 50-50 as to whether it will be Dewey or Willkie. But as Mr. Roosevelt has observed, "It is too early to talk about the 1944 Presidential election." That's different!

Dr. Fortune's "Point Of View" Letter

Newton Brothers, Ben Kilgore's Chairman for Nicholas county, is interested in the editorial by Dr. A. W. Fortune and he would be glad for Nicholas county people to read this editorial since Dr. Fortune is well known in this section and highly respected throughout Kentucky. Dr. Fortune's "Point of View" letter is as followed:

"I have been an interested and appreciative reader of the Courier-Journal, but I was amazed at the argument in the first part of the editorial on Lyter Donaldson in the issue of July 22. The position taken in that editorial should be condemned by those who are interested in honest government.

"The editorial admits that Mr. Donaldson received money from a corporation which he did not request and that he knew he was violating the Corrupt Practices Act. The justification for this procedure was that it has been generally practiced. The editorial corrects this and says it will continue "until somebody goes to jail for it." Inasmuch as the time limit makes it impossible to send Mr. Donaldson to jail and thus end the practice the best thing to do is to elect him Governor. That is the kind of argument that will continue this corrupt practice which has a tendency to make the common man lose confidence in politics.

"The editorial states that there is no doubt about the guilt of individuals or corporations that make campaign gifts but it expresses doubt about the guilt of the one who receive these gifts. I had the impression that the one who secured someone to commit a crime from which he was benefitted was the most guilty.

"I have been a pastor of Central Christian Church in Lexington for more than 21 years, and have not at any time participated actively in a political campaign. I do not mean to discuss the merits of the candidates for Governor, but as a citizen of Kentucky, who is vitally interested in honesty in politics, I want to register my protest against any attempt to endorse a practice which will inevitably contribute to corruption.

SUMMER STORM

When the old earth seems tired and worn
And half afraid to greet the morn,
Lest dawn shall see the sun return
To sear and parch and scorch and burn,
Then plant and vine and humans mourn
Tall heart discovering a cloud.

Far off within the western sky
A thunderhead is drawing nigh.
A great expanse of fluffy white
The promise of a storm at night.
Which may a benediction bring
And drink for every thirsty thing

"A storm is coming" — is the cry
Of every grateful passer-by.
The weary, dusty earth again
Takes heart with the approaching rain
The cattle seem to watch the skies
With grateful and approving eyes

The farmer hurrying through the gale,
Calls to his wife with heart elate
"All's saved, and all our fears have gone."
A storm is surely drawing on!
We have not sowed the fields in vain
The Lord is sending us the rain"
